good Yankee story. Now, if you will learn to walk the slack wire I can give you $3 a week."

With this tempting offer I joined "Old Cary" and imediately went into practice preparatory to an extended tour throughout the State.

A fall from the slack wire in too close proximity to a crowbar fixed in the ground to secure the end of the wire ended my loftler aspirations, and thereafter I pursued my course on a common level, appearing in the farces and making myself generally useful. Shall I tell you of my walk of thirty-six miles, with my wardrobe tied up in a yellow handkerchief under my arm; of my offering an entertainment alone at the small places, for which the boys drove me into the river and pummeled me; of my living three days on one chicken; of my having, at the little town of Merodosis. Ill., where there was no printing office, taken one bill from my bundle and a bell and roused up the community; of my taking my bill from house to house through the town and exhibiting my abilities and talents entire that evening to receipts of $5 cents? But, mind you, there was no misery in those days; I was very happy and hopeful; so when I found myself at eighteen as the second low comedian at Ben De Bar's Theater in St. Louis, my true ambition had been largely satisfied. My experience, too, under De Par was the most valuable I had, because it brought me finto contact with the pullar stars of the day.

A man talks about owning his business. But, as a matter of fact his business owns him. His whole life is business owns him. His whole life is regulated by the demands of the business. The time at which he rises, his breakfast hour, the time given to meals, are all determined by business obligations. He rushes through lunch because he "can't spare the time from business" to eat leisurely. He won't take a rest because he is needed at the store or office. He is in fact an absolute slave to business. The results which follow this slavery are to be seen on every hand. Men dyspeptic, which follow this slavery are to be seen on every hand. Men dyspeptic, irritable, nervous, with drawn faces, and hollow eyes, sit at the desk or stand behind the counter until they collapse in a fit of sickness, or are taken away by heart failure. This means disaster and death when This means disaster and death when applied to a fast express train. It is equally serious when it refers to people whose blood is disordered and who consequently have pimples and sores, bad stomachs, deranged kidneys, weak nerves and that tired feeling. Hood's Sirsaparilla puts the wheels back on the track by making pure, rich blood and curing these troubles. My duties as an actor in the Cairo company were various; often have I appeared as a heavy villain with an ill-fitting beard and a broadsword in the first play, changing to a timid village maiden for the Maypole dance in the closing play, besides giving my songs between the acts and playing the drum in the orchestra—all in one evening, for a total salary of $6 perweek—some weeks. evening, for a total salary of 36 per-week—some weeks.

YOUTHFULEYES.

Many Women are as Careful of Their Eyes as They are of Their Complexions outhful eyes are a woman's constant care.

Many women are as careful of their their eyes as they are of their complexions. Every morning they are opened in a bath of said and water. It first there is great winking and blinking, but in a short time the eyes grow accustomed to the dip and they like Sait and water is a fine tonic. It not only keeps the eyes clear, but it helps stumpy lashes along. At night the lids enjoy a couple of pads of cotton wet in hot water. Dip-ping the hands in hot water and gently bathing the lids is very soothing. When my eyes ache I use my grandmother's remedy. The dear old lady believed in tea grains. She would bind them on her lids, and she used to drench a cloth wet in weak black tea when her eyes felt very tired. She had a rose-leaf lotion too. It was made by pouring hot water over the dried leaves, letting them get cool before using the wash.

An up-to-date oculist calls such lore nonsense. Bless him, he can afford superior scorn, for he is certainly a blessing to all classes if he understands his profession. More headachy women have been helped by having their eyes treated. It is such agony never to be able to go anywhere without trotting home with a headache. Weak eyes will spoil in this way the best part of one's life. Tepid water should be used for the first eye bath of the day. The eyes must be opened and the water allowed to trickle under the lids, in this way bathing the ball of the eye. Dry the eyes with a soft towel, always wiping them inward toward the nose. Wonderful sight is supposed to be the blessing of a silver-haired matron because, as she says, all her lifetime she has taken this precaution. Be careful not to press on the ball of the eye. Oculists say that the nattening of the lens of the eye is one of the signs of old age. Wiping the eyes toward the bridge of the nose will also smooth out lines at the corners of the

