BIJOU THEATRE

On Monday a Broadway feature in three-parts, "The Shaghaled Baby" will be shown. The story of this feature is as follows:

The widening breach between Lella and Gordon Lambert, both interested only in trivial pastimes, came home to them when their little son Jackie was abducted. Manning, a guest at the Lambert home, had taken the child, intending only to bring the parents to a realization of their true natures. Joe "the eel," again stole the boy from Manning, hoping to receive a ransom. He hid the child in the Chinese quarter, where he was rescued by a sea captain and adopted by him. Manning, filled with remorse, lost his life searching for the child, but the boy had been taken by Brent, the Captain, to his home in the tropics and there grew to manhood. Before Brent died, he gave Jack the ring found on his finger as a child, and the boy returned to the United States as a seaman in the navy. On his ship he met and at once loved Isabel Gregg, a wealthy girl, who returned his love in spite of his lowly position. The objections of the girl's mother forced her to meet her lover at the home of her friend, Lella. There, touched by the affection of the couple, Lella sang an old song, "The Slumber Boat." The melody awoke a memory in Jack's heart. It was the song his mother had sung to him as a child. Lella recognized the little ring, and life began anew for her and her husband, secure in the happiness brought by their son and his wife, Isabel.

Comedy films will also be shown.

NANAIMO WON IN A CLOSE FINISH

The Nanaimo Tennis Club just managed to get ahead yesterday in their inter-city match with Lady Smith. Many of the games were very evenly contested, there being quite a number of six scores, the tie being due to the fact that the clubs agreed to play the best of twelve games, the total score to decide the match. There were a few runaway games, the Nanaimo men falling down worst in this respect. The ladies, however, did better and to them is due the credit of winning the match. The total scores were:

Nanaimo 117
Lady Smith 111
