

TRIPLE TRAGEDY ON NORTH SHORE

Crazed Man Kills Two Children

Park Sobey Then Tries to Slay Their Father

Mother's Pluck Likely Saved Her and Two of Her Little Ones—Assailant Later Found in His Cabin With Bullet Through Brain—Rum Blamed for the Terrible Affair.

Newcastle, N. B., April 19.—A case of double murder, which but for an accident would have been triple or quadruple, followed by the slayer's suicide, occurred in the village of Protectionville, some nine miles from Newcastle, between 5 and 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Park Sobey killed two of Nell Mullin's children with an axe and attacked Mullin himself with the same weapon, but failed to do more than wound him. Finally, about 7 o'clock Sobey shot himself. He was twenty-three years old and unmarried.

All the parties belong to Protectionville and were friends. No cause for the tragedy is known, but a sudden outbreak of mania is presumed. Sobey was addicted to alcohol and had many times got into trouble with his neighbors. He had frequently attacked others, and was considered a dangerous man. Last fall he held up two little boys of Newcastle and drew a knife upon them, when a team came along, enabling the boys to escape. A contract was forfeited, and the Caplin Island road, which connects the two places.

Yesterday both Sobey and Nell and John Mullin were in Newcastle. Sobey was drinking, but did not show any bad effects. Both Mullins are sober men and neither had ever had any quarrel with Sobey. Sobey, who is a native of Newcastle, had been living with the Mullins, and was prevented by William MacKay from beating a neighbor named Campbell. He got off at High Drummond's, six miles from town, to settle some grievances with a man named Sherman. Finding Sherman absent, Sobey let John Mullin go on and waited for Nell Mullin's team, which was short distance behind. He rode the rest of the way to Nell Mullin's home with Mullin. There was no dispute or trouble of any kind between the two.

Killed Children With An Axe.
When Mullin reached home he gave some candy to his children, and then went to the barn to put up his horses, leaving Sobey in the yard. Two of the Mullin children, Ernest, aged seven, and John Henry, aged five, seized some more candy and ran out with it laughing and set down on a plank alongside a window, which Sobey never again seen alive. The mania coming upon Sobey, he seized an axe, killed the boys and hid their bodies in a closet.

When entered the house, Sobey, Mullin's wife, and threatened Mrs. Mullin, who then two smaller children were with her. She did not then know what had happened her eldest two. She begged for her life and got nothing but a mania ruffian dropped the rifle, left her, and seized the axe and made for the barn. He struck Nell Mullin, who was bending and did not see him, a severe blow from behind which would have split his body in two had the blow not caught on a beam before it dropped between Mullin's neck and shoulder. Mullin grasped the rifle and fired a shot which would have hit the other shoulder, and took the axe away from him.

Sobey ran across the road to the post office kept by Leonard Fletcher, who was absent, broke a window, seized Fletcher's rifle, and, after ransacking the place for cartridges, left going in the direction of his camp, about two miles further west. Meantime Mrs. Mullin had found the corpses of her two children and Mullin, exhausted by bleeding, had fainted. As soon as she saw Sobey leave Fletcher's she went for help, and met several children who went for John Mullin, who started for Newcastle for Dr. Nicholson, reaching here about 8 o'clock and giving the first report of the tragedy, there being no telephone service between Newcastle and Newcastle.

Dr. Nicholson Reached Mullin's about 10 o'clock and dressed Mullin's wounds, and he is expected to recover. The main cut was three inches wide, but not deep. Boys Terribly Wounded.

The oldest boy had a piece nearly cut off the top of his head, another cut in the center right over the forehead, a third over the top of the head, and a fourth on the side of the top of the head, also a cut through the chest just below the collar bone to the left.

The second boy had three deep cuts on the head.

The two younger children escaped unhurt.

Deputy Sheriff William Irving and Provincial Constable Adam Dickson started about 9 o'clock to arrest the slayer. About eight miles from town they met messengers who told them that Sobey had fled. They proceeded to Mullin's, which they reached at 11 o'clock, found Mullin unconscious and heard his version of the tragedy. With guides they pushed on to Sobey's home, which they missed as it is in the woods about a quarter of a mile from the highway, but finally reached it shortly after midnight. Sobey was lying on his back, his wife and revolver with him, and a rifle bullet hole through his head.

The body had been found several hours before by the slayer's brother, who carefully reconnoitered the camp saw him in bed with the rifle muzzle close to his head. Thinking him asleep he silently seized the rifle and then tried to awaken him, but he was dead.

