Senator David Says Commons Needs Reforming as Well as Upper Chamber

In the Commons Mr. Foster Accuses Government of Helping Friends to Sow Their Grain

banks and banking system. He said the system should be able to give the people good security. Mr. Foster moved for a return of the aid the government had secured from the banks for aiding the western crops stating that the aid had been given to supporters of the government.

Mr. Fielding replied that a return would be made. The House adjourned at 6 p. m. In the Senate, Senator David declared the Commons had overlooked the fact that they too would have to re-organize. Quebec could not keep up with the growth of the west and as the Maritime Provinces were not growing their representation in the Commons was diminishing and approaching the vanishing point. He wanted Senators elected every second term and resented the Senate being called a useless expense. He moved an amendment to Senator McMillin's motion.

DUNKERS INVAD BRITISH COLUMBIA

Large Colony is Arranging to Come to a Vast Area Near Ashcroft, British Columbia.

SIMILAR TO QUAKERS.

(Victoria Times.) There is a deputation in town today to interview the local government.

It is worthy of special note in that it represents a special class of people who have started a colonization movement in British Columbia. They are known as the Dunkers, who are said to have ideas and fancies similar to those of the Quakers. They believe in love. At least, it is rumored that they disbelieve in hate. In any case, their arms are religiously folded against the suggestion that any sort of offensive weapon should repose in them.

The deputation which is in town today is headed by P. E. Hopkins, an American. Mr. Hopkins is officiating as the agent for a colony of Dunkers, which proposes to settle at Ashcroft, this spring. On behalf of these people he has already purchased about 100,000 acres of land, including the Langley ranch. He has also bought out the plant of the Ashcroft Water & Light Company, and proposed to utilize the same as a commercial venture, and for the purpose of lighting their

LITTLETON LEAVES JEROME A HARD PROPOSITION

Makes an Able Appeal in Behalf of His Client Harry Thaw at Yesterday's Session

REFERS TO EVIDENCE

Says District Attorney Jerome Has Answered it only by Sneers and Insinuations

(Special to the Morning Graphic.) NEW YORK, Wednesday. — Martin W. Littleton, chief counsel in the defence of Harry Thaw today asked for the acquittal of his client upon the grounds of insanity, declaring he could not conceive how in the face of the evidence the jury could render any other verdict. The serious and sincere evidence of the defence, tending to establish the insanity of the defendant, Mr. Littleton declared, has been answered only by the sneers and insinuations of the District Attorney. The address of the defending attorney occupied all of the day's session and the District Attorney is expected to reply tomorrow. If he should conclude at the morning session, Justice Dowling will charge the jury during the afternoon. If Mr. Jerome should extend till into the afternoon however the case will not go to the jury until Friday morning. The speech was crisp in epigram and the short sentences were filled with the quality of appeal. The juryman followed it with intense interest and it was generally conceded that Mr. Littleton had left the District Attorney Jerome a difficult task.

Question as to Whether Province Has Right to Pass Such Legislation

AFFECTS OTHER ASIATICS

(Special to the Morning Graphic.) VANCOUVER, Wednesday. — The government admitted in the house in the Natal bill debate which passed its second reading today that unless the Courts decided that the British Columbia Legislature has the constitutional right to pass such legislation, the present bill could not apply to the Japanese. The bill has a clause which the treaty makes necessary, that the act will not apply to persons the terms of whose entry into Canada are sanctioned by the Dominion act. The socialists have an amendment to strike out the clause, but the act would still be in fatal conflict with the treaty. The legislature intends to pass the present bill, which will in any case restrict the immigration of other Asiatics, should Ottawa veto it; but it is doubtful if Dunsmuir will assent.

should only be a fit associate for gaul birds or lunatics. I have always done my best to behave myself and have met with nothing but good fellowship and kindness from all who know me here. Just for a little while I am out of employment, owing of course, to the line closing down for the winter months, but, thank God, I was able while working to provide, and to provide well, for those I left behind me. Mr. Malcolm, I assert, and am prepared to back my assertion, is a man in the highest sense of the word, and no matter in what part of the Dominion I may be in fact, no matter what part of the world I may be in, if I could do him any service, I would serve him faithfully and well. I speak with the knowledge of truth, and I always found Mr. Malcolm worthy of all acceptance, and he will come out triumphant against the scurrilous abuse heaped upon his head by a lot of cowardly liars. I, for my part, never asked him for any favor but what was immediately granted, and others had they behaved themselves would have fared equally as well. The saying, Mr. Sir, that it is a fierce light that beats around the throne, but some uncouth nonentity tries to make a fiercer light beat around the head of one individual who is evidently too much of a man for their little minds to understand, a man who, God helping me, I am prepared to protest against the calumny of such scums as the majority of the Englishmen were composed of, who came out here last summer.

