ABOUT THIS CASE

Dodd's Kidney Pills Cure a Young Man Who Had Reached a Very Critical Stage of Kidney Disease

His Case Was More Serious Than He Thought, But Thanks To Dodd's Kidney Pills He Is Well and Strong Now.

St. Leolin, Glo. Co., N. B., April 8.—(Special).—Mr. Patrick Downing, of this place, is a young man only twenty years of age, but some time ago kidney disease had him firmly in its grasp and had it not been for Dodd's Kidney Pills he would probably not have been alive to-day. "I think the cause of my trouble was over work," says Mr. Downing, "any way it began with a heavy dragging pain in my back and across my loins. Then I was subject to headache, cramp in the muscles, dizzy spells and weakness till I felt fit for nothing. But the worst symptom of my case was when I noticed my urine was streaked with blood, then I knew that my kidneys were affected. Hearing of Dodd's Kidney Pills I sent for some and I am pleased to say the pains have all gone since taking them and I am well and strong as ever I was."

Aged 78; Year In the Central.
Windsor, April 9.—Seventy-eight years old and a self-confessed burglar, Paul Laroux was Saturday sentenced by Judge McHugh to one year in the Central Prison, Toronto, for robbery committed in McGregor several weeks ago.

Saw Mills Burn.
Ottawa, April 9.—The saw mills of Ald. James Davidson, situated at Fort Coloume, Pontiac County, were completely destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon. The loss is $25,000; insurance $10,000.

ABOUT RHEUMATISM.

There are few diseases that inflict more torture than rheumatism and there is probably no disease for which such a varied and useless lot of remedies have been suggested. To say that it can be cured is, therefore, a bold statement to make, but Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which enjoys an extensive sale, has met with great success in the treatment of this disease. One application of Pain Balm will relieve the pain, and hundreds of sufferers have testified to permanent cures by its use. Why suffer when Pain Balm affords such quick relief and costs but a trifle? For sale by all druggists.

Date Is Inconvenient.
Washington, April 9.—The State Department has suggested to the Russian Government, through Ambassador Rosen, that the period suggested in the Russian note for the convening of the second Hague conference, namely, the early part of July, would be inconvenient to this country, and to some of the other countries of this hemisphere, which had expected to be represented at the Hague.

THE VERY BEST REMEDY FOR BOWEL TROUBLES—NO FAMILY CAN AFFORD TO BE WITHOUT IT.

Of regard Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as one of the very best remedies for bowel troubles," says Mr. J. W. Hanlon, editor of the Despatch, Ocala, Georgia. "I make this statement after having used the medicine in my family for several years. I am never without it." No family can afford to be without a bottle of this remedy in the house. It is certain to be needed sooner or later. For sale by all druggists.

Charges of Lawson Effective.

Boston, April 9.—The charges made by Thomas W. Lawson that the big insurance companies, in their hunt for proxies, have been giving rebates and issuing policies for no consideration other than the assignment of the vote to the holder, resulted Saturday in the return of several indictments after a special enquiry under the direction of District Attorney John D. Moran. All the names but one were withheld pending arrests. The exception is that of Frederick Hockaday, who is accused of "allowing rebates of insurance premiums contrary to the public statutes." Hockaday was taken into custody.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing this. "HELLO GIRLS" GOING

THEY ARE BEING SUPERCEDED BY AUTOMATIC PHONES.

The Substitution At Exchanges of An Electrically Controlled and Self Acting Apparatus For the Manual Switchboard Is a Great Change—Apparatus Does Everything But Think, and Seems to Do Even That.

INDICATOR PLATE FOR CALLING.

The telephone girl as an individual may be a charming creature and a hard working employee, but as an abstract proposition experts in telephony have long been seeking to do away with her. Indeed she has been done away with already in some places, and it is believed that ere long she will be relegated to the domain of outworn institutions, along with the high wheeled bicycle and other devices which in their day and generation were a good thing, but which have survived their usefulness.

One improvement has rapidly followed after another in telephone construction and operation in the last ten or fifteen years, so that the methods now in vogue at the exchanges in putting subscribers in communication are quite different from what they were even as late as the close of the nineteenth century.

The introduction of the "common battery" system, which did away with the old plan of turning a "crank to 'ring up' a person when a telephone conversation was desired, was a great improvement. It is much more convenient simply to remove the receiver from its hook in calling central than to turn a crank, as the old system, still in use in some places, necessitated. The improvement also has saved a great saving in the cost of installation of telephones.

