

LESSON I—JAN. 5, 1908. The Word Made Flesh—John 1: 1-18.

Commentary.—1. The nature and dignity of the Word (vs. 1-5). Divine attributes are applied to him and divine acts are ascribed to him. 1. The Word was truly God (vs. 1, 2). 2. The Word had eternal existence (vs. 2, 3). 3. The Word was the Creator (vs. 3, 4). 4. The Word was the source of light (vs. 4, 5). 5. The Word was distinct from God—a personal and distinct being (vs. 1, 2, 3, 4). 6. The Word was Jesus Christ (vs. 14).

7. Therefore, Jesus Christ was divine, very God, yet a personal distinct being. In the beginning—Before all created things. In the ages of eternity when only God existed, was the Word did not come into being; he was never created; he was "the Word"—The Great term here translated "Word" is Logos and has the double meaning of thought and speech. Christ is called the Word of God because through him is revealed to us the thoughts, feelings, purposes and will of God, as our words express to others our thoughts, feelings and purposes. The Eternal Word of God became a man with a human body and a human soul. "He did not cease to be the eternal Word. His divine nature was not laid aside. Retaining all the essence of a new mode of being, not a new God—in substance and essence God."

"The Father is God; the Son is God; the Holy Spirit is God; God is One."—Chalmers. This is an unfathomable mystery, but it is eternal life to believe and know it. The doctrine of the Trinity is clearly taught in the Scriptures and is the corner-stone of the Christian religion. 2. The same was in the beginning—God was eternally Triune, three in one. There was the Second Person in the Trinity before he was manifested in the flesh, even from eternity. He was not created Divine—he existed Divine.

3. All things were made by him—Terrestrial and celestial, visible and invisible, men, worlds and angels.—Hall. All things came into being through him, by his agency. He created, but all other things were made—Sadder. The effort here is not to declare the Second Person of the Trinity the greatest of three in One, but to prove his divinity and eternal existence of Christ, not that he is one with God, but that he is God, the One Eternal God, and without him—Apart from him. He is identified with every created thing, and a familiar with and has authority over creation. His plans and purposes concerning men should not be regarded lightly. 4. In him was life—Christ was and still is the source, the fountain-head, from whom flows all life—physical, intellectual, moral, spiritual, eternal. Compare John 5:26; the life was the light—There is first life, then light. Dead eyes cannot see nor dead minds know. Whatever light men have in knowledge or holiness comes from Christ, the great life-giver, the infinite fountain of all blessings. Christ in his life and through the life he gives to us shows us God and duty and salvation and heaven. He reveals the truth; he is the living embodiment of truth (John 14:6).

5. The light shineth—"Christ has revealed himself constantly, by creation, by providence, by the strings of the Spirit, by the course of events, by the revelations of prophets, and even by the dim intimations of heathen consciousness."—And the light still shineth, clearer and brighter than in the past. In darkness the darkness of sin, ignorance and unbelief has enshrouded the world; all ages comprehended it not—Did not see it or profit by it. But an other translation—in the margin of the R. V. changed the meaning—"the darkness overcame it not." The light, though sometimes apparently overcome, was really victorious; it withstood every assault, and shone on triumphantly in a darkened world.—Revision Com.

6. John's witness to the true light (vs. 6-9, 15). 6. There was a man—See R. V. Literally, "the beginning to be a man," in contrast with the Word who had no beginning. Sent from God—God gave him his mission and his message, his credentials and his instructions—he was a messenger. John—The Baptist. An account of his work is given in Luke 1, and of his manifestation as a prophet in Matthew 3. A deep significance attaches to the name John, which means "The gracious gift of God," and which was given from heaven.

