The Clinton Insures only Isolated Property, and is subject to no more than Two Thousand Dollars in risk.
This Company Effects Insurance as follows:
1st.—On the PREMIUM NOTE PRINCIPLE, that is, a small payment each year. In this branch for the past 15 years, a sum more than one-half the notes have been sufficient to defray the expenses and pay the losses.
2nd.—On the SHORT DATE NOTE PRINCIPLE, that is, the amount to be paid in full at any time within six months at the option of the Applicant.
3rd.—On the CASH PRINCIPLE, that is, all down at the time of insurance.
By the two latter methods the applicant knows at once the amount to be paid, and by the Premium Note Principle, the applicant is liable only for the amount of the Note, and the good fortune of the Company tends to lighten his payments.
CHARLES C. CARLILE, Esq., SURETY, has been appointed General Agent for the Maritime Provinces, through whom we hope to secure a fair share of the insurance patronage.

BY J. W. LAWRENCE, PRESIDENT.

HON. WILLIAM BOTSFORD.

One of the agents appointed by Sir Guy Carleton, on behalf of the Loyalists, to locate the Loyalists, was Amos Botsford, Esq. Jointly with Thomas Barclay, Esq., he drew three lots on Union Street; on one the Congregational Church stands. Mr. Botsford ultimately selected Sackville for his home. At the first election of members for the New Brunswick Legislature, he was chosen for Westmorland, and at every subsequent contest to the close of his life, and of each Parliament was Speaker. He came to St. John for medical treatment in the summer of 1812, where he died on the 14th September, at the age of 69. His birth place was Connecticut, and he graduated at Yale.

The wife of Mr. Botsford was a daughter of the Hon. Joshua Chandler. His son, William Botsford, was born in 1773; his birthplace was Connecticut, and of Yale he was a graduate. He studied law with Ward Chipman, and for some years followed his profession at St. John. When Gabriel G. Ludlow, on assuming the Government in 1803, resigned the office of Judge of the Court of Vice-Admiralty, Mr. Botsford was appointed. And from August 1811, to June 1816, he was the Recorder of St. John; at this time he was a resident of Westmorland.

When John Murray Bliss was appointed to the Bench in 1816, he succeeded him as the third Solicitor General. He was elected successor to his father in the representation of Westmorland, and three times Speaker of the House—the two holding the office for thirty-four years.

The popular branch was not at all times in accord with General Smyth and his Council. Mr. Botsford, as its head, resisted every attempt to interfere with its rights; hence, between the Governor and the first Commoner there was not, at all times, that good feeling that might otherwise have existed. Mr. Botsford realized this when the vacant seat on the Bench was given to Mr. Jarvis, the Clerk of the House. This act of the Governor was so indefensible that the British Government lost no time in interposing. Mr. Botsford was sworn in as an Assistant Justice, April 2nd, 1823, Governor Smyth having died five days before. At this time Mr. Botsford was in his fifty-fifth year.

In the summer of 1845, Judge Botsford wrote Sir William Colebrook, then Governor of New Brunswick: "Being now in the seventy-third year of my age, I find my infirmities, especially that of deafness, have so increased, that, in justice to myself, and for the public interests, I ought to retire from public life. I, therefore, most respectfully beg leave to tender the resignation of my seat on the Bench, with such retired allowance as Her Majesty may be graciously pleased to direct." The Government accepted his resignation, and on December 20th, 1845, appointed George F. Street his successor.

At the session of the Legislature of 1846, the Lieut. Governor sent down the following message: "Her Majesty has been graciously pleased to accept the resignation of the Hon. William Botsford, the senior Assistant Justice of the Supreme Court, and in consideration of his long and faithful services, it is Her Majesty's command that the Lieut. Governor should signify her intention, with their concurrence, to grant to Mr. William Botsford during his life, a superannuation allowance, to be charged to the 'Civil List Fund.' The House, by a majority of one, declined according to the wish of Her Majesty, on the ground of objection to the initiation of a pension list in the Province. At the session following, the subject was again before the House, when a resolution was passed expressive of regret that before Judge Botsford's resignation was accepted by the Government, and a successor appointed, the views of the House had not been ascertained. Looking at the question at the time of its decision, it is impossible to assist the conviction, that Judge Botsford had just grounds to complain of exceptional vote against him, and that his resignation was a declaration precedent for future action. The Government was clearly open to censure for having accepted his resignation, knowing it to be conditional, and appointing a successor, without being able to carry a vote, even with the prestige of Her Majesty's name. For once a departure might have been made; if not on the ground of the long and faithful service of the Judge, but of deference to the wish of his Sovereign.

The present Court House at St. John was opened by Judge Botsford, at the January Circuit of 1830. In his charge to the Jury, he congratulated the community on having such an edifice for the Courts of Justice, and expressed the hope the building might long stand as a monument of the public spirit of the people, and of the interest they take in the administration of justice, and that its walls would never be pointed by a partial and corrupt administration. In the same charge he added: "That laws, however faithfully administered, could not of themselves effectually secure the welfare and stability of a country, for religion and morality are the foundation of true greatness. They are the pillars upon which the British Constitution rests, and by which it is supported." Judge Botsford was an earnest and early advocate for the establishment of a Provincial Penitentiary, and of those charges in the criminal code which were enacted in the first third of the present century.

After reaching the patriarchal age of ninety-one, a life lengthened by over four years beyond any of his predecessors, he died at Westport, May 8th, 1864, having survived his wife fourteen years. Mrs. Botsford was a daughter of the Hon. William Hazen, and sister of Mrs. Chipman.

The family burial lot is in the Rural Cemetery of St. John, where both are interred. Among the monumental stones in it are those in memoriam of Amos Botsford, Joshua Chandler, and Col. John Murray—representative men in their day and generation.

One more of the twelve Judges who held seats in His Majesty's Council, and added to Judicial, Legislative and Executive duties, remains to be noticed.

HON. WARD CHIPMAN.

If New Brunswick ever had a favored son, it was Ward Chipman, and if ever expectations were realized by relatives, it was in him. Born at St. John four years after the landing of the Loyalists, he graduated at Harvard thirty-five years after his father. On the completion of his legal studies, he went to London, where he perfected himself in the different branches of the profession, and on his return to St. John entered on the work of life.

Shortly after this, his father was appointed to the Bench, leaving to him his extensive practice. He succeeded also to the office of Advocate General, and Clerk of the Circuit and Crown on the Circuit; and in 1815 to the Recordership of St. John. At the general election of 1820, consequent on the death of King George the Third, Mr. Chipman offered for the County of St. John for the first time; he was returned at the head of the poll; his colleagues were Andrew S. Ritchie, John M. Wilnot, and Charles Simonds.

On the appointment of Solicitor General Botsford to a seat on the Bench, in 1829, Mr. Chipman was appointed to that office, and to the Speakership of the House—holding the office of first Commoner of New Brunswick at the time his father was President and Commander-in-Chief of the Province. If Ward Chipman was a favorite of the Government, he was so at this time, in the confidence of his father, he was appointed to the Bench. At the fortieth year of his age, he represented the County of Grent, in the north-west of the Province.
