

THE UNION ADVOCATE, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 17, 1885.

Earl of Aberdeen has offered Gladstone the use of his residence, near London, for the remainder of the session. At the gathering it is expected that two of the foreign missionaries, now in the service of the Presbyterian Church will Salisbury. The Queen leaves Bahmoral on Tnesday and will arrive at Windsor on Wednesday morning.

The Standard thinks in the new Ministry Earl Carnaryon will be Foreign Secretary, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach Secretary of War and William Henry Smith First Lord of the Admiralty. It believes Lord Churchill will be offered a high post, but not likely that of Secretary for Ireland. The Standard says the general elections will probably be postponed until January, unless the Conservatives are unable to pass a coercion bill.

The promptness with which the Queen accepted the resignations of the Gladstone Ministry is the subject of general comment. She telegraphed her acceptance instead of sending it by courier, as is usual in cases of importance. The Queen it is said, is delighted over Gladstone's downfall. The Marquis of Salisbury, every body begins to see, lacks self-confidence. It is understood he will refrain from forming a cabinet until after he has held conference with all the Con-servative leaders. He is now on the way servative leaders. He is now on the way as the consideration of a new scheme for servative leaders. He is now on the way to London from Balmoral. The impres-sion prevails that the Parnellites will not have as much influence with the new Government as they expected. The Con-servative party is largely controlled by the prevalent opinion of the Tory clubs; all favor the theory avocated by Earl Spencer, that there is an absolute necessity for the continuance of the coercion policy in Ireland. On this point the Tories and the majority of the Liberals agree and on it they combine against the Radicals and Parnellites. If they do the Home Rulers

The scene that followed was stocked Garden, etc. will be in such a pitiable minority that their votes will count for nothing in Par-liament. It is not believed that Lord Salisbury will seek assistance from any of the Gladstone Ministers in forming his policy towards Ireland. His plan will be to split the Liberal party completely by proposing a measure of coercion based on Snencer's reports, a measure the same as Spencer's reports, a measure the same as Hartington and the majority of the Glad-a rush for an exit. Those in front were Hartington and the majority of the Guad-stone Cabinet insisted on continuing. Such a line of policy would be almost certain to lead to at least a temporary coalition between the moderate Liberals and the Tories against the Radicals and Parnellites, and give the new Govern-ment a tremendous majority. Sir S. Northcote has already been in consulta-tion with the Irish executive officials in were taken from the ruins dead.
