MARSHALL BROS.

Shannahan on Nuisances.

He Prescribes a Remedy for the "Unloaded."

If a man wheels a wheelbarrow on the sidewalk, a policeman fires him and his barrow out in the road. If a man staggers along on the street and takes up more than his share of the sidewalk, he soon gets a chuck that brings him to his senses, and if he slings or haws he is arrested and gets three months for disorderly conduct. This is as it should be, I suppose, and all these cases come under the Nuisance Act; but there are others which are permitted day by day by a long-suffering public, and the fun of the thing is that they have been permitted to go ahead so long that now people believe they are allowed by law. First and foremost we have that prying molasses-sticky jader, who perches down alongside of you just as you are engaged talking private matters with a friend. Unfortunately you become acquainted, or, as a matter of fact, had the misfortune to be introduced to him by a friend in a thoughtless moment, and therefore he thinks he has the right to "be on" to you on any occasion. These fellows, as a rule, are a crop of late growth and consequently a trifle fresh. You don't feel like firing your hat at them for the sake of the hat, but if you had your way you'd tell them to go to Hellgoland or some other place, where north-easters don't come up twice a day. I referred to that tiresome sticking-plaster, "The Unloader," in a former article, and one could write eighty-five volumes on this nuisance, but it would be useless, for already a remedy has been found in the "running away" racket. Everyone with a grain of sense runs away from the jader now. Life is too short and you're likely to get a cold, so you move on. When the "unloader" gets turned down 70 or 80 times a week, he usually wakes up to discover he is a "bore." 'Tis a wonderful awakening, for right along he thought "all the world wondered," and when he finds out—when he discovers that people put up with him for the sake of his feelings, he generally goes in back of Hennebury's and gives himself three running lashes in the side.

A Big Event at Grand Falls.

On Monday night in the Amusement Hall the grand dance in aid of the Catholic Church at Grand Falls, took place. One hundred couple attended and the affair from beginning to end was voted by all a splendid success. The following were guests of honor:—E. A. Surham, Esq., Secretary; W. Scott, Esq., Civil Engineer; V. Jones, Esq., Superintendent Mills; H. C. Hansen, Esq., Chief Accountant, A. N. D. Co.; and their lady friends. The floor directors, chairman, J. Judge, P. J. O'Leary, A. Duggan and J. Maloney, worked well and added materially to the success of the evening. The refreshment table was ably looked after by Mrs. Frank B. Ireland, assisted by Mrs. Patrick M. Kelly to whose good catering the assemblage were very pleased. James Duggan & Co. supplied the music which was very acceptable. Quite a purse of money was realized, and it goes without saying that under the management of Chairman James Judge and Secretary J. McNamara every event of this kind held for the above purpose at Grand Falls has been singularly successful. Rev. Fr. Dwyer, the promoter, is very popular amongst the people, and when he has an event on everyone vie with one another to make it a success. If cheap rates can be got from the Reid Nfld. Co. a big number of St. John's people together with a number of paper makers, electricians, etc., will come from Grand Falls for the Regatta. A movement is now on foot at Grand Falls to secure one way rates. We hope the R. N. Co. will respond to the wishes of the Paper Mill Town's people.

Newfoundlander Drowned at Stellarton.

Stellarton Station, July 11.—A sad drowning accident occurred here Saturday evening, when a young man named Tucker, about 22 years of age, was drowned while bathing with a companion in the East River, nearly opposite the Old Fort Pit. The deceased was a native of Newfoundland but had lately resided at Westville. A number of drowning accidents have occurred within recent years near the same spot in this river, which runs along the edge of the town.

KEEP MINARD'S LINIMENT IN THE HOUSE.

Ewart at the Hague.

(Daily News Message)

The Hague, July 14.—John S. Ewart, Esq., began his pleading today for Britain. He said that the British interpretation of the words "Three miles from the bays" in the Treaty of 1818, was simply three miles from bays. On the other hand, the American interpretation was complicated, and had changed several times in the course of the last century. The difficulty in determining the limits of the bays was apparent. Britain and America had often concluded treaties dealing with bays, but without defining the word "bay." In the Treaty of 1877 the Americans had for the first time advanced the territorial theory in contradiction to the terms of the treaty, which spoke of three miles from "bays," but not "three miles from shores of bays." For the rest, no nation recognized that the best territorial bays could not be broader than six miles from headland to headland.

Mr. John Skirving Ewart, K.C., is a member of the Bar of Ontario, and is an advocate of eminence. Presumably his special business is to speak on the case as it especially affects Canada.

Johnson Declares He Was Offered $350,000 to Throw the Fight.

Jack Johnson says he and his manager, Little, parried because the latter wanted him to throw the fight, and they had disputes over other matters. He says: "It was some days after I had settled down to actual hard work that Little came to me one afternoon. He began by telling me what a lot of money the fight was going to draw. Then he began to talk about the thousands of dollars the moving pictures would draw, and wound up by telling me that the pictures would be worth half a million dollars more if Jeffries should win than if I stopped the white man."

"He then got down to his final proposition, and that I should stall for a few rounds and then lay down." "It will be a fortune to you." "You needn't ever fight again or do anything else. You know you might possibly get licked anyway, and you might as well take what is offered and make certain of it. Then the moving pictures will be worth another fortune and you will be fixed for life."

Johnson refused to tell what the amount was that Little told him that had been offered for him to quit in the fight, but declared that it was almost too much for any man to pass. "I was told by Little that a syndicate was behind the offer," said Jack. "I did not give him a chance to tell me how they were going to get the money back, but, of course, the betting amounted to something. I stopped him just as I saw he was in earnest and wanted me to throw the fight. I won't repeat all that I said to him. I told him that I was through with him forever."

