FRANK ADVICE FOR U.S. GERMANS

Colonel Waterson Issues a Warning

GOADED TO THE LIMIT

Mood of Native Americans Not For Trifling, He Believes—
"Bloody Monday" if American Lives Are Lost

Writing under the heading, "Let Them Forget," Colonel Henry Waterson says editorially in the Louisville Courier-Journal:

At the beginning of the murderous European war the Courier-Journal in the kindest and most neighborly way, warned its German-American fellow-citizens against the imprudence of arraying themselves as partisans on the side of the Prussian militarist, of espousing the cause of the Hohenzollern and the Hapsburg; it being thus early perfectly clear that the triumph of the forces under the two Kaisers would mean world war, the universe an armed camp, ultimately involving the United States.

If the tendency toward organized expression had been as marked among the French-Americans and the Anglo-Americans, we should have warned them likewise.

We love no country except our own. We have no country except we are given definite reason to hate it. For Germany we entertain no ill-will. England is likeliest to be our liveliest trade rival. Lying alongside of us in Canada and British Columbia, England is the one country that could wage effective war against us. But, if Germany could win, the German government, inflated by success, would at once turn upon us and say: "To hell with your Monroe Doctrine! We will go wherever we please to go."

That would mean war with Germany, and in such an event the German-Americans, who had made common cause with the Vaterland, would be something more than suspects, and it might become our duty to drive them out of the country. We wanted to avert a catastrophe so lamentable, and to that end took time by the forelock. Let us expect that we did this in the friendliest and most considerate way.

All we received in response from those who set themselves to represent the German-Americans was obloquy and abuse.

Since then the government and the arms of Germany have put themselves hopelessly in the wrong, and every act of wrong has been approved and supported by the German-Americans. These latter have conclusively shown that they are not Americans at all, but merely and belligerently a German colony in America. If war should come, they would have to be assembled in detention camps and branded as public enemies. If under recent orders of the German admiralty an American ship carrying its load of passengers should be blown up in the Irish Sea, the explosion, like that of the Maine in Havana harbor, would reverberate from the Atlantic to the Pacific. War would be instantly declared by Congress. In many parts of the United States the life of no German-American would be safe. Bloody Monday would have many duplicates and repetitions.

The Courier-Journal foresees this and sought to steer its German-American neighbors and fellow-citizens away from it.

They would not have it so. The consequences be with them. God grant they be not tragical. But the mood of the native Americans is not for trifles or trifling. It has been goaded very near to the limit of good nature and good feeling. Touch and go to the powder, and woe to the fools who have followed the lead of Bernstorff and Dernberg, who ought to have been sent away three months ago even as Washington sent away Genet.

As for Bartholdy, of Missouri, he should have been expelled from Congress and again expelled as often as the treasonable Germans of St. Louis re-elected him.

Swan Creek, Mich.—"I cannot speak too highly of your medicine. When through neglect or overwork I get run down and my appetite is poor and I have that weak, languid, always tired feeling, I get a bottle of Lydia E. I take pleasure in recommending it to others."—Mrs. ANNIE CAMERON, R.F.D., No. 1, Swan Creek, Michigan.

To Folks Who Dally With Corns

To you who pare corns—
You who use liquids—
Or other old-time ways.

You've amply proved that using such things is merely dallying with a corn.

For your own sake, prove the right way. Millions of people have found it. Half the corns that grow are ended by this wonderful Blue-Jay plaster.

The corn pain ceases the moment you apply it. Then the B & B wax—a famous chemist's invention—gently underlines the corn. In 48 hours the whole corn comes out, without any pain or sequels.

Ask your friends. Scores of them have proved that Blue-Jay makes it folly to have corns.

GASOLINE OUTPUT WILL TAKE A JUMP

New Process Discovered by U. S. Bureau of Mines Important—200 Per Cent. Increase

Washington, March 3.—Secretary of the Interior Lane announces the discovery, by the United States Bureau of Mines, of two chemical processes, one of which, it is said, will be of tremendous importance to the oil industry, greatly increasing the supply of gasoline.

The other may make the United States independent of Germany and other nations for supplies of materials necessary for the dye industry and the manufacture of high explosives used in warfare.

The first of these processes promises to enable the independent refiners in this country to increase their output of gasoline from petroleum 200 per cent. or more. Secretary Lane added:

"With an estimated production, on the part of the independent refiners, of 12,000,000 barrels of gasoline in a year, this will mean an output, from independent alone, of 36,000,000 barrels, greater than the total production today from all sources."

The second process includes the manufacture from crude petroleum of what is known chemically as toluol and benzol, both of which have been heretofore obtained from coal tar.

The discoverer of these two valuable processes after many years of research is Dr. Walter F. Rittman, chemical engineer of the Bureau of Mines. The work was done at Columbia University, New York, the facilities of the laboratory there having been turned over to the federal government by President Coolidge.

BADEN-POWELL SAW GERMANS PREPARING WAR

Disguised as Hunter He Observed Officers Build Emplacements Near Liege

(Montreal Gazette cable.)
New York, March 4.—A German Baron von Stein, purchased in 1906 a villa three miles southeast of Liege and spent much time and money in fixing up the grounds. Last August the turf of the tennis court was torn away by the German invaders, who used the concrete foundation underneath as an emplacement for one of their 16 inch howitzers with which they reduced the fortress. In the vicinity of Lille and Mauberge it was later declared, similar gun emplacements had been prepared. The following passage taken from Lieut. General Sir Robert Baden-Powell's new book, "Germany's Secret Plans," throws some additional light on the subject:

"Some years ago a report came to the war office that a foreign power was making gun emplacements in a position which had not before been suspected of being of military value, and they were evidently going to use it for strategic purposes."

"I was sent to see whether the report was true. Of course, it would not do to go as an officer—suspicion would be aroused, one would be allowed to see nothing and would probably be arrested as a spy. I therefore went to stay with a friendly farmer in the neighborhood and went out shooting every day among the partridges and snipe which abound there. The first thing I did was to look at the country generally and try to think which points would be most valuable as positions for artillery. "Then I went to look for partridges (and other things) on the hills which I had noticed, and very soon found what I wanted."

"Officers were there taking angles and measurements, accompanied by workmen, who were driving pegs into the ground and marking off lines with tape between them."

"As I passed with my gun in my hand, bag on my shoulder and dog at my heels they paid no attention to me and from the neighboring hills I was able to watch their proceedings. When they went to their meals or returned to their quarters I went shooting over the ground they had left, and if I did not get a big bag of game, at any rate I made a good selection of drawings and measurements of plans of the forts and implacements which they had traced out on the ground. "So that within a few days of their starting to make them we had the plans all in our possession. Although they afterwards planted trees all over the sites to conceal the forts within them and put up buildings in other places to hide them, we knew perfectly well where the implacements were and what their shapes were."
