Dear Sir:

*This is

I am obliged by your letter regarding Peace Day, and in reply would venture to suggest that you should first secure its adoption in Canada and then if you succeeded there you could endeavor to bring in other colonies and eventually the old country.

I do not think you will succeed if you begin with a scheme for all parts of the Empire and the Anglo-Saxon people. All sound movements begin on a small scale and then grow.

Why not start by endeavoring to make the celebration of Empire Day in Canada and Peace demonstration. You have strong grounds for standing as the Apostles of Peace to the Empire from your history for the last one hundred years, and the way in which peace has been maintained with the States without any fortifications along your good miles of frontier.

Yours faithfully,

M. Moore Ide