Small Pox Breaks Out Among Refugees.

Special to the Evening Telegram.
CAMPBELLTON, N.B., July 14. Pestilence to-day added its horrors to the plight of the hapless people of this town. A case of small pox was discovered among the refugees in the tents and was promptly reported. Quarantine was at once established and vigorous action will be taken to prevent the spread of the dread disease. The people are cheerful, but they are just beginning to realize that the worst may yet be before them. Everyone who can is leaving the scene of desolation. Of those who remain many are huddled together in tents or shelters made of blankets or boards thrown hastily together. Others are in the open fields or woods at the back of the town without any shelter whatever and with very little clothing. Food in plenty is being issued in a systematic way, so that no one need suffer from hunger. Men of the Militia are trying to keep order and are doing good work, but there ought to be many more on the spot to protect persons and property and prevent looting, which has already begun. Someone started selling liquor yesterday at the back of the town and an armed guard went out and seized the stock and destroyed it. One of the Militia men on guard last night was struck on the head and knocked down. The most pressing need seems to be clothing of all kinds. There are about 40 tents when there ought to be 400.

Murderer Wanted. A Woman's Body Found in Cellar.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, July 14. All the machinery of Scotland Yard has been set in motion to effect the capture of Dr. Hawley Crippen, the battered body of whose wife, known under the stage name of Belle Elmore, was found buried deep in the clay in the cellar of their home at Hildrop Crescent, North London. Crippen has been missing since Saturday last, when he could no longer offer explanation for the death of his wife, which was alleged to have occurred months ago in California. Then it was that the police in making a thorough examination of the empty cellar came upon the body, mutilated and burned beyond recognition by quicklime which had been thrown upon it. The thick clay by which it was partly surrounded to some extent slackened the action of the quicklime and so frustrated the intentions of destroying the body entirely.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, July 14. The Scotland Yard officials to-day cabled a request to the American police to search incoming steamers for Hawley Harvey Crippen, alias Peter Crippen, who is wanted in connection with the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore, a vaudeville artist.

Chinese Pirates Dislodged by Gunboat.

Special to Evening Telegram.
HONG KONG, July 14. The guns of the Portuguese gunboat Watris to-day dislodged the Chinese from the fort of Colowan Island. Many of the Chinese were killed during the bombardment. Two junks loaded with Chinese who were attempting to escape were sunk and all of their occupants drowned. The Chinese gunboats stationed here watched the operations. Trouble between the Portuguese and the Chinese on Colowan Island grew out of an attempt of a force of Portuguese soldiers to rescue several Chinese students who were held captives by pirates upon the island. The pirates showed fight and were reinforced by natives from Chinese villages of the interior. The resistance was so effective that the Governor of Macao sent a gunboat to bombard the pirates village and the fort.

Want International Railway Rates.

Special to Evening Telegram.
WASHINGTON, July 14. An International Railway Commission with supervisory authority over the railroad of the United States and Canada probably will be the result of action taken to-day by the Government in the appointment of Chairman Martin Knapp of the Interstate Commerce Commission as the Representative of the United States to confer with Hon. J. Mayhew, Chief of the Railway Commission of Canada. The intention of the conference is to effect an agreement by which a common basis of freight charges and transportation arrangements shall be made between this country and Canada. Many railroads in the northern part of the United States operate in Canada and on the part of some of the Railroads of Canada run into the United States. It is the desire to adjust the rates and transportation privileges as to render them practically common as between the two countries.

Fireman and Engineer Scalded.

From letters recently received from some of the crew of the s.s. Bonaventure we learn that the second engineer of the ship and one of the firemen were badly scalded while at work repairing some of the pumps. They are so badly injured that both men were put in hospital and will be laid up for some time. The heat is intense on the West Indies run and sometimes the thermometer reaches as high as 140 degrees in the engine room. The rest of the crew of the vessel are well and the only trouble with them is the intense tropical heat.

Quitting the Fishery.

The schr. Melba, Capt. Barbour, arrived to the Horwood Lumber Co. yesterday with lumber from Dog Bay. The captain says that the fishery in that section for trawls and punts has been an utter blank. When leaving there the people were taking up their trawls, and puntmen were abandoning the fishery in despair. A number of the men had gone to Bell Island, the Branch Railway and Sydney and Grand Falls to seek employment, and few if any will see the fishery to a finish.

Clever Little Girl.

Miss Maggie Primm, sister of Mr. Matthew Primm, formerly of the Herald reporting staff, of this city, recently received flattering notices from the Boston papers. She earned this by the production of an extremely clever prize essay and beat all competitors. She is a little St. John's girl, is only 13 years old, and certainly deserves the prize of a gold medal which she won for her work.

Personal Notes.

W. Winsor, Esq., J. P., adjudicated on seven trap berth cases while on the Labrador last month. He will return by the S.S. Snu next week. Since he left the coast a serious dispute has arisen amongst fishermen at Bateau according to a message received by Mr. Piccott yesterday. Rev. R. McNeil, of St. George's, returned home by the express last evening. Mr. Geo. Veltch went to N. D. Bay last evening to lay a cable at Ex-Plots. Rev. Fr. Scully returned to King's Cove by last evening's express. Hon. S. Milley left by the Siberian to purchase the fall goods.

FROM THE BANKS.—The banking schooner Kasaga, Capt. F. Goddard, arrived from Burin Tuesday evening to get a new compass. She has 500 qts. for two trips. Fish was plentiful on the Banks when the Kasaga left. Capt. Goddard will go to Carbonar to get a balling of squid.
