LADIES' DAY AT COUNCIL MEETING

Aldermen Willing to Allow Married Women to Vote, But Procedure Necessitates Delay.

Dr. Augusta Stowe Gullen, president of the Women's Suffrage Association, and Mrs. Stevens, president of the Toronto branch of the W.C.T.U., headed a deputation of ladies who appeared before the city council yesterday to urge fore the city council yesterday to urge that married women should be given the same right to vote allowed to property-owning spinsters and widows.

Mrs. Stowe-Gullen deplored the fact that the Ontario Government had been so indifferent to the public weal as to reject the proposal that married women be given the franchise. The speaker asked that men's narrow prejudice be abandoned, and that they "contemplate the full enormity" of placing married ladies in a class apart from others in the exercise of the ballot. Dr. Stowe-Gullen read an article recounting the spread of women's suffrage in the Unit-Gullen read an article recounting the spread of women's suffrage in the United States and Great Britain, where women were now eligible to seek election as mayors and aldermen. The speaker concluded by reading a resolution passed by the association, urging the desired extension of the voting right. Mrs. Stevens, retiring in favor of Inspector J. L. Hughes, the latter asserted that it was "supremely ridiculous" spector J. L. Hughes, the latter assert-ed that it was "supremely ridiculous" that young women who were "foolish enough to get married" should lose the franchise until such time as they might become widows. The sex basis was an illogical one, since it ruled out of the voting right, thinking young ladies, while it left the door open to young men of losse habits of living.

Complete Change in Fasshion.

To say that there is a positive evolution now going on in the world of fashon is to say no more than the truth. The walking suit, always the crucial test alike of a woman's taste, and the sartorial tendency of the period, is as different as possible from that of recent years.

The skirt is, in the first place, no longer the popular platted model. Still strictly tailored in style, it is now circular-gored, and usually plain, tho trimmings of an elaborate sort may be expected in the near future, and it is longer than formerly by a good is longer than formerly by a good deal, just missing the ground.

The coat we are already familiar with. It is cut with graceful long lines, and admirably designed for the full skirt beneath, with its high waist-pend and gracefully flowing lines on band and gracefully flowing lines on the hips. Velvet is positively the fathe hips. Velvet is positively the fabric in which to carry out such styles, and will become more and more the vegue as the winter season goes on.

Really the least difficult problem in a girl's wardrobe is the evening dress. It is correct if it be pretty, and it is pretty if it be chosen in any dainty fabric from inexpensive muslin silver tissue, veiled with rose-point or painted chiffon. This year's frocks are supplemented in almost every case by colored slippers and the daintiest of stockings, and the fancy petticoat is more than ever necessary to the ward-
