SIX SCRATCH HITS AND 6 RUNS

Story of Beaumont's Unique Performance in Game at Pittsburgh.

Clarence Beaumont has made another shift and is now on the payroll of the Chicago National League Club. He has been released by the Boston Club and has joyfully been accepted by Chicago.

Beaumont was one of the most popular players that ever wore a Pittsburgh uniform, says The Gazette Times. He was not only an affable man with a bad trait, but he was a ball player from head to foot. He shone in every department of the game, batting, fielding and baserunning. His great feat at Exposition Park, when he made six hits at six times up, and scored six runs will never be forgotten by those who witnessed it, and it will go down in baseball history as one of the brightest games. A peculiar feature of the performance was that not one of his hits went past the infield. A brief account of how the wonderful record was made would probably not prove uninteresting.

The game took place on July 22, 1899, when the Pittsburghs, with Tannehill in the box, met the Philadelphia Phillies. Beaumont led off at bat. At his first time up he knocked the ball to the third baseman, who happened to be Fraser. Fred Clark's brother-in-law, and beat the throw to first. There were two umpires, Swartwood behind the bat and Hunt in the field. Beaumont went to second on a sacrifice by McCarthy, to third on a hit by Williams and home on a hit by McCarthy.

At his second time up, in the second inning, Beaumont hit to Chiles at second base, who could not reach the ball in time, and Beaumont was safe. He went to second because McCarthy was given his base on balls, and came home on a three bagger by Williams.

In the fourth inning Beaumont faced the pitcher for the third time and gave the ball a slight tap. It rolled past the pitcher with Catcher Douglas chasing it and Shortstop Cross coming in for it. Neither got it and again Beaumont was safe. McCarthy dumped the ball into the pitcher's box and was thrown out. Williams made his second three bagger, and of course, Beaumont crossed the plate with ease.

Beaumont's fourth time up was in the fifth inning. Tannehill had preceded him to the bat, got his base on balls and was thrown out attempting to steal second. With the bases clear, Beaumont hit toward short. Monte Cross reached for the ball after a run but succeeded only in deflecting its course, and for the fourth time Beaumont was safe at first. The spectators now sat up and took an additional interest in the game. It is seldom that a player makes four hits in an entire game, but here was Beaumont with four in five innings. Before the people could ask questions, Beau ran to second in that easy, sliding fashion peculiar to him and stole the base. McCarthy disappointed expectations by going out on a fly to the shortstop. It appeared that Clarence had but a poor chance to score, two men being out. So when McCreehy hit a fly to centerfield, where Roy Thomas was at home, it seemed all off. Beau trotted toward third with his eyes on the ball and when he saw Thomas drop it, he dug out for fair and scored for the fourth time.

The fifth time Beaumont went to bat was in the seventh inning. He was the first batter up. To be sure, the spectators hung on to his every movement. In his usual manner he slouched to the plate but this time he did not hinder a mighty yell, which was followed by deep silence as Beau braced himself. He tapped the ball toward second base and once more Chiles was unable to reach it in time. Of course, even if this is midwinter, everybody can imagine what the crowd did. Beau went to second on a single by McCarthy and to third because Williams was given his base on balls, filling the corners. After McCreehy went out on a foul fly, Pop Schriver hit for a single, and Beaumont scored his fifth run amid deafening cheers.

When Beaumont went to bat for the sixth time there was the same tumult and the same quietness that characterized his last two appearances; this in spite of the fact that there were two out. Once more he tapped the ball toward second and this time Chiles grabbed it successfully and fung it to Dick Cooley at first. But Beau was there ahead of the throw. Imagine a park full of frantic people. McCarthy hit to right field for a single and Beau dashed to second, rounded it and set sail for third. He just kept on homeward when he saw that Flick's throw to catch him went wild. He had performed a feat never before seen, and which probably never again will be seen.

In passing it might be mentioned that in that game the Pittsburghs scored in every inning but one, the third. The final score was 18 to 4 in their favor.

BLAMES CENTRAL BODY

For Failure of Ward Six Conservatives to Amalgamate.

A member of the executive of Ward Six Conservative Association tells The World that the position of that association in the matter of amalgamation with other Conservative Associations has been misrepresented. The proposal came from the Central Association of Ward Six, which invited Ward Six Association and the Independent association to a conference. This conference was fairly unanimous for amalgamation, and a plan was tentatively agreed upon subject to ratification by the various bodies. Then Ward Six executive decided that before any further action was taken the membership books should be compared to see how far the names were duplicated. Representatives of the three associations were invited to meet for this purpose, and the books of Ward Six and the Independent association were produced, but by direction of President Mann of the Central Association, the representatives of that body refused to produce their books. The secretary also stated that all the association had done was to express a willingness to discuss the plan of amalgamation.

At a meeting of Ward Six executive on Monday night, after hearing the report of their executive, they decided that it would be useless to make any further attempts toward amalgamation. The story that President Orr and his friends turned down A. W. Wright's plan of amalgamation was declared by The World's informant to be absurd, as the report, which was unanimously adopted by the executive and upon which this body acted, was made by Wright, and there was absolutely no division of opinion in the meeting.

More than half of the members of the executive of Ward Six are also members of one of the other two associations, and every one of those approved of the action of the executive.

Red in the Flag. It is entirely appropriate, as it were, that red—the war color—should appear so frequently in the flags of the various nations. Of the flags of the countries of the Eastern Hemisphere there is only one that of Greece—which does not show the martial color. In the Western Hemisphere, however, we find several standards not showing red. The flag of the Argentine Republic, Brazil, Nicaragua, Uruguay and Honduras contain no red.

In this country there is no red in the Union Jack nor in the flag of the secretary of the navy, the admiral of the navy, the rear admiral senior in rank and the rear admiral junior in rank. Red appears in the pennant of the rear admiral second in rank, and the pennant of the revenue marine. The United States mail flag also shows red, and that color is also found in the pennants for the vessel of the light-house service, the yacht ensign, the ensign of the revenue marine, the president's and the secretary of war's standards.

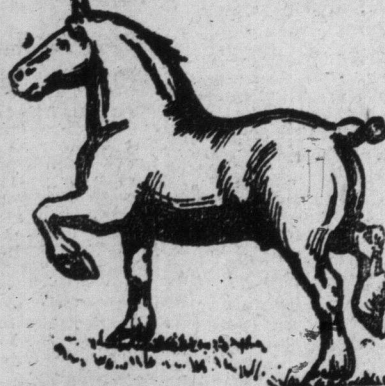

The flags that are almost entirely red, except for the devices shown thereon, are those of Austria-Hungary, Egypt, Morocco and Japan. The flag of Turkey is practically of solid red. After the most prevalent color in flags is blue, Harper's Weekly.

THE TERRIBLE "THIRD DEGREE"

No Redress for Police Brutality in New York and Chicago.

From the inquisition of the "Third Degree," as we find it in New York and Chicago, the private citizen has no redress nor appeal. It is a power which is carlike in its supremacy. To attack it thru the clogged channels of the law, is to enter on a legal battle which may stretch thru years of time and involve an expense of tens of thousands of dollars, with the odds against a favorable verdict, no matter how persistent and stubborn the fight. We may not like to think of the American law so futile in its protection as this. Some of us may even refuse to accept this statement as true. We are not dealing with the just-covered theories of Blackstone, remember. We are dealing with a law which is higher and surer than Blackstone—the law of machine politics. The police know this to be a fact, whether you do or not. The police administration of the average American city is so thoroughly entrenched behind the menacing power of the corrupted ballot that it can literally snap its fingers at any law that would set itself above it.

Do you
