

INTERIOR RATHBUN CO.'S READING CAMP.

Government has done a great deal in the way of assisting the laborer through the night-school in improving himself in his special trade. The Ontario and several other governments have also done something in this direction.

It is only within the last decade that the feasibility of educating the men in the frontier camps above mentioned has been proven, although it scarcely required demonstration. Correspondence schools have established the fact that men who already have an elementary education can improve it by studying during spare moments in mining, prospecting and surveying camps while tenting but for a night.

INTERIOR OF ONE OF PARRY SOUND CO.'S READING CAMPS.