The most radical change of all is that introduced with the automatic exchange system, which substitutes for the "hello girls" an apparatus that does everything but think, and that seems to do even that. It makes the operation obtaining telephonic connection speedier and greatly reduces the cost of maintaining a plant and the large force of operators need be employed. It also has an advantage in that the two persons talking may be assured of absolute secrecy. There is no possibility that some far operator at the exchange switchboard, with the curiosity natural to her sex may be listening, a matter of special importance in the smaller towns.

According to the automatic system, which is now in operation in several large cities, the subscriber instead of calling up an operator at the exchange and naming the number he wishes pushed the pointers of a dial so that they stand over the exact number he required. He presses the button, and the automatic exchange does the rest. If the line of the subscriber called is busy the person calling hears a buzzing sound which notifies him of the fact. Otherwise he hears the signal bell at the other end of the line ringing and waits until the call is answered. When through he hangs up the receiver, as in the old system; the two lines are disconnected and free for other use. At the telephone exchange instead of a switchboard, with its operators in front of it there is a system of mechanical devices electrically controlled. The machinery to perform the operations formerly executed by the "hello girls" is done by a series of switches, which are controlled by the dial. In the case of the Paris system each section is capable of serving 100 lines. The principal part of each section is an instrument known as a decimal indicator, which is constantly revolving. When a subscriber presses the button a message is conveyed to this revolving indicator, which passes it to an automatic switch, of which there are a number in each section, their work corresponding to that of the telephone girl who works on the manual switchboard. The number wanted is spelled out with remarkable rapidity by the mechanical switches, and the decimal indicator is free in a shorter time than it takes to tell the story to take up other work as required. When there are more calls than the number of switches idle the calls are stored and served to the first switches disengaged without greater delay than a few seconds at most, which is better treatment than one usually receives from the intentionally exasperating telephone girl.

Should there be any crossing or grounding of wires automatic notice of it is immediately given to the exchange, consequently the defect may be remedied before even the subscriber is aware of it.

WOULD TRUST COLONIES.

Lord Curzon Raps Government re-Natal's Recent Treatment.

London, April 9.—Lord Curzon, in his speech at the Pilgrims' Club banquet at the Savoy Hotel Friday night appealed to the British people to do as they could, trust the men on the spot in the colonies and not to worry, fret or nag them with dogmatic wisdom. They themselves did not claim superiority for wisdom, but in any case their errors were in no wise comparable to those based on dogmatic ideas, conceived at home.

He proceeded to rap the Government for its recent treatment of Natal, warning it never to sacrifice the interests of a dependency to the convenience of a British interest and never to force on it a policy unsuitable to it because it was advantageous to the Home Government.

Lord Curzon concluded by urging the country to send its best men to its dependencies.

Don't blame the child; the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

CHANGE EASILY MADE.

Former U. S. Minister to Norway and Sweden Gives History of Metric System Adoption There.

Strong testimony to the ease with which the change from the old system of weights and measures to the metric system was made in Sweden and Norway—a quarter of a century ago—was given recently by Major Thomas B. Ferguson, who served with distinction as the American Minister to Sweden and Norway from 1883 to 1893. When asked about the reform which those countries worked in their standards of weights and measures Major Ferguson pointed to a large scale which stood upon his desk.

Two Markings on Scales.

"You will observe," said he, "that this scale is marked in two ways. The metric units are indicated on one side of the line and the old Swedish pounds and their divisions on the other. The hand of the scale, when it is in use, shows at a glance the weight of the article placed upon it, not only in the old Swedish pounds but in the metric kilograms and their decimal division. In order to facilitate the change from the old system to the metric the Swedish Government marked the metric equivalents on any scale sent to it by any citizen. At first the merchant or housewife would weigh articles by the old standard, but would note the metric equivalent until they were as familiar with the one as with the other.

"The period of transition in Norway occupied about three years. During the first year or two the persons using the old weights had them marked by the Government, so that the 'skelpund,' which is about one English pound, was increased to one-half kilogram. The old steel yards were changed to make the weight of weight on the beam equal to one-half kilogram for each old pound. The bushel measure for corn was adjusted so that one hundred and forty liters made a bushel, and seventy liters made a half bushel. I obtained in 1886 a report from the Norwegian officer of the customs office and for the change and control on the results of the change in Norway. This report says in part:

"The change from the old system of weights and measures to the metric system did not cause any trouble of serious importance. Knowledge of the metric system was imparted by instruction in the schools, by publishing practical models and by means of popular notes and lectures. The law for the introduction of the metric system into Norway was issued on May 22, 1875. From July 1, 1879, this system was actually introduced for public trade and commerce. From this date its employment by the customs office and for calculating every kind of public fees became obligatory.

