Fog Cable From
Paris to Boulogne

In addition to the proposals for equipping French Channel ports with the Loth cable (a system by which vessels equipped with the necessary apparatus can in a fog guide themselves electrically by means of a submarine cable showing the way into port), it is also intended to equip the Paris-London airway with this system, so that in foggy and cloudy weather there will be no danger of aeroplanes straying from the direct route and so missing the prepared landing-places.

It has been decided to equip a large number of French aeroplanes with the Loth apparatus, and to construct a cable from Paris to Boulogne erected on tall posts, in the same manner as a telegraph wire, and a submarine cable from Boulogne to the English

Sturgeon Fry
Successfully Hatched

Winnipeg, Mann.—For the first time in the history of North America, sturgeon fry have been hatched successfully. The feat was performed at Pigeon River, which empties into Lake Winnipeg, by officials of the federal department of marine and fisheries.

These officials sent specially to Pigeon River, spread their nets.
The result was the capture of a pair of sturgeon, one five feet long and weighing more than 100 pounds while the other was slightly smaller. Large rents in the nets showed where other powerful sturgeon had been caught, but had torn themselves loose.

From the two fish, the officials were successful in hatching 8,000 eggs, but new sturgeon in large numbers were released into Lake Winnipeg a few days ago.

The sturgeon, according to department officials, is the fish without peer for sale on the market.
Much larger than salmon, sometimes reaching a weight of 300 pounds, the sturgeon is the much sought prize of all the fish companies. In former times there was considerable sturgeon in the Lake of the Woods and the Manitoba Lakes but the constant shrinkage caused by large scale operations of fish companies practically made this variety unobtainable for many years.

Both the Canadian and United States governments have spent thousands of dollars endeavouring to hatch sturgeon, but hitherto without success.

Until the season's operations on the Pigeon River, it was thought impossible. The department of fisheries has announced that these operations will be carried out on a much larger scale next year and thereafter.

What the Press Says
About the Conference

"The success of the Conference is a feather in the Scots cap of Mr. Mac-Donald. To his unwearied efforts, patience, and skilled mediation the happy result is largely due."

—New York Times.

"Now that a substantial beginning has been made, it is right to recognize the services of Mr. MacDonald and M. Herriot. They have risen to the responsibilities of high office and have made conciliation an international principle mean more than an empty word."

—New York World.

"It can be said, not without pride, of M. Herriot, that when he returns to Paris he will find the situation infinitely better than it was when he took office."

—Paris Journal.

"M. Herriot and his colleagues have made it possible to organize peace on solid foundations. France now knows where she is going."

—Ere Nouvelle.

"The successful termination of the Conference marks as much as anything else the restoration of sanity to the public opinion of the peoples of Europe," says the Daily Express.

The Dail and the Boundary

"The Irish Boundary problem has been carried a stage nearer solution by the proceedings in Parliament and in the Dail," says the Weekly Westminster. "Mr. Thomas introduced the Amending Bill and Mr. Cosgrave stood sponsor to a similar Bill in the Dail.
Everything went according to expectation, and the opposition in the Dail failed to gather the support of votes.
"As matters now stand, some six weeks are left to the Government of Northern Ireland to reconsider their course. The Act which established Ulster as a separate political entity withheld from them the power to make laws in respect of treaties, or any relations with foreign States, or relations with other parts of his Majesty's Dominions. This being so, their claim to exercise the veto upon the Treaty with the Free State is ridiculous."

"The alternate demand to nominate a member of the Boundary Commission only on the understanding that the result is equally unreasonable. A last chance is now allowed them to adopt a more defensible attitude."

Noted Northern
Missionary

RETURNS TO CIVILIZATION.
EDMONTON, Alta.—Bishop J. O.
Stringer, of the Yukon, resident of the North for more than thirty-two years, friend of the Eskimo and the Louchoux, and a man to whom the Arctic trail is an open book has returned to civilization. His wife, who has also many years to her credit as one of the pioneer white women serving in the frozen North.

Questioned as to the progress made with the Christianizing of the Eskimo, the Bishop stated that they were accepting the doctrines of the church in a remarkable manner, while he emphasized that once an Eskimo accepted the faith, he remained a convert. The Church of England Missions are making substantial progress in the North, he said, and practically all the Eskimos that can be reached from the missions at the mouth of the Mackenzie River have accepted the doctrines of the Church of England.

Contrasting the days of long ago with those of the present, the Bishop related how the Eskimos were treacherous savages when the church first commenced to minister to them and in the early days of his regime they were not to be trusted and were of a very low moral fibre. Every effort was made to bring them to a different mode of life and the remarkable change effected was brought home to him forcibly on his last visit among the natives.

Now the Eskimos are peaceable and hard workers. Most of them were well to do with the acceptance and understanding of the Christian faith.
They had completely thrust aside their former methods of living, while their manners and morals now compared very favorably with many other races.

