Children's Colds
Must be Cured

These will then be less wasteful and consumption in later life.

Did you ever think of it in this way? It is the neglected cough and cold that leads to the dreadful lung diseases sooner or later. From repeated attacks the lungs are weakened and there comes pneumonia or consumption with their dreadfully fatal results.

Because it is prepared from linseed, turpentine and other simple, but wonderfully effective ingredients, Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is particularly suitable as a treatment for children's coughs and colds.

Croup, bronchitis and even whooping cough yield to the influence of this great medicine.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine cured my little girl of whooping cough when the doctor had given her up and since then we always keep it in the house as a treatment for coughs and colds. It is the best medicine we ever used."

There is no getting round statements such as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cts. a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmansons, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Alone.

Alone, yet not alone am I,
In the calm and dim sky,
The still mountain solitude,
Where voice is not, nor step intrudes,
No heart throbs here, glances out no eye—
Alone, yet not alone am I.

A Presence actual as the heart
From whence my own life-motions start,
A being real though unseen,
More true than trace where form hath been—
Alone, yet not alone am I.

I ask no favor felt no want,
Content with little nor poor nor stout;
Sorrow, submission, waiting still,
The motion of a power will—
Alone, yet not alone am I.

Oh, think, all other joys above,
To know that power is only love!
My heart, how light to cry,
Alone, yet not alone am I.

A Prophet in Baby-

BY W. J. DAWSON.

Continued.

On a certain evening Jordan had entertained at his house a number of his clerical friends, who called themselves satirically the S. P. Club, or the Club of the Superior Persons. The club met once a month, nominally for the discussion of theological questions, really for the purpose of comradeship. At the dinner table that evening Gaunt and his doings was the theme of conversation. It was soon apparent that not a single member of the club was friendly to him. He himself and his work were the subject of much humorous derision, but behind the humour there rankled an element of acerbic hostility.

"He's quite mad," said Jordan. "I saw the signs of it long ago, and warned him. He'll end where most charlatans end, in a mad-house."

"It's not only madness," said one of the party. "For my part I can't stop at that verdict. He has the disastrous sanity of the anarchist."

"Oh, he's sane enough in the ordinary sense, I suppose," retorted Jordan. "He, at least, knows how to play for popularity."
