Stock Speculating Squabbles.

The litigation that is likely to arise out of the now notorious tumble in stocks of a few months ago is only beginning in the half-dozen suits that have already been heard. There may be a dozen more before the matter is settled, and the brokers get rid of their squabbles. It was reported on the street yesterday that a well-known broker is about to enter an action for $20,-000 against the Federal bank. Another is that of a speculator who intends suing the stock exchange for posting him as a defaulter; and the stock exchange will also be given an opportunity to reinstate a mem ber whom they have removed, or else take the consequences of an action. These are a few of the impending law suits.

The members of the stock exchange said one of the brokers yesterday, are kicking like steers against paying the $2000 damages awarded to Mr. Temple. They seem to think that the officious broker who made the report should pay the damages, but he does not see the pro-p(r)iety of this, and says a certain banker got him to do it. Perhaps the banker will pay it.

If there is one thankful class in the com munity at the present moment it is made of those bankers who, when tempted by

We are not hunters like the militia of 1812, who acquitted themselves so nobly, were. Yet the government seems to take it for granted that our young men have become crack shots from shooting bears, wolves, etc., from their back door steps. Many men in the militia are almost wholly ignorant of what the back sight on a rifle is intended for, and our militia system does weather as in the middle of winter. Last week, for instance, the saloon keepers will tell you any amount of liquor was contained by the saloon keepers will the saloon keepers will tended for, and our militia system does very little to teach them. It supplies each man in camp here with forty-five rounds of ammunition. We all know that "a little manual tender of what the back sign to a supplies and our militia system does very little to teach them. It is true that light drinks were extensively called for, but it was nevertheless the fact that alcoholic beverages appeared to be a favorite with the older men. As one saloon keeper put it yesterday, a drunken wave struck the town last week, and not a few suc-cumbed to its influence. Doctors on the other hand tell us that nothing is more dangerous, or more to be avoided than the consumption of alcoholduring the very warm weather. It is much more dangerous drinking in summer than in winter, bad as the latter region. If men must drinking in summer than in winter, bad as it is in the latter period. If men must drink they ought to drink wines like claret, sauterne and hock, or beer and lager, rather than the gin, whisky and brandy that is either taken straight, or disguised as cock-tails, or by whatever fanciful name it may be known. Another noticeable feature in the drinking customs of our feature in the drinking customs of our people is the increased call there is for gin, in place of whisky. The custom house returns show that the importation of this kind of liquor has been advancing at a wonderful rate within the past few years. Whether Canadian whisky is degenerating in quality, or whether our people want something stronger we cannot say, but the fact is that gin in some form or other is the water by people using hose for sprinkling new tipple. Methodist Higher Education.

It must be gratifying to all concerned in higher education to observe the stand taken by Dr. Dewart and Principal Hare of the Whitby ladies' college in their addresses last night at the meeting in favor of methodist education at the Elm street church. These gentlemen did not go so far as to say that Victoria university ought to be wiped out, but they looked with favor on the idea of a first-class methodist theological college located in Toronto, near the provincial university, whereby the church would be able to devote her energies to training men in theology who could get their secular teaching at the provincial college alongside, and which control of the students. The removal to

Toronto would not entail any abandon Toronto would not entail any abandonment of the oversight that the church now has of its students. Such a theological hall would contain a residence, wherein not only candidates for the ministry would live, but also be a home for sons of methodists who intended to follow secular pursuits after their university career. It is true Dr. Sutherland, whose loyalty to Victoria we admire, and whose ideas regarding church control of students we respect, took opposite grounds, but we are confident that he does not voice the opinion of the great body of the methodist communion. That body, like every other denomination in this country, has only been watered." In the letter of Veritas denomination in this country, has only a certain amount of money which it can devote to education, and those who are entrusted with the administration of that fund are bound to see that it is efficiently spent. The amount at present, contributed by the denomination is very far from the large sufficient to support a great universe. being sufficient to support a great university with faculties in arts and divinity, let alone law and medicine; and this being the case it is incumbent on the church to the case it is incumbent of t take a practical view of the matter, and cure the best possible value for their outlay. This we take, it can only be attained by some such plan as that suggested by Dr. Dewart. There are wealthy methodists in Toronto and all over the province who would contribute sufficient money to build the best equipped theological hall and residence in the dominion in this city, and we know that the provincial university is disposed to give them a site in the park gratis. Even the town of Cobourg need lose nothing by the

Correspondent Sketches 1ts Growth and Appearance-Salvation Army Wanted. PORT ARTHUR, June 14.—There seems to be some doubt abroad in regard to Port Arthur being the lake terminus of the Canadian Pacific railway in this region. Judging from present appearances no one here at east seems to have any doubt in the matsaying that if we have a force of active ter. One year ago the town was a small ollection of nondescript and unsightly buildings and save for its situation and surroundings one of the most uninviting places imaginable. Now it is quite a town in being able to "march past" with a line straight as a brick wall, but inter alia in with a fair proportion of very good buildings and save temporary and unfinished structures comparatively few unsightly ones. Some of the residences are neat and tasty and have an air of comfort and elecourage, obedience to superiors, physical strength and endurance, and last but not least, in being accurate and well trained riflemen. Do our Canadian militia possess gance seldom seen in ordinary towns, especially new ones. Old buildings are being reconstructed and enlarged and new ones these qualities? They are not as a rule fair representatives of our Canadian manare going up all over the town and in every direction. There are no end of temhood. The inducements are not sufficient to persuade the majority of men, who have porary places of residence, yet it is almost impossible to get accommodation of any kind, and a good many people are living in tents. There is a first class hotel in town and several very arrival. to earn their living, to enlist; and very many of those who do enlist do so only for the sake of wearing a uniform and having ones, yet on my arrival weeks since, myself and a friend good three could not get accommodation in any respectable place. There will, however, soon be almost unlimited hotel accommodation. be almost unlimited hotel accommodation. Several quite large hotels are nearly completed and a large summer one is to be put up at once. There is a restaurant in town, the Bodega, that would be a credit to Tothe Bodega, that would be a credit to 10ronto; a very fine railroad depot, large enough for a place of 15,000 inhabitants, and an elevator, in full blast, as large apparently as the Northern in Toronto. The Canadian Pacific railway and private parties also are erecting apparatus for landing and handling coal. There is a yacht club and boating accommodation that would be a credit to any place of 10,000 inhabitants.

The town is in fact a city in everything save size and population and if the present rate of building continues another season it certainly will be one.

certainly will be one. Real estate does not seem to be inflated. Real estate does not seem to be inflated. In fact it is not as high as might be expected. There is apparently no "booming" at all. Vessels keep arriving and departing almost constantly. Within a few hours after our arrival three large steamers, the Campana, the Arthabasca, and the Frances Smith left for the east alone. The passenger traffic, not including immigrants, by this route, is already very considerable. What will it be a few years hence? Since our arrival the weather, very considerable. What will it be a few years hence? Since our arrival the weather, save two or three days, has been simply delightful—neither too hot nor too cool, and bright and clear. When the advantages of Port Arthur as a place of summer residence and headquarters summer resorts, especially during the hot weather, are known, the town and vicinity will undoubtedly become one of the chief summer resorts in America. No matter whether it is the chief lake terminus of the railway here or not, after having spent one summer here in boating, camping and fishing in the vicinity and along the famous, marvellous and unparalleled North Shore, it is no use, speaking personally, to try and be content during the summer elsewhere, not even in Toronto.