My name is the same as in England, I assure you, Mr. Editor, I am not ashamed to sign it.

Faithfully yours,

READ WHAT THIS MAN HAS TO SAY

An Englishman Who came out With Mr. Malcolm's "Batch" Says they Were the Scum of the Earth.

REGRETS BEING IN THE CROWD.

To the Editor of the Morning Graphic:

Looking over the columns of your esteemed paper this morning, I notice certain comments passed on an editorial published in 'The Frederickian Gleaner' wherein the editor attacks the management of the International Railway in general, and all through the case of an Englishman who preferred charity to work. It may be a party cry, but when an editor becomes intoxicated with the exuberance of his own verbosity, not all his cries will ever avail his party much, for they will never appeal to the right judgment of any intelligent people.

I myself being one of the Englishmen coming out with that 'beautiful batch' for Mr. Malcolm last summer, can testify without any fear of contradiction that they were, in fact, the great majority, the worst class of men that could ever have left old England's shore, and the only regret I ever experienced was to find out when too late that I was travelling with some of Britain's worst, men whose only objection to the life here was because they could not do just as they liked, and because tents and good food were not half so good an investment as rumming on Liverpool and Manchester streets. Charity, they say begins at home, and I beg to differ with the St. John's Charitable Society for giving any help whatever to these men for it was a misplaced trust in the bona fides of those who had no bona fides at all. There was work here for all the men to do had they have had any inclination to do it, but the intention of the majority was not to work at all, they relied on the good faith of a generous democracy to believe every snivelling tale and he they could tell. Every man was treated with the utmost kindness, a kindness however, which was grossly abused, for had they behaved themselves as becomes men, the majority would not find themselves in the position they do today. But what cared they for wives and little children, for those at home or anywhere else, not one brass button, the only thing they cared for was to satisfy their own selfish and beastly natures, and to make the name of Englishman a common bye word for ridicule in these parts. I myself, as an Englishman, have my faults, I admit, but fully and freely, but, Sir, were I to find fault with the treatment meted out to me I should indeed be unworthy the name of man altogether and

AMERICAN FLAG IS TO BE SOLD

Colors of Frigate Chesapeake Lost in Battle of 1813 to be Sold in London To-day.

TROPHY IS GENUINE.

(Special to the Morning Graphic.) LONDON, Wednesday.—It is announced that the flag of the American man-of-war Chesapeake, which was captured by the British ship Shannon on June 12, 1813, will be sold at public auction in London today.

The flag in question is one of the large number of relics related to memorable historical events which were collected by the late T. G. Middlebrook. These relics are to be disposed of in Debenham's auction rooms by order of the executors of Mr. Middlebrook's estate.

It is said that the fact that Mr. Middlebrook owned the Chesapeake flag was known to a good many Americans, and that he received a number of invitations from the United States to come over and display the precious colors. It is said that at one time he seriously contemplated crossing the Atlantic, but was compelled to abandon the trip on account of a matter of business.

A statement relating to Mr. Middlebrook's ownership of the Chesapeake flag is in possession of the auctioneer. From this statement it appears that Mr. Middlebrook obtained the flag from William Chapman, of Kingston-on-Thames, and that it came to Mr. Chapman from Signor and Mme. Papi, Venetian, the latter having inherited

Light Sentence Imposed Upon Man Who Nearly Killed Ald. Mesereau of Chatham

TRIAL AT NEWCASTLE

Several Witnesses Tell of Former Liquor Dealer Kicking and Beating the Chatham Alderman

(Special to the Morning Graphic.) NEWCASTLE, Wednesday. — In the County Court today, Archibald Frackear, who on Oct. 25th last assaulted Ald. Mesereau, chairman of the Chatham police committee, was found guilty by the petty jury of common assault and sentenced to one year imprisonment in the county jail. The trouble between Frackear and Mesereau arose out of Scott Act enforcement, Frackear having been fined for selling liquor.

Anthony Adams swore that on the forenoon of Oct. 25th defendant had told him that he was going to kick Mesereau's head off.

Ald. Mesereau sworn, said that between 12 and 1 o'clock that day on his way home to dinner, Frackear accused him of telling stories and denying them and calling him names. He turned to leave Frackear and after that remembered nothing but an indistinct sensation of receiving a blow.

James Watson, sworn, said that he was called to the window by his wife and saw Frank Frackear kicking Jerome who was down. He ran across the street, picked Frackear back, stooped to pick Mesereau up when Frackear kicked Mesereau again in the head. Mesereau's face was covered with blood.