Speaking of her experiences with the Eskimos, Mrs. Stringer asserted that when she first reached the north country there were no books among the natives. Many hours, she said, were spent in translating from English to the Eskimo language according to sound, about twenty hymns, some texts of scripture, the Ten Commandments and the Creed. They were typed, mimeographed, pages cut and sewed together into book form. In this manner, the work of education began on Herschel Island.

"Eskimo parents are very fond of their children," said Mrs. Stringer, and they never punish them, which does not seem to hinder them from growing up respectful and obedient.
Eskimo mothers, instead of kissing their babies as we do, touch noses.
Should they see us punish our children they would think we were very cruel mothers."

Continuing, Mrs. Stringer referred to the progress made by the Eskimo women in domestic life. "Eskimo women are ingenious in the art of fashioning and sewing fur garments," she said. Mrs. Stringer further remarked that the women never allowed their clothing to get ragged or unneeded, while the children were always neatly dressed.

Bishop Stringer, with his wife, will attend the triennial meeting of the Womans' Missionary Society, to be held in Hamilton, Ont., on October 1.
They will return to the north country about November and will proceed to Dawson City by way of Vancouver, Skagway and White Horse. The last 800 miles of the journey will be made in sleighs driven by dogs.

Flappers' Rash Said to be on Increase

New York, Sept. 5.—Flappers' rash, a skin disease prevalent among bob-bed haired girls, is on the increase because of the fad for new styles in bobs, according to Dr. Charles F. Pabst of Brooklyn, medical examiner for the Civil Service Commission and a specialist in skin disease.

The rash appeared along with bob-bed hair and the patients gave it its non-medical name. Dr. Pabst investigated and found it was plain folliculitis, in other words inflammation of fol-licle or depression of the skin from which the hair grows. Blondes, because of their tender skins were found to be more susceptible than brunettes. The rash is caused by close shaving of the neck or the use of dull clippers which pull out the hair instead of cutting it.
Dr. Pabst says frequent trips to the barber to have a straight bob turned into a shingle, and then into a boyish and finally into a pine-apple is causing the number of rash victims to increase daily.

Explains Last Color
of Sunset Displays

Toronto, August 7, 1924.—When the sun sets under certain favorable conditions it may be noticed that just as it disappears below the horizon a brilliant green color flashes up.

A generally accepted theory explains the phenomenon as due to the stimulation of absorption and dispersion of the light before it reaches the eye of the observer.

At the British Association, Mr. F.
J. Whipple, Superintendent of Climatology at the Meteorological Office of the Air Ministry reproduced the Green Flash experimentally under conditions which confirmed the reliability of theoretical explanation.

MCINTYRE WILL PAY 30 P.C. RATE REPORT BEST YET.

Net Profits Over $570,000 Ahead Of Last Year—Surplus Of $3,137,000
With Ore Reserves Of $11,313,816—Increase Of 50 p.c. In Ore Handled.

(From Financial Times, Aug. 29.)

The annual statement of the Mc-Intyre-Porcupine Mines for the year ending June 30 is the strongest in the history of the Company. The production of the bullion was $3,291,178, an increase of over $1,000,000, while the cost of operations increased only $460,000. Operating profits were $1, 502,846 as compared with $915,224 the previous year, and net profits before depreciation were $1,488,468 as compared with $916,166. Moreover, it was announced by the President, J. C. Bi-bell, that starting with the dividend payment due on September 1, McIntyre will go on a basis of 5 per cent. quarterly instead of three times a year, representing a dividend increase from 15 to 20 per cent.

Surplus of $3,137,488.

The surplus account shows a balance carried forward of $5,137,448, as against one brought forward of only $1,795,493, despite the fact that depreciation provision is slightly higher than in the previous year. The account, however, was swelled by $915-272, the premium realized on sale of 60,000 shares of capital stock and by $125,239, the cost of Plenaumum shares hitherto carried in surplus account, and now transferred to fixed assets, the company having acquired no less than 98 per cent. of the stock outstanding. McIntyre now carries this 98 per cent. interest in Plenaumum, and a 75 per cent. interest in the Platt Veteran claims at $716,583 among its fixed assets.

Treated 50 Per Cent. More Ore.

Ore treated totalled 360,140 tons, averaging $9.49, as against 240,615 tons averaging $9.96 in 1923. The slight decline in value is due to the fact that no less than 54,964 tons of development ore were handled at a varying content. Ore hoisted aggregated 380,356 tons, averaging $9.70 and the mill runs came within one cent of this average.

During the year over 18,000 feet of development work was done, and 223 feet of shaft sinking. The main shaft is now down to 2,331 feet, and a main haulage level equipped with electric locomotive has been established at 2,375 feet. President Biellik announces again that work will be begun immediately on the new shaft on the east claim of the Jupiter property, with an immediate objective of 4,000 feet.

Ore Reserves $11,313,816.

Despite the large amount of development work done, operating costs have been cut from $5.54 to $4.2657 per ton.

Ore reserves are now estimated at $11,313,816 in 1,167,064 tons of ore of an average value of $9.92, against $8,514,800 in 858,504 tons of $9.70 re-last year, customary allowance for dilution having been made.
