factions took ground against any further yielding to the enemies of Home Rule.

Sir John Broderick, financial secretary to the War Office in Lord Salisbury's Cabinet, offered an amendment to prevent the Irish Legislature from dealing with the question of immigration and the rights of aliens, and from exercising the right to expel aliens from the country. The Government finally accepted the amendment, Irish Chief Secretary Merley suggesting that it could be met by inserting the word "aliena" after "alien age" in sub-section 6 of clause 3.

Mr. Broderick assented to Mr. Morley's Mr. Broderick assented to Mr. Morley's suggestion, whereupon Timothy Healy (Nationalist) earnestly protested. Mr. Healy said the proposed amendment might cause great embarrassment to the Irish Government. Per instance, the workhouse at Cork was constantly charged with pauper aliens from America. With the amendment about aliens adopted the Irish Government could take no steps to abate the evil.

FARCO IN FLAMES!

Half the Town Reduced to Ashes.

Prebably 2,000 People Homeless-Busi-ness Part of the Place Gutted -Loss [$2,000,000.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 7.—A special from Moorehead, Minn., says half of Fargo is in ashes. The fire started at 3 o'clock in a restaurant on Second street. A strong wind was blowing. At 4 o'clock the fire reached the Great Northern track, ten blocks north, gutting the entire district for three blocks east to Broadway. A strong fight was made to prevent the flames crossing to the west side of Broadway, but by 4 o'clock they had crossed in several places. Probably 2,000 people are homeless. The fire has just crossed the river to the Moorehead side at the Fargo relier mills, which will burn. Among the principal firms already burned are: Herzan, drygoods; Crane's restaurant, Magill, farm machinery; Northern Pacific elevator buildings, Western Union office; Morton, real estate; Red River Valley National Bank, Deily Forum, Merchanta' State Bank, opera house; E. S. Tyler, real estate; Plano McCornick, Walter A. Woods, Minnesota Chief, the Deering and John Deer implement ware-houses, Cole's livery, Grand Hotel, Fleming's drug store, Veder & Lewis' grocery, Christian's drug store, Sheridan's Hotel, Applel Bros., Minneapolis Drygoods Company, Logan's studio, American Iron Works, Continental House, Van Brunt implement warehouse. A strong wind made the fire travel so quickly that hardly anything was saved. The flames went through brick buildings as easily as wooden ones. Loss will be over $2,000,000, as practically the entire business district of the place is gutted already. At 11 p.m. Fargo is still in flames and the fire is completely beyond control. The loss already ranches at least $2,000,000. The bridges between Mooreheed and Fargo have been burned, and all telegraphic communication is cut off. Many firemen have been injured, some of them seriously.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

A public meeting was held in the evening, with a large attendance present. The choir furnished special music, and the feature of the evening was the address by Rev. E. M. Hill, M.A., Montreal, chairman of the union. He was introduced by the retiring chairman, Rev. A. F. McGregor, of Woodstock, in a neat and pleasing speech of welcome.

Mr. Hill spoke for over an hour on "The Genius of Congregational Christianity," and Genius of Congregational Christianity, and held the undivided attention of his hearers throughout. He is a brilliant talker, with an easy flowing style, and a pleasing way of introducing a smile-producing aneodote into a discourse that abounded in facts and figures that caused spontaneous applause at frequent intervals.

There was a peculiar interest, he said, attached to the present gathering, a pleasing contrast between the present meeting in London, Ont. in 1893, and with the present church life, compared with the incidents in metropolitan London, when in 1593 under the shadow of Tyburn gallows three Congregationalists were put to death because of their dectrine. The spread of Congregationalism was then touched upon, but owing to some failures to comply to his requests for statistics he could not give exact figures for this year. When this was the case he used the figures of last year. Ten years ago they had 6,000 church members in Canada; to-day they boasted of 9,000. Then they owned $600,000 worth of proporty; now they owned $900,000. They have a fine college building to-day paid for, and an endowment fund of $20,000. There are also $50,000 invested funds of the Home Missionary Society. We may be moving up grade, and a steep one at that, but we are gradually reaching the top, 'said the speaker as he passed on. Congregationalism was learning to be interested in her sister churches. Ten years ago she was spending $1,200 on herself and $200 upon other churches. Now she spends at anon was learning to be interested in her sister churches. Ten years ago she was spending $1,200 on herself and $200 upon other churches. Now she spends at the ratio of $2,400 upon herself and $1,200 upon other churches. (Applause.)

The genius of a thing was its animating spirit—often giving it a distinctive character. This was misundersted by the ratio of $2,400 upon herself and $1,200 upon other churches. (Applause.)

The genius of a thing was its animating spirit—often giving it a distinctive character. This was misunderstood by other churches and often misunderstood by Congregationalists. The Church of England thought they had out themselves oil from them because of netty scruples, but they were mistaken. The Congregational Church represented a very positive number of the spiritual church and a tolerant freedem. So positive was that in their denomination that many churches had learned if from them. Their Presbyterian friends thought they were a few clusters of people gathered around some ministers whom they happened to fancy, and were very prone to vagaries of belief; that they were too fond of having their own way, and therefore a church with its foundation built upon sand. The Methodist people seemed to think that they were more interested in educational advancement than revival meetings. The Congregational Church had positive numbers, and the genius of their church life rose 300 years ago, when it was a matter of life or death to advocate the belief. Then it was, in the spring of 1593, that John Greenwood, a companion and fellow-student named Barrowe, and the Welshman John Penny were hanged on Tyburngallows, with nothing against them but their determination not to uphold Queen Elizabeth's act of conformity. The Congregational alists of Canada had not appreciated their noble birthright. The speaker then went on to show that while other churches adopt a wider platform and when the genius of the English reformation was given a wider sphere, then the genius of the Congregational Church would be waiting for her place. The principles of equality and fraternity had widened out the activities of the church so as to make possible the Y. M. C. A., the Y. P. S. C. E., the Lay Helpers, the Woman's Board of Missions and the W. C. T. U. Without spirituality, the speaker claimed, they had nothing. When spirituality was lacking there was lack of power, and in

The Iriah Nationalists and many Liberals voted against the Government, while all the Conservatives and Liberal-Unionists supported the Government. The words "as such" were also inserted after some further discussion, so that the sub-section now provides that the Iriah Legislature is debarred from legislation in respect to "treasen, felony, alienage, aliena as such, or naturalization."

Mr. L. H. Courthey (Unionist) moved to expunge the trade and quarantine restrictions in sub-section 7 of clause 3.

Mr. Gladstone opposed the amendment. He admitted that there was a large demand in Ireland for the control of external trade, but the Irish members of Parliament accepted the clause. Mr. Parnell had once mentioned the prospect of Ireland adopting the protective policy, but he withdrew that suggestion in accepting the Home Rule Bill of 1886. Public opinion in Ireland indorsed his course. (Nationalist cheers.)

The Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain said that whether desirable or otherwise it would be the ineviable consequence of home rule that Ireland would centrol external trade.
