EDWARD HOGAN'S BROTHER DROWNED

Life Lost When He Fell From Launch While Lumbering.

A telegram yesterday brought to Edward Hogan of this city the sad and distressing news that his only brother, John S. Hogan, had been accidentally drowned in the State of Washington last Thursday, and up to last night his body had not yet been recovered. Information regarding details of the accident is meagre, but from telegrams and night letters received by Mr. Hogan it was learned that he fell from a launch while on a timber cruising trip in Hood's Canada, about 100 miles from Seattle. He was in the lumber business and made his headquarters at Stanwood, Wash., near where the accident occurred. Attempts which have been made to recover the body have so far been unsuccessful. The late Mr. Hogan was a son of the late Walter and Bridget Hogan, and besides his brother, Edward, he is survived by two sisters, Miss Agnes B. Hogan and Mrs. Edward O'Malley, both of Stanwood. He was unmarried. He was born in the State of Maine, but left some forty years ago for the Western United States, where he engaged in the lumbering business, and has met with considerable success. He has been east for some twenty or twenty-five years, when he visited his brother here.

According to advice received here, the accident in which Mr. Hogan lost his life occurred on Thursday, October 11 at 2 p. m. It is Edward Hogan's intention to leave some time this week for Stanwood to assist in the looking after of his brother's estate. His many friends in St. John and vicinity will extend to him their deepest sympathy in his sad and sudden bereavement.

"SNAPS" MOOSE AT TWENTY-FIVE FEET

Worcester Man Gets Great Pictures in Woods of New Brunswick.

A party of well-known hunting guides, headed by Jack Duran, with their wives and families, attended Imperial Theatre in a body Saturday night, having come from the Clarenceville district at the invitation of J. C. Bushong of Worcester, Mass., who with a party of New England friends had just finished a gun and camera hunt for moose with considerable success. There were eighteen people in the party, guests of the theatre. The special trip was made to the city to see a 1,000-foot moving picture of a moose hunt in the New Brunswick crown lands taken by Mr. Bushong last season and in which the guides mentioned look a prominent part. It is needless to state the film was crammed with interest for them and was also much enjoyed by the large attendance of regular patrons.

Taken at 25 Feet. Mr. Bushong, who is one of New England's chief photographers, told a reporter for The Times that in this year's hunt the sportsmen refrained from shooting their game until the very last possible moment, as he was experimenting with the new DeBris hand camera for taking animated pictures—a very clever invention which does away with clanking and slow-moving tripod cameras. He feels he has secured some wonderful "shots" of the lovely moose, possibly the first in point of nearness and detail ever taken in the New Brunswick woods. In one instance he was only twenty-five feet away, and with telephoto lenses caught the king of the forest in an alert position so near that he will screen immediately in the eye of the watcher. "You will be able to put your hand on his nose," assures the enthusiastic Worcester expert.

Possibly no American is doing more to herald the hunting resources of New Brunswick than Mr. Bushong. He is first of all a lover of nature and delights in the wild woods. Next he is an art who appreciates the value of these close-to-nature scenes and never fails to record them with his "still" camera, and movie camera. The artistic settings of his 1922 hunt as shown in this city created much comment, even the tilling being pictorially and editorially artistic and laudatory of this province.

During the last season The Times had met a considerable number of prominent Americans who are outspoken in their praise of the hunting here, mentioning advantages among them were Maximilian Foster of the Saturday Evening Post, Willard McCullough of New York, America's leading landscape artist; F. Dumont, dean of the Art Students League of America, Frederick Peck of Chicago, industrial magnate and champion fly-caster of the world; W. C. Kilder of Kalamazoo, Mich., a lumber, pulp and iron editorially artistic and laudatory of this province.

All these prominent men and scores of others are yearly visitors to this province and enthusiastically boost it in their respective circles.

MORE MONEY FOR NORTH END FERRY

County Finance Committee to be Told $500 Additional Needed.

Commissioner Wigmore notified the members of the City Council this morning that a meeting of the Municipal Finance Committee would be held this afternoon to deal with an application from the Lancaster and Inlandtown Ferry Commission for an increase of $500 in their appropriation for the new ferry steamer Milford, as the amount voted to put her in commission had been all expended.

Commissioner Frink asked if this would be the "last call to dinner," Commissioner Wigmore said he was not prepared to give any guarantee along this line.

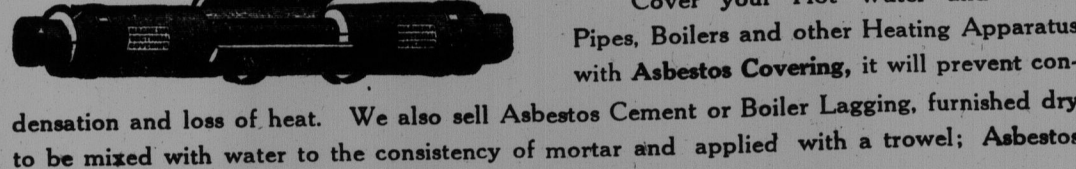

Commissioner Bullock, chairman of the Ferry Commission, said he had not the details to give, but that he would place before the committee by the secretary.

As Hiram Sees It

"Hiram," said The Times reporter to Mr. Hiram Hornbush, "I am not compelled to listen to your blather every day." "That's what Zeke Parsley said to his wife," said Hiram. "He told her when she was givin' him a tongue-lashin' that he didn't her to put up with her naggin'—an' he started for the barn. She followed him to the door an' talked till he got into the barn—an' when he turned agin, she started agin. Seein' it was no use, Zeke went in an' set down till she got out o' wind—an' then they both felt better." "Oh, well," said the reporter resignedly, "go on—what's eatin' you today?" "I jist wanted to say," said Hiram, "that if I knowed that a hundred or more good women thought it wuth while to hev a tag-day as I try to raise some money to git glasses fer poor children, an' hev their teeth fixed an' make 'em gin'ally healthy, so's they'd grow up able to earn their livin' instid o' bein' a burden—I'd be nice an' civil to them women—even if I hedn't a cent to give—an' if I wanted to holler about folks gittin' big salaries an' about tag-days bein' all wrong—I wouldn't throw it at the women—I'd hire a mall. Jist put that in the paper an' say Hiram said so—By Hen!"
