WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Formal directions were issued by President Roosevelt today for an investigation of the Valencia disaster, which occurred recently on the North Pacific coast.

President Roosevelt's letter of instructions to Secretary Mcclain of the department of commerce and labor directs him to instruct Lawrence O. Murray, assistant secretary of commerce and labor, and Herbert Knox Smith, deputy commissioner of corporations, as well as Captain Wm. T. Burwell, U. S. navy, to proceed to Seattle, Wash., and there to make thorough and complete investigation of all the circumstances attending the wreck of the steamer Valencia and the cause or causes thereof, and any misconduct, negligence or dereliction of duty on the part of anyone related thereto, and having any bearing upon the loss of life occasioned by said disaster; and also, as you may direct, to investigate and report upon the navigable waters, safety of traffic, the navigability of the United States in that vicinity, and the effectiveness and sufficiency of the present aids to navigation along said waters, and to make full report thereon, with recommendations for such departmental or legislative action as may be indicated by said report and findings.

Messrs. Murray and Smith will leave here tomorrow and go direct to Seattle. Captain Burwell, commandant at the Bremerton navy yard, will meet them upon their arrival.

President Roosevelt received information which led him to believe that U. S. District Attorney Frye believed it is undesirable to go further into the Valencia investigation that he already had done.

The president sent to Attorney Frye peremptory orders to place himself at the disposal of the special commission appointed to make an inquiry into the Valencia disaster. Today the following telegram was received from Mr. Frye at Seattle by the department of justice:

Authorize you to say to the president that I did not state that I had been brought into the Valencia investigation too late to be of practical service. I did say that I found it would be necessary to recall nearly every witness to make investigation thorough, which I regretted as witnesses were scattering. Criticized no one. Expect to conclude Tacoma grand jury next Thursday. Will then proceed with vigorous investigation of Valencia disaster.
