to the system of argumentation on which our dear brethren pride themselves, that it is made up of little patches taken from this one, and from that one, and which are, we fear, rather clumsily sown together. Instead of looking at the sense of these great authors, and the full tenor of their teaching, little sentences are abstracted, and placed in such a light as to produce just the opposite impression from that intended. It is enough to make the heart bleed to see the frantic efforts of our distracted brethren to in this manner, cover up their poverty from

Adam and Eve, with their fig leaves, were pitiable patchwork. The coverlet is, however, far from complete, it is, we grieve to say, narrower than a man can wrap himself in, and, Mr. Editor, if you know of any old volume, no matter how obsolete, from which a stray sentence or two could be abstracted it would be an act of charity to bestow it on these needy ones. The smallest contribution from any Pedobaptist author would no doubt be thankfully received. Your, truly, CRITIC.

size of the peaches ordinarily brought to this R. W. Fraser and H. W. Blackadar. market. A second sample of peaches 84 inches in girth and weighing 54 ounces, was yesterday exhibited by Messrs. Logan and Lindsay. They were grown by Mr. John Troop, Bear River, which seems to be a famous region for peaches. Not such a very bad country this after all.

The fruit here referred to grew quite convenient to our door, and we had beautiful specinens sent to us from the owners, therefore can vouch for the correctness of the statement, the Peach tree on Mr. Troop's Property is near our parlor Window.

PROP. GRAY IN THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBI-HOM AT FREDERICTON. - The Saint John Morning News, in its very admirable notices of last week's Exhibition says:—The exhibition of paintings in oil and water colours, by the Professor of drawing and painting in Sackville Academy, Mr. J. W. Gray, are all of Provincial scenery, shewing good choice of subjects, and seem to form the centre of attraction. Fort Cumberland is a large and very correct view. Part of the old Fort is seen, and also the head waters of the Bay of Funday, with Shepody Mt. in the distance. The interest attached to this picture will grow with time as the old Fort crumbles away.

The second, a charming bit of river scenery, River Philip, Cumberland County, N. S. It is painted in a strong, forcible manner, with good effective light and shade. The sky and the water are true to nature.
"Summer Showers in the Nerepis Valley" is a small picture well rendered. The watery appearance of the sky is a success.

"Autumn near Woodstock" is deep and rich in colour, unmistakably autumn.

"A Winter Scene"—the effect of snow on the spruce tree is true to nature, and altogether it is about the best rendering of a New Bruns wick winter we have ever seen.

"The Evening Hour" is sweet in compos tion and rich in colour. All of these paintings reflect a very great amount of credit on Mr. Gray as an artist, as well as the institution which numbers him among its professors.
