Dominion day was very quietly celebrated in Fredericton, the cricket and base ball matches being the chief attractions. The military fired a salute on the P.O. grounds at 11 a.m. The bicylists had a pleasant run to Mouth of Tay, and there was a great deal of driving. The weather

The examination of candidates for admission to the next term of the Normal school, was held here this week by Inspector Bridges, assisted by J. F. Rogers of the Model school and W. T. Day of Marysville. There were 112 candidates; 25 for first, 68 for second, and 19 for third. Thirteen students also underwent examination for ma triculation at the university. Peter Cusiack, a St. John man, died very suddenly at the Douglas booms, Wednesday. The deceased was employed by the company as teamster, and complained that morning of not feeling well. Shortly after he requested foreman Elliot to send for a doctor and said that he believed that he was going to die The messenger had not been gone for a doctor but a few minutes when Cusiack breathed his last. Deceased was fifty-three years old. His remains were interred at St.

The Military were nicely done up by the Civilian cricketers Monday on the Officers' square. The city boys went in first and before they were all disposed of, had piled up a score of 109 runs. Harry Atherton reached the top figure twenty-four, and Crocket's 21, Hawthorn's 18 and Rutter's 15 were got by good batting. Atherton scored twelve runs from three hits over the boundary line. The military only put up 20 runs in their first innings and 29 in their second, the city winning by an inning and

An Interesting Book,

THE HERALD has had a look through an interesting little book written by J. W. Bailey, barrister of Boston, and son of Dr. Bailey, of the University of N. B., in which the writer gives a full and lucid description of the St. John river in Maine, Quebec and New Brunswick, and its tributaries. The work is especially adapted to the sportsman and should command a ready sale. It is Mr. Bailey's first aftempt at authorship and it does him infinite credit. A limited num ber of these books will shortly be offered for sale in Fredericton, and no doubt they will be eagerly sought after. Published from the Riverside Press, Cambridge, Mass.

In glancing over the report of the Church of England Synod meeting at Woodstock, THE HERALD at first thought it had struck an old legislative report, so often did the name of a gentleman named Hanington appear in connexion with lively discussions. In one place we read that after Rev. J. Roy Campbell and Rev. John deSoyres, who have been a little off towards each other on Kings College matters, had shaken hands, kissed and made up:

"Some remarks by Judge Hanington leading several members to fear that the old sore might be re-opened, objection was raised and he was ruled out of order." Yet, again, we read that Judge Haning-

Mr. Blair, late Manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia given a Lively Send Off.

By The Herald's Diner Out. "Should auld acquaintance be forgot, And never called to mind : Should auld acquaintance be forgot

In the days of Auld Lang Syne.'

The man whose inspired genius created hese words, touched a chord of the human heart whose wondrous vibrations have thrilled and magnetized the breasts of men of "all sorts and conditions of men" the whole world over, ever since the days of 'Auld Lang Syne." They are as familiar to most of us as the clothes we wear, as the faces we see around us every day. They have been sung again and again around the festive board in Fredericton; but never were they sung with more deep and genuine feeling than on Tuesday evening last, when the many friends of T. B. Blair, late manager of the bank of Nova Scotia here, gathered in the dining hall of the Queen notel to honor him and say farewell upon the occasion of his transference to the more mportant agency of St. John.

There was assembled together as lively a ompany of gentlemen as ever in this celestial city. No calling, professio or walk in life was without its representative There were merchants, bankers, capitalists ournalists, lawyers, doctors, soldiers and politicians. Prominent at the head of the table, smiling with customary benignity upon the bright scene around him, was seated in "The Chair" the portly form and isage rubicund of lawyer George A Hughes, having on his right the guest of the evening, F. B. Coleman of the Barker House, and Major Jack Rogers, of Montreal and on his left Provincial Secretary Mitchell and R. F. Randolph. In proposing the health of the guest of evening, Chairman Hughes made some extended and witty remarks, in the course of which he paid a warm tribute to the many sterling qualities of mind and heart which Mr. Blair had exhibited, during his all too short residence in the city; referred to the marked success which had attended his administration of the affairs of the Nova Scotia bank, since first he assumed their management; dwelt upon the very decided impression he had made upon the fair sex of the city and the many pangs of regret he was causing by his contemplated departure from among them, and wished him every success and good fortune in his management of the banner agency of the bank of Nova Scotia within the province. his day, and one of Fredericton's most prominent citizens. Col. Minchin was a native of Tipperary, Ireland, but spent a great part of his life here. He had two sons and two daughters; one of the former was the late Col. G. F. H. Minchin of Freder icton, a barrister, and for many years Judge of Probate for York County, one daughter was the first wife of the late Chas. P. Wetmore, and the other was the lady whose death THE HERALD notes to day. Minchin, sr., died Dec. 19, 1875, and is said to have been over a century old. His wife died Oct. 9th, 1839, and Judge Minchin, March 26th, 1885. There is no record in the cemetery plot of the other son's death. Mrs. Minchin Gordon was married to Dr. Gordon of Bathurst, who for some years represented Gloucester in the House of Assembly, but she only enjoyed twelve years of married life, her husband dying here of typhoid fever. He left no issue. Judge Minchin was never married. Mrs. Wetmore, who died March 22nd, 1828, was 29 years old, had only one child, a son, who died the Sept. following his mother's death, and Mrs. Gordon was the last surviving nember of the Minchin family. Minchin Gordon," and on the front of the cross are the words " Resting Under the Shadow of the Cross."

The will of the late G. F. H. Minchin left the greater portion of his property in trust to Mrs. Gordon, and at her death it was provided that with the exception of a sum sufficient to erect an iron rail fence or stone wall around the Cathedral grounds, a grant to the Diocesan church society, and some minor bequests, all his estate shall go to the was entered at $50,000 personal property and $7,500 real estate. A lady will sometimes spend hours selecting dress goods. She is not desirous of giving trouble at all. But there are conflicting claims. There are considerations of durability, of texture, of draping. Priestley's dress fabrics have reached a niche in the popular esteem when conflict ceases to vex. It is enough to get Priestley's black dress goods to feel confident that you have the best. They wear better than any other make.
