Trenton's Horticultural Society Flower

Trenton, April 27.—As the season for planting and transplanting flowers and shrubs is drawing near, it may not be out of place at this time to make a few suggestions in regard to the planting and culture of Trenton's flower, "The Perennial Phlox."

Why did the Horticultural Society adopt this particular plant for Trenton, may be asked. Several reasons may be given. In the first place it is a very hardy plant and of easy cultivation and will do fairly well in almost any situation or soil.

Again, there are several varieties and they embrace a wide range of color in some of the larger varieties there being as many as one hundred blooming and being a hardy perennial will, with ordinary cultivation, bloom from year to year. In regard to planting, cultivation, etc.: As already stated, the Perennial Phlox will thrive in almost any soil, but from observation the best results have been obtained from a composition of leaves and well rotted manure mixed thoroughly into the soil. If green manure be used, it should not come in contact with the roots of the phlox or any other plant, because when it heats it will burn the roots and thus kill the plant.

The soil should be cultivated to a depth of about fifteen inches and the roots placed about two and a half feet apart, and the soil packed firmly around the roots at time of planting to prevent the air from drying the roots and soil before plant takes root.

As phlox takes a great deal of nourishment out of the soil, or in other words is a great feeder, they should be lifted and divided every few years as old clumps are apt to degenerate if left too long in the same place.

Since the Society gives gratis to each of its members two roots, we would suggest that more be purchased as they can be had at reduced rates. Why not make Trenton the best "flower town" between Toronto and Montreal? It may not be made such this year, but let each and every citizen put forth some effort to enhance his surroundings and let us have "Trenton the Beautiful."

God made the flowers to beautify the earth, and their man's careful mood. And he is happiest who hath power To gather wisdom from a power, And make his heart in every hour To beat with pleasant gratitude.—Advocate.
