THE KAISER'S BABY FEET

EASILY SMASHED SAYS DELCASSE

M. Delcasse was asked if he considered the recent menaces in connection with Morocco as being serious. He replied: "Not at all, in case of war Great Britain would be surely with me against the infant fleet of Germany that would be what would become of her armaments? Of her commerce? Of her merchant marine? It would mean annihilation. That is the real significance of the present exchange of visits between the British and French squadrons. It is a powerful demonstration of the powers and conditions of their navy would create a naval war machine so powerful that neither Germany nor any other power would risk conclusions upon the sea. It is the sea which it is necessary to command today, and the war in the Far East has conclusively demonstrated that."
