Chicago, June 1.-Ito Himatsu, a Japanese merchant of New York, has arrived in Chicago with a common split leather valise containing $1,250,000 United States money, which he will give to the Mikado to help defeat Russia. The cash is all in United States gold, notes and bank bills. The money was deposit ed here with a trust company on the advice of the local Japanese consul. Ito Himatsu expects to sail from San Fran cisco on June 11th. St. Petersburg, June 1 .- The war office has received reports showing that the Japanese are falling back from Siuyen, southwest of Feng Huang Oheng, and in the meanwhile advancing on Saimatsza, almost due north of Feng Huang Cheng. Both movements are taken to indicate the continued desire of the Japanese to screen the operations be fore Port Arthur.

There is not the slightest foundation for the report that the Russians wil abandon their positions east of Haicheng. As regards the operations north of Feng Huang Cheng, the Cossacks have retired from Saimatsza with the additional loss of two officers and seven men wounded. Saimatza is now held by a strong Japanese garrison. A dispatch from Kaichau, Liao Tung peninsula, dated June 1st, says: "A Russian who was wounded in the fight at the station near Vagenfuchu, May 30th, says that General Samsonoff attacked the Japanese near the railroad, a mile from Vagenfuchu station. A cornet of the frontier guards was the hero of the fighting. His sergeant was lying wounded and a Japanese officer was about to ride over him when the cornet unhorsed the Japanese, mounted the lat-ter's horse and placed the wounded man on his own charger. The Japanese cavalry engaged were the Thirteenth regiment. Their horses are splendid animals. Kaichau or Kaiping is on the railroad, about twenty miles south of Newchwang.

The following dispatch from Viceroy Alexieff to the Emperor, dated May 31st, has been received: "Rear-Admirals Witsoeff and Gregoritch report that up to May 28th numerous Japanese mines had been discovered and exploded in the roadstead of Port Arthur. The Japanese evidently have replaced the fire ships, which they formerly used, by mines sown by merchant steamers in their service.

General Sakahoff has telegraphed as follows under to-day's date to the general staff: "According to the reports the Japanese commander in the action of May 30th near Vagenfuchu had three battalions of infantry in reserve. Our losses were 17 men killed and 23 wounded, and Lieut, Meyer and another officer, whose name has not been ascertained, wounded. The Japanese losses were very considerable. One squadron of the Thirteenth Japanese cavalry was annihilated in a hand-to-hand encounter, and another squadron, which came to its assistance, suffered great loss from the fire of our frontier guards and riflemen. We captured nineteen horses."

A private letter from Liao Yang, dated May 4th, says that on good authority General Kouropatkin then had 140,-000 men ready to take the field.

e Eighth Siberian Cossacks furiously charged the Japanese cavalry with lances, attacking both flanks. In a few an internal complaint. He suddenly beminutes they literally cut the whole squadron to pieces. This was the first time lances were used, and they struck terror into the enemy. In some cases the lances pierced the riders through and wounded their horses. Some of he lances could not be withdrawn from the bodies which they had entered. The Japanese numbering four battalions of 300 to a company and eight squadrons of cayalry attempted to advance, but the Russian batteries opened and soon the slope up which the enemy was advancing was covered with black spots and the enemy was forced to scatter and retire. Some of the Japanese cavalry were wonderfully dashing, charging with shouts upon the Russians, who met and scattered them. A Cossack who had lost his lance and sword, wrenched a sword from a Japan-ese officer and cut off the officer's head.

The Cossacks picked up boots which had been taken off by the Japanese in order to facilitate their flight and flour ished them on their lances as trophies The Japanese used the Boer trick of dis playing dummies, but the Cossacks did not waste a shot on them. General Samsonoff highly praised the Russian