Coroner Desmond, of Newcastle, will hold an inquest tomorrow forenoon. It is thought that Sobey had intended to slay himself in his camp and sell his life dearly, but when the full horror of his position dawned upon him he took the easiest way out. Why he took the rifle, when he must have had a revolver with him, does not appear. Postmaster Fletcher was fortunate in being absent when Sobey in his frenzy invaded his office, as Fletcher is an old man and what would have happened Mrs. Mullin and her remaining children had her husband been slain is too horrible to think of.

Many townsmen did not sleep till 4 this morning, when the returning constables brought news of Sobey's tragic end.

A later report says that after Sobey killed the children, he turned on Mullin, and not knowing his children were killed, let Sobey go at his wife's entreaty. Then Sobey went to Fletcher's and got a gun and returned to attack the woman, but that she, hearing that the rifle had no cartridges, hid then and got a second rifle, but Mullin got it away from him, too. Then Sobey went home, where he had retired.

Nell Mullin had settled yesterday with Mr. Burchell for his winter's hunting, and thinking Sobey's motive may have been robbery.

ROYAL COMMISSION FOR DUGAL CHARGES

Dr. Morehouse said that he was willing to accept the suggestion and as promoter of the bill would have it withdrawn.

A bill relating to the town of Margville was agreed to with amendments. The house took recess at 6 o'clock and resumed at 8:30 o'clock.

On the order of the day for the third reading of the bill to grant further aid to the Valley railway being read, Mr. Stewart (Northumberland) moved:

That the said bill be not now read a third time, but that it be referred back to the committee of the whole house with instructions to amend the same by providing that the bond guarantee be reduced to $100,000 a mile, that the broken contract with the St. John & Quebec Valley Railway Company be cancelled, and that the deposit (if any) that has been made as security for the performance of a contract be forfeited, and that a contract be let to some other company, firm, syndicate or person for the completion of the railway as a government work.

In moving this amendment, he said that it proposed to cancel the contract with the company now constructing the road, on the ground that they were unable to complete the same. They had undertaken to do certain things, and had altogether fallen down on their undertakings, and he felt that the work should be taken over by the government, and given to some other company. The company had no claim whatever on the province, for they had obtained the contract on the strength of their declaration that they would complete the same for $2,000,000. Now they come back and say it will cost $7,000,000. He thought that the $3,000,000 should have been ample to complete the road, and that the government should be given a good margin of profit for the contractors. By admitting that it had become necessary to give further financial aid, he was very strongly of the opinion that the work should be taken out of the present company's hands and put in those of a firm which could be better depended upon. The present company had failed to carry out their obligations, and might do it again.

Hon. Mr. Clarke said he couldn't bring himself to think that the hon. member for Northumberland was serious in moving the amendment, and he would not be accepted by the intelligence of the house. He had not brought forward one single reason why it should be adopted. Hon. Mr. Clarke put it in the hands of the hon. member for Northumberland and Swin—2. Nays—Hon. Messrs. Clarke, Landry, Morrissey, Murray and Wilson. Messrs. Woods, Gaultier, Slipp, Baxter, White (Carleton), Stewart (Gloucester), Robichaud, Glaser, Dickson, Carson, Young, Morehouse, Poiry, Gagnon, Lechart, Parley, Black, Hache, Fren, Stewart (Richmond) and Culligan—28.

The motion to have the bill read a third time then passed without division. Mr. Gaultier (Carleton) protested, and said that the bill had been presented to the committee on corporations with certain amendments after much consideration.

The house went into committee with Mr. Black in the chair.

Mr. Guthrie moved that progress be reported on the bill to incorporate the New Brunswick Veterinary Association.

The bill to amend the Liquor License act was agreed to with amendments, including the cutting out of all sections after section 4.

Dr. D. Murphy said he was moving to cut out the sections of the bill after number four. The government would take time to consider the matter of amendment to the Liquor License act before another session and would then bring in a bill dealing with the amendments, which were considered advisable.

The bill to amend the Judicature act was agreed to.

The house went into committee with Mr. Young in the chair and took up the consideration of the bill land titles act 1913. This bill provides for the appointment in each county of an official to be known as the "Master of Titles" who must be a barrister of not less than ten years standing, to whom any person owning real estate may apply for a certificate showing that he is possessed of an absolute title to the estate that he owns. By this means when the person comes to sell or mortgage any part of such estate the trouble of looking up the title to it would be done away with. The office of such an official would be that of the registrar of deeds, and the cost of the search prior to obtaining the certificate to be payable by the applicant. Provisions are included in the bill for giving notice to every one who may have any claim against any part of the estate under search, and a right of appeal is provided for to the supreme court.

A year ago Friday, through navigation on the St. John river was opened for 1914, when the steamer D. J. Busby docked at the capital. This year the steamer is still afloat, and from present indications will not run out before the coming week is ended.