7. To bear witness of the Light—There is much said in this gospel about witnessing. John bore a strong, clear testimony in behalf of Christ, and proved from the Scriptures that Jesus was the Messiah. The fact that John himself had appeared as the fulfillment of prophecy (Isa. 40: 3-5; Mal. 3: 1), and that there had been no collusion between himself and Jesus were strong corroborative points. All men believe—John's purpose was to cause Israel to believe in Jesus as their Messiah, but his efforts contributed largely to a more general belief in Jesus, for the gospel was not for the Jews alone, not for a race or class, but for all men—always and everywhere. 8. Not that light—John was not the source of light, but only a reflector of the light, a lampstand, 9. That was—that is Christ was. The true light—Not that John was a false light, but Christ was the "genuine, perfect light, the original source of light," and his messenger only carried rays of light from him. Which lighteth every man—Not "all men." The Light illumines each one singly, not all collectively. That cometh into the world—This clause refers to "the true light" not to "every man." The best Light expositors either read "which lighteth every man" as a parenthetical phrase, or transpose it to the close of the verse. 15. Bear witness, etc.—It seems probable that this verse describes the usual character of John's testimony concerning Christ. He was continually proclaiming Christ's superiority.

III. The true light rejected by some (vs. 10, 11). 10. As in the world—He was in the world "in all the past ages, in every manifestation of God, in the history of the chosen nation, but especially when he appeared as the man Christ Jesus, the Saviour of the world. This is one reason why the world should have received him." Made by him—He was their Creator, and they were his creatures, made in his image. This is another reason why the world should have received him. Knew him not—They did not recognize him as their Creator, Saviour, King. 11. Unto his own—His own property or possessions. His own creation, own inheritance. Referring to all people, but with a special emphasis on the Jewish nation, he created, he redeemed, he preserved, he blessed, he loved. Another reason why they should have received him. Received him not—"Neither by the world at large, nor by the leaders of the temple, nor by the citizens of Nazareth, were his claims allowed."—Sperry.

IV. The benefits of receiving the true light (vs. 12, 13). 12. As received him—Individuals without distinction of race, nationality or condition. Gave he power—"The right"—R. V. The original word combines both ideas—the right and the power. Both are true and both should be accepted. Sons of God—See R. V. God's divine side, God adopts us as children by imparting to us His life (John 3: 3, 5). On the human side, we must be born again, from above (John 3: 3, 5), by believing. That believe—"Only those are children who receive the divine life and the divine nature by true faith."—Barnes. Spiritual birth, regenerated. Not of blood, etc.—No natural inheritance can make us members of the family of God. Will of the flesh—Not from any fleshy desire. A second dominion of any physical process. Will of man—Man by his own volition is not able to save himself.

V. The incarnate Word reveals the truth to others our thoughts, feelings and purposes. The Eternal Word of God became a man with a human body and a human soul. "He did not cease to be the eternal Word. His divine nature was not laid aside. Retaining all the essence of a new mode of being, not a new God—in substance and essence God."—Vincent. Dwelt among us—Literally, "Tabernacled among us, dwelt as in a tent."—John here bears testimony to what he had actually seen. His glory—There is probably a reference to the transfiguration (Luke 9: 32; 2 Pet. 1: 17). But the whole body of disciples had beheld Christ's real glory as revealed in His character. He was the living embodiment of righteousness, truth and love. Christ was the express image of the Father; in Him dwelt all the fullness of the Godhead bodily. "Only begotten"—He are children of God in a sense, but only Jesus Christ is His Son in this highest and special meaning. Grace and truth—These were His glory. "Grace includes all mercy; truth, all justice." He was "full" of these.

16. B. We have here three great declarations about Christ: 1. It is Christ alone who supplies all the spiritual wants of all believers. 2. Christ and His gospel are vastly superior to Moses and the law. 3. It is Christ alone who has revealed God the Father to man.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS.

"The Word of God." A word is a thought manifested. Christ the Word took the thought of the mind and heart of God, and expressed it so we could comprehend it, so that what was "invisible and insaisable and beyond our reach comes into our minds as something once in God's heart and mind, but now in ours." If you would know God, hear the word (Rom. 10: 17).

