

affairs of any nation—the minions of the very sycophants who lick the dust of the feet of Bonaparte—will tell you that they are come to communicate the blessings of liberty to this Province, but you have only to look at your situation to put such hypocrisy to confusion.

Trusting more to treachery than open hostility, our enemies have already spread their emissaries through the country to seduce our fellow subjects from their allegiance by promises as false as the principles on which they are founded. A law has therefore been enacted for the speedy detection of such emissaries and for their condign punishment on conviction—a law which it will not be easy to escape.

Remember when you go forth to the combat that you fight not for yourselves alone but for the whole world.

You are defeating the most formidable conspiracy against the civilization of man that ever was contrived—a conspiracy threatening greater barbarism and misery than followed the downfall of the Roman Empire—that you have now an opportunity of proving your attachment to the parent State, which contends for the relief of oppressed nations, the last pillar of true liberty and the last refuge of humanity.

Persevere as you have begun in your strict obedience to the laws and your attention to military discipline; deem no sacrifice too costly which secures the enjoyment of our happy constitution, follow with your countrymen in Britain the paths of virtue, and like them you shall triumph over all your unprincipled foes.

GOD SAVE THE KING.