Charles Kenneth Curry, aged 27, a native of Nova Scotia, died on April 18 in the General Hospital at Vancouver, from the effects of self-inflicted gunshot wounds. Mr. Curry, who left home for Vancouver in 1908, had been in the military service of the United States, and was a member of the Conservative party as it had been brought about by the action of the western farmers who now realize that the efforts of this government.

Mr. Wm. Smith, of South Ontario, said that farmers should be and were prepared to bear their share of the cost of the tariff, and therefore did not object to paying a duty on implements. Free wheat, he said, could not be had without the inevitable complement of free flour. The statement had been made that free wheat would mean greater buying power for the western farmer. Yes, but where would the good prices be? The wheat would be sold south of the line, which would mean that business alliances would be made between the Canadian west and the United States rather than between the west and east. What was needed in Canada was not reciprocity with the United States, but reciprocity between east and west.

High Stewart, aged eighteen years, was arrested on Saturday afternoon by Detective Killen on the strength of a telegram from Chief of Police J. F. Carter, of Amherst, who the telegram said, was a wanted man, charged with stealing. The telegram was received some time ago, requesting that the man should be held if seen about the city. On Saturday afternoon Detective Killen accidentally met Stewart and placed him under arrest. An official will probably write from Amherst today to take him away.

GOVERNMENT DEAF TO CRY OF MASSES

ence with the government—a deputation of 6,000 farmers?

Ottawa, April 20.—Resuming the debate on the budget, O. Turgeon, of Gloucester (N. B.), said that the aggregate surplus since the Conservatives had come into office would have been sufficient to provide capital for the construction of the Georgian Bay Canal, yet the work had not been commenced. A commission had been appointed, whose findings the government said it would abide, but the Liberal party would not be so bound.

Turning to the tariff question, Mr. Turgeon maintained that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had since 1896 shown an inclination to make tariff changes as rapidly as possible, which the British preference was tangible evidence. The Conservatives had belittled this preference, and the only condition on which they would do anything in the way of granting it was by imposing it on the food supply of the British laboring classes.

Mr. Turgeon approved of the work of the Technical Education Commission, which was teaching people to farm, and disapproved of military expenditures for teaching people to kill each other.

Turning to free wheat, he said that the poorer man, the more flour he used, and that the government, if it had any real sympathy for Canadian workmen, would give them free flour. Mr. Turgeon said the fishermen of the maritime provinces and the raisers of cattle in western Canada had enjoyed big prices in recent months because of the free entry of cattle and fish into the United States. The fishermen of the west had never enjoyed such good prices. No thanks for this boon was due to the Conservative party as it had been brought about by the action of the western farmers who now realize that the efforts of this government.

Mr. Wm. Smith, of South Ontario, said that farmers should be and were prepared to bear their share of the cost of the tariff, and therefore did not object to paying a duty on implements. Free wheat, he said, could not be had without the inevitable complement of free flour. The statement had been made that free wheat would mean greater buying power for the western farmer. Yes, but where would the good prices be? The wheat would be sold south of the line, which would mean that business alliances would be made between the Canadian west and the United States rather than between the west and east. What was needed in Canada was not reciprocity with the United States, but reciprocity between east and west.

Western Farmers the Real Patriots.
Dr. Warnock, of MacLeod, who followed Mr. Smith, had been endeavoring to give the impression that the western farmers were American in spirit. The truth of the matter was that they were the real patriots who had come back from the United States to make their homes in Canada. The budget, said Dr. Warnock, had been received with intense disappointment by western farmers who now realize that it was useless to send delegations to Ottawa.

"This budget," said Dr. Warnock, "has aroused intense bitterness in the west. The western farmers realize that it is no more use sending delegations to Ottawa. They realize that half a dozen manufacturers get more recognition in the shaping of the policy of the present minister of finance than 20,000 farmers would have."

"Now, the westerner is a very human. He is determined to do something to protect himself. All over the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan the people are now busy organizing co-operative concerns, which are to have both an economic and a political significance. These concerns will endeavor to direct the business of the west, where they shall sell and from whom they shall buy. Moreover they are planning in the next election to select and support candidates who are pledged by vote and vote to serve conscientiously and faithfully the interests of the farmers."

Mr. Warnock counselled Hon. Robert Rogers to secure free wheat and free agricultural implements before next election. "And if I know the minister of public works, he will do so. He has a keen appreciation of votes and he does not want to see the western provinces go solid—every constituency—against his party if he can help it."

"Keep busy," said Mr. Rogers. The debate was adjourned by J. H. Sinclair, Guyabon, and the house rose shortly after 11 o'clock.

Mexico City, April 20.—President Huerta has given assurance that all foreigners are safe. Huerta's general order had been ordered to four army transports a year ago to support the forces of Huerta's general.