I. The eternal Word. "The same was in the beginning with God" (vs. 2). "This is hold ground, where we should tread with shoeless feet in a lowliness that assumes nothing, that listens meekly, that bows implicitly to him who speaks, that accepts the divine communication concerning the essential glory of the Son, that owns him as the eternal, personal Word, and rejoices in his being what he has himself declared."—"All things were made by him" (vs. 3). The world through him came into existence (vs. 10). He who was "the beginning of the creation of God" (Rev. 3: 14) is the Creator of all things. Nothing exists that was not created by the Word of God (Gen. 1: 3, 6, 9, 14, 20, 24, 26). II. The living Word. "In Him was life" (vs. 4). He is the source of life. "Life in him is undivided, independent and self-subsisting. All other life, vegetable, animal, human or angelic, is derived and dependent. Even the life possessed by faith, the spiritual, divine, eternal life we have as born of God, is not essentially and intrinsically ours. We live it derivatively from him. We live in him." Through him we have, 1. Regeneration. "he Word of life" 1. John 1: 11; Phil. 2: 16). The seed (Luke 8: 11; 1 Peter 1: 23). 2. Refreshment. "The bread of life" (John 6: 48, 51, 54, 57). 3. Sanctification. "The water of life" (Rev. 21: 6; 22: 17; Eph. 5: 26). 4. Revelation. "The light of life" (John 8: 12; 1: 4; Pan. 119: 105; 2 Peter 1: 19). 5. Humility. "The grace of God" (1 Peter 3: 7; 2 Cor. 8: 9). 6. Resurrection. "The spirit of life" (Rev. 11: 11; Rom. 8: 2, 7; 22: 2). 8. Reward. "The crown of life" (James 1: 12; Rev. 2: 10).

IV. The rejected Word. "It is not to receive to his own, and his own received him not" (vs. 11). Jesus came a stranger to the earth and he had created (vs. 10). He came as the revelation of the Father's love (vs. 16). 1 John 4: 10). He came to save sinners" (1 Tim. 1: 15). But he was rejected by his own world (vs. 10). his own nation (vs. 11); his own country (Mark 6: 4); his own city (Luke 4: 29); his own kindred (Mark 6: 4); his own house (John 7: 51); his own disciples (Matt. 26: 21). Men misunderstood him (Luke 2: 50); John 8: 43); despised him (Isa. 53: 3); persecuted him (John 15: 20); mocked him (Matt. 20: 18, 19); forsook him (Mark 14: 50); crucified him (Acts 4: 10).

V. The received Word. "But as many as received him," etc. (vs. 12). Christ is God's "unspeakable gift" to the world (2 Cor. 9: 15). To receive him is to practically and definitely believe that Jesus is the Son of God, the Christ, the Son of God (1 John 5: 1). It is not to receive a doctrine or a creed or a dogma, but to receive the Son of God, a living person as our sin-bearer (Heb. 9: 8; 1 Pet. 2: 24); our Redeemer (Titus 2: 14); our Saviour (Matt. 1: 21, margin); our life, our light and our love. A lady who had drifted into Christian Science, and so into darkness, said to the pastor who pointed out her error: "Strange I never thought. They taught me Christ was a principle. I have been trying to love a principle." Then with gladness she shouted, "Oh! he is a person; my Saviour."

VI. The incarnate Word. "And the Word was made flesh" (vs. 14). He was the Word (vs. 1). He became flesh. He was declared to be the Son of God, he became the seed of David (Rom. 1: 3, 4). He was in the form of God, he became a man (Phil. 2: 6, 7). "The Word...dwelt among us" (vs. 14). To dwell is to find and make a home.

VII. The personal Word. "No man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son...he hath declared him" (vs. 18). At one time in Abyssinia there was a curious custom, which hints at the primary significance of "the Word," the people never saw their kind. He sat within a covered place and spoke through an aperture to a man who stood near and gave his message to the assembled people. This officer was called Kal Hataz, "the word of the king." No man hath seen God, but Christ declared him—not as a monarch far off and unapproachable, but as a Father near and loving. God is love; love is the essence of his being; but his nature would never have been known had not the Word embodied it in a human life. A. G. M.
