STRIKERS SEEM

Municipal Employees Flocking To Request Their Jobs Back.

WINNIPEG, May 28 .- The chief bone of contention in the Winnipeg strike situation, namely, collective bargaining, may be arbitrated.

Executives of the Winnipeg trades whether the union forces were willing to accept the mediation offer of a committee representing the Canadian railway brotherhoods. President James Winning replied: "If the railway brotherhoods are willing to mediate, I do not think the central strike committee will object."

It was stated later, however, that the employers in the metal trades had accepted the offer of the railway brotherhood to mediate on the question of the collective hergaline.

The crew of the Mary had considerable trouble in launching a boat, and Capt. Duhn said he doubted whether it would have been possible to do so had the airplane appeared an hour later than it did.

Hawker and Grieve were greatly exhausted after the rescue, the captain said, so much so that they declined proffered food in order to obtain needed sleep. Capt. Duhn declared that the aviators naturally were upset because the Mary had no wireless, and they were unable to inform their relatives that they were safe. The captain said that Hawker also was much disappointed because he was unable to salvage the airplane so that he might learn definitely the captain said, "the machine had already that they were work Difficuit.