THE NATURE OF MICE

It is Somewhat of a Puzzle to the flum

Mind Until You Understand It. Few people understand the mystery of mice. I think I can, without immodesty, claim to understand mice, for I have made them a study for many years. I used to think that nature supplied mice wherever there seemed to be any call for them. For example, if you live in a house where there are no mice, and in a rash moment provide yourself with a mouse trap, or set up a cat, mice will im-mediately make their appearance. To the superficial observer this looks as if nature, perceiving that you have a mouse trap, proceeds to supply mice for it, or noticing that you have a cat, sends mice enough to satisfy the animal. But this is not the true explanation. In order to understand mice you must grasp the fact that the mouse is an animal with a keen sense of humor and a love of excitement. With this key in your possession you can readily unlock the mystery of mice.

That the mouse has a sense of humor is conspicuously shown by the way in which he will rattle a newspaper in your bedroom at night. The mouse does not eat hewspapers, neither does he put them to any domestic use. He merely makes a noise with them, knowing that of all sounds the midnight rustle of a newspaper is the one which will most successfully banish sleep from your eyes. If a mouse finds an eligible newspaper in your bed room he will settle himself down to a night of fun and jollity. He will rattle that newspaper tilt morning, and the only effect of throwing boots at him, or of getting up and lighting the gas and searching for him, with a pokwill be that he will hide himself tili you lie down to sleep and then resume his little newspaper game. If this does not show a sense of humor it would be difficult to say what it does show. Then there is the well-known fact that no sooner does a mouse trap or cat enter a house than it is followed by a troop of mice. Cats and traps. draw mice as the pole draws the magnet. The mouse loves the game of teasing the cat fy stimulating the latter's hopes of capturing mice. It is considered the height of fun among mice to scuttle across a room in the presence of a cat, and to disappear in a hole just as a cat is ready to pounce. Of course, now and then a too reckless mouse pays the penalty of rashness by being caught by the cat, but accidents of this kind are more rare among mice than football accidents among men, and in no way render mice shy of the game. If you once understood the nature of mice you need have no trouble with them. Banish from your house every cat, trap and newspaper, and not a mouse will show himself. Fill your house with newspapers, traps and cats and mice will flock to it from miles away. No mouse will go to a house where no amusement is offered to him. This lesson I have learned, as I said, by years of study, and it has been confirmed by the testimony of several of the most intelligent cats whom have known, -Pearson's Weekly. In Old Kentucky.

BRICKS FIRST CLASS

That is What Contractor Lynch Says About Those For the King Street Pavement.

In view of ex-Chairman, of the board of works, Martin's letter in Saturday's Planet regarding the quality of the bricks which are coming in for the King street pavement, the opinion of E. Lynch, the well-known Detroit contractor who will lay them, may be of interest to the property owners on King street. Mr. Lynch says:

King street. Mr. Lynch says:

"So far as my knowledge goes there is no occasion whatever for all this fuss about those bricks. They are as fine a quality as I ever saw and I would be willing to stake a considerable amount upon the chances of their wearing well. Now with regard to the complaints about their softness, it seems to me that if those people would look at the matter from a common sense standpoint they would see how unfounded are their fears. Estimating that it will require 350,000 bricks to the work, I would not be surprised if there were 50,000 would not be surprised if there were 50,000 culls in that number. Now these "culls" may go into the pavement, but they do not stay there. When the whole job is completed an expert goes over every inch of the pavement with a tester with which he tests the conditions of the con the quality of every brick. Every brick which he considers in the smallest degree below the required standard is taken out and a new one put in. When all this has been done, the work is again inspected and if it then comes up to the requirements, it is considered to be "delivered." Moreover, these kickers should stop to consider that it would be to the worst interest of the Mas-sidon Company to ship a lot of poor bricks in here for the simple reeson that they have to y feight and duty on them and they virtually lose that amount of money on all the rejected bricks

Chairman McKeough and his colleague, Ald. McCoig, discussed the matter in all its phrases this morning and Ald McCoig rsely summoned up their opinion when he aid, "As far as the board of works is concerned, it these people who are so anxious for the good quality of the brick desire to for the good quality of the brick desire to have an expert to examine the brick who, in their opinio knows more about the basiness than the men who now have it in charge, they can have him. The board of we ks is not consumed by a desire to have the whole responsibility upon its shoulders." upon its shoulders.'
