parents has been given the local Warner informed members of the invenile court committee of the city

In addition to power automatically conferred by virtue of his office, Judge Warner has now authority to effect the provisions of the orphans' act and the children of unmarried parents' act. This added power will enable the local juvenile court authorities to deal more effectively with the parents or guardians of delin-

In his report to the city council of London and the Middlesex County Council, dealing with the work of the court during 1923, its first seven months of operation, Judge Warner will show that while 202 cases reguired actual court attention, thes figures did not include reoccurrence minor complaints, parents or other adults appearing in court and so forth bringing the complete total to 654.

Serves County. Of this number, 21 were county cases, as the court was established for both London and Middlesex. Judge Warner suggested, and it met with the approval of the committee, that the county council, meeting Tuesday next, be asked to appoint a committee simflar to the city council committee, to meet with the latter from time to me throughout the term.

Judge Warner will arrange, he expects, to deliver his report personally to the county councillors as well as members of the city council. The question of the county's share of the cost of maintenance will have to be determined next week when the county committee meets with the city ouncil committee. A reasonable setlement is assured, however. During 1924 the judge and his assistant, Major Bradshaw, probation officer, expect to hold more of the county courts at the seat of the trouble rather than compel many persons to journey into London.

Avoids Mimico. Warner delivered resume of the work of the local court been sent away to any of the in-dustrial schools. Only as a last resort would he send a child to the govern ment reformatory at Mimico, he as-
