If a has been a number of strange incidents within its walls, if you were to believe the proprietor. I don't say the man lied, but he certainly did some remarkable tricks with the truth. The first night I met him he nearly knocked my eye out, his talks being somewhat as follows:
"Hotel keeping is a strange life, and we have to put up with a great many things to please our greats. I remember one night an old fellow with a bronzed complexion came into the hotel and asked for a room. He was a commodated, but staid up stairs only a few minutes, after which he came down and said that he was a sea captain and could not sleep in such a quiet room. Don't you know that I had to put him into a room next to the bathroom and keep the water turned on full at night so that he clow as a bird. They said he was free mand, but we say struck this town. They had a troupe of Eskimo. That fellow was a bird. They said he was many not so green. I can tell you. He was all wrapped up in furs, although the weather was warm. I put him into a nice comfortable room, and he kept the bell ringing continually, ordering absinth frapper yre few minutes. Finally the manager of the show, who went up to see why the Eskimo was drinking so much, came down and told me that the little follow was trying to get cold and couldn't sleep in that hot room. Don't you know threat before we could get that fellow enfortable we had to put him to bed in the remarker. Then was a fearful night, and I'll below the had to put him to bed in the re-frigerator! "That was a fearful night, and I'll never forget it. They had a trained bear with the show, and that animal was trained, let me tell you. About an hour after supper (the bear ate in the dining room just like the other folks, sitting in a chair) the bear ups and walks into the bar. The man who trained it told us to give the bear some bottled beer. Well, the bartender made a mistake and put up ginger ale and lost an ear by his foolish-ness. You wouldn't believe it, but that bear drank 27 bottles of beer without turning a hair. It didn't even make him talkative. talkative. "'As I said before, that was a fearful

"'As I said before, that was a fearful night. The other things were bad enough, but when one of the small snakes got loose and cravled up the speaking tube we were nearly out 'ef our senses. The bells kept ringing, and the tabes whis-tling, but no one find the nerve to answer the call. A man who put his ear to one of those tubes was linble to have the snake come out and bite him. We never did use the tubes any more, but put in electric bells next week.","-Baltimore Sun.
