Lori,
You made my day when I saw you in the library on Monday. I've been waiting for the right time to approach you and talk, but that moment has never presented itself. But now that I've got your number, I intend on using it. Hope you don't (or didn't) mind. I would really like to become better acquainted.

What can I say? This is a milestone. Think of it as a labor for/of love, good humour and tolerance. Thanks for the movies, discussion, walks in the park and the laughs. Let's hope the next six years are as successful. You are always with me.

To the townie that screwed with my head;
I don't know how I was misled,
I thought that you cared,
But I was impaired,
And now I just wish you were dead.
We used to be friends,
But that had to end,
On the night of Club Med,
When all I had to say was said,
And I left you alone in the sand.