All Done in Three Years.

"From July 1, 1882, the metric law was fully enforced. Consequently, from that date the use of the new system has been compulsory for the purchase and sale of wares and the payment of fees and all other transactions. The period of transition from the old system to the new one commenced three years. After this all corrections of measures were forbidden. (It should be observed that even before the metric law of 1875 was passed the weight in grams had been used as an apothecary weight in Norway from July, 1871, having been introduced by the law of May 9, 1871.)

"It is beyond doubt that in Norway the metric system has proved to be practical and easy, useful and well adapted to every kind of trade, and certainly nobody in the country would wish to return to the old and complicated system. Whether the introduction of the metric system in Norway has had any direct influence on the commerce of the country may be rather hard to solve, except that naturally the use of the system has facilitated the intercourse with other countries which are using it."

Major Ferguson was asked what had been the results of the change in Sweden. He replied:

"Also in 1896 I obtained from the Foreign Office in Sweden a report from the assay and control office. I have made these extracts from the report:

"The metric has been used exclusively at the custom house and post offices and for the railway traffic of the kingdom since the beginning of 1881. The surveyors, however, were required to state the size of the plots in the old measure in their representation of their surveys. The proclamation of the Board of Assay containing the detailed regulations regarding the implementation of the metric law was published Nov. 13, 1879, and was followed by a royal proclamation concerning fees on Feb. 27, 1880.

"As guides for the change into the metric system of measures many private publications were issued, containing a variety of scales and schedules for the new measure. The new measures and weights were not universally used until the period of transition was completed. After that the only lawful standards were the metric ones. No trouble of importance was observed in the transition, although prices were naturally fixed in many places, especially in the distant provinces, according to the old measures, but the new measures were used exclusively in delivering the goods.

"Practically, the metric system has proved satisfactory. The only additions to it after 1879 were the introduction of a measure of capacity of one and one-half peckliters for measuring dry wares and the denomination ton for one thousand kilos and decton for a tenth part of a ton or one hundred kilos. For the requirements of the postoffice special weights of 15 and 12 grams were used. Several retailers expressed a wish for a special name of half a kilo, which would correspond nearly to the old pound, but no wish was ever expressed for the re-establishment of the old system.

"Count Douglas, Minister of Foreign Affairs, in transmitting this report, wrote me: 'With regard to your question (as to the effect of the metric system upon commerce), it might be mentioned, in addition to the Swedish memorial, that, according to the opinion of experts, the adoption of the metric system has proved profitable to the commerce of Sweden, as far as can be judged.'"

Cleryman—Maybe you'll grow up to be a minister like me.
Freddy—Well, I don't know. Papa says it isn't much of a job.

KILLED AN INSANE PATIENT.

St. John's Authorities Astounded By a Conscious-Stricken Man.

St. John, N. B., April 9.—Edward Maloney, an Englishman, about 26 years of age, entered the Central Station Saturday and astonished the police by stating he had killed a man last August in the City of Warren, Pennsylvania.

Maloney says that, four years ago, he had charge of a ward in a state insane asylum in Warren, Pa. One day in August last he was attending a patient named Davidson, who angered him. Having a violent temper, he struck the man over the head with an instrument and killed him. He then ran away to Canada.

Cures Rheumatism Too.

Bu-Ju cures Rheumatism, because it cures the Kidneys. Every drop of blood in the body passes through the kidneys, to be filtered. If the kidneys are sick—tired—inflamed—they don't filter out the uric acid. It is this acid, deposited in the joints—on the nerves—that causes Rheumatism.

COULD NOT INFLICT THE TORTURE WOMEN SUFFER FROM HEADACHES

Headache is not in itself a disease, but a symptom or accompaniment of other diseases, principally those of the stomach, liver and bowels, such as Constipation, Dyspepsia, Liver Trouble, Bad Blood, Female Complaints, General Debility and Weakness. Headache is common to both sexes, but more frequently affects females.

The varieties of headache most common are sick or bilious headache, nervous headache, headache from constipation, debility or indigestion, periodical and spasmodic headache. Undoubtedly the cause must be removed before permanent relief can be had.

removes the cause of the headache, and not only does this but it also restores the entire system to healthy action and buoyant vigor.

"I was troubled with headache for a number of years, but could get nothing to help me. I procured a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and finding it was doing me so much good, I got two more. I am now fully cured and think there is nothing in the world like Burdock Blood Bitters for headache."
