

Cold Outside, but— Comfortable Inside

No matter what the weather is outside, mild, below zero, or piercing cold winds—your home will always be snug and cozy with a comfortable, healthful heat, if you have a

"Sunshine" Furnace.

The draughts respond so promptly to our specially constructed "Sunshine" dampers that the fire can be regulated to the exact necessity of the weather—no danger of your house being too warm in mild weather and chilly on cold days.

The "Sunshine" costs less and gives more heat from a minimum amount of coal than any other good furnace.

It is sold by all enterprising dealers. Write for descriptive booklet.

In the course of a speech before a Maine audience lately, President Roosevelt said:

"Every father of a large family—and being an old-fashioned man I believe in large families—knows that if he has to do well by his children he must try to do well by himself. Now, haven't you in your experience known the men—and I am sorry to say even more often women—who think that they are doing a favor to their children when they shield them from any effort? When they let the girls sit at ease and read while the mother does all the housework? Don't you know cases like this? I do. Yes and when a boy will be brought up to be very ornamental and not useful. Don't you know that, too? Exactly. Now these are not good fathers and mothers. They are not being kind they are simply being silly."

The habit of worrying is one which can be easily developed and almost as easily checked if taken in time. It is a good plan, when one is aware of a possibility of evil, to consider first whether anything can be done to ward it off at the moment, and if so, to do it. If there is nothing to do but wait then it is the duty of any reasonable person to put that worry resolutely aside and think of the pleasantest or the most absorbing topic within reach.

SILLY DOUKHOBORS WILL STARVE OR FREEZE.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 3.—"Fully 4,000 Doukhobors, who settled in the Yorkton district, N. W. Ill., will starve or freeze to death or be on the verge of starvation this year, if active steps are not taken to prevent their present religious mania from going further."

This statement was made to the Star correspondent, who has personally investigated the strange mania of the foreigners by a man who is prominent in all the leading enterprises in the Yorkton district.

The Star correspondent travelled through a wide area settled by Doukhobors. He found that religious mania, the like of which perhaps has never been seen in this country, has possessed the people and made them completely oblivious to the severe winter ahead of them.

The fields were lying idle, although as a rule they had good harvests; and their horses and cattle were running at large through them, sleek and fat.

One of their interpreters whom the Star correspondent spoke to said: "We have been offered money for our cattle, but we will not sell. They belong to God, not us. Since coming to your country God has shown us new light. Any work we will have to do He will help us. The lower animals are our servants, and we will not use them nor use any product from them."

"Do you not fear the winter coming on?" he was asked.

"No," was the reply. "God will provide for us. Nearly every one of the Doukhobors seen was clad in the lightest of cotton garments."

"I afford no protection from an October breeze, to say nothing of a severe winter blast; and they say they will wear no other. In many of the houses visited a bag of flour was the only food visible. The Doukhobors will eat a few vegetables, but in few instances had they even brought them into their homes. Men originally strong were gaunt, hungry wrecks; and I was informed that on a recent trip into Yorkton for flour a dozen big men, harnessed like mules to a heavy wagon, almost fell by the roadside through exhaustion and starvation."

"The women so far, have escaped any of the work that must fall on the men since they have discarded the use of animals; but, if this year's crop is to be harvested, they will soon have to harness themselves up to the heavy waggons as the men do. I found that they have made absolutely no provision for the future and, what is perhaps worse, the religious mania which possesses them is becoming more intense and is spreading."

"The attempt by the dominion government to help these people has apparently had no effect. How it will end will probably be told when the intense cold of that district sets in."

Responsible men in that district interviewed by the Star correspondent said that if the mania does not abate before October hundreds will be mere physical wrecks before January, on account of lack of clothing and little food.

The dominion immigration authorities here refuse to discuss the situation, although they confess it is very serious.

Gentlemen,—In June '98 I had my hand and wrist bitten and badly mangled by a vicious horse. I suffered greatly for several days and the tooth cuts refused to heal until your agent gave me a bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT, which I began using, and the effect was magical. In five hours the pain had ceased, and in two weeks the wounds had completely healed and my hand and arm were as well as ever.

Yours truly, A. E. ROY.

PRINCELY GIFT TO LONDON HOSPITALS.

London, Sept. 3.—Lord Strathcona and Lord Mount Stephen's joint princely gift of $80,000 yearly to London hospitals, excites enthusiastic admiration. It is the subject of editorials in most of the journals. They comment on the romance of success connected with the lives of the donors. The fact that both made Canada the land of their adoption is taken to emphasize Canada's practical loyalty and affection for the Mother country. It is agreed that the gift will prove of the highest service in the advancement of the healing science.

GENEROUS GREAT BRITAIN.

Great Britain's generous treatment of her late enemies the Boers is without parallel in history, and is certainly a near approach to the fulfillment of the scriptural injunction to love your enemies and do good to them that hate you. It is even more remarkable than her treatment of the Boer people is the reception given the generals who a few days ago were using every means to accomplish the destruction of her soldiers and urging their followers to fight to the bitter end. This treatment of the Boer generals seems to afford much satisfaction to the New York nation which comments upon it as follows:

"No Americans can hear the names of DeWet and Botha and Delarey without in some fashion reviving boyhood memories of 'The Song of Marion's Men,' and, if the English have not such close analogies to these partisan chieftains, they, none the less, are giving them a splendid and wholly spontaneous ovation. The case is surely rare in history—the generals of a beaten nation passing freely within a few months of their surrender among their conquerors, and everywhere greeted with courtesies from the government and cheers from the populace. It is hard to believe that it is the same English people which, only two years ago, had no word too bitter and contemptuous for the Boers."

One may feel sure that the warmth of the Boer leaders' reception rests upon something more substantial than the mere good nature which victory brings. If only the joy of success were involved, the visit of the Boer generals would be only the final adornment of a triumph. Such an idea, it would seem, has occurred to no Englishman from King to commoner, and the spontaneous tribute of admiration to these brave foes does much to condone a former bitterness which was wholly un-English. One would like to credit the report—if an invention, a happy one—that the fling on receiving the generals spoke of the humanity with which the Boers had treated wounded British prisoners. But whatever may have been the terms of the meeting on board of the royal yacht, it is certain that the dignified, manly and loyal attitude of the Boer chieftains will remove any lingering doubts as to the temper of their people, while the frankly expressed admiration of the English people for a foe whom they have dearly learned, will go far to convince the Boers that they may count unquestionably upon the generosity of their conquerors. In this way a popular enthusiasm—a case rare indeed—ministers to high statesmanship."

—Alfred G. Allen, a native of Toronto, was told a little more than a year ago by a physician in San Francisco, where he resided, that his lungs were about used up by consumption, and that if he ever wanted to see Toronto again he had better get there as soon as possible. Alfred G. Allen wanted to see Toronto again; he also wanted to see some other portions of the world, so he concluded to walk to Toronto and take in the scenery on the route. His weight was eighty-one pounds; his possessions, aside from the clothes on his back, were $1.61, and he got along only one and a half miles on his way to Toronto. He encountered many hardships on his way through Oregon and Idaho, but he grew stronger, earned money sometimes working for sheep herders, and one day before reaching Detroit, he walked fifty-one miles. After wearing out thirty-five pairs of boots he landed in Toronto a few days ago, weight 135 pounds, and, as the doctors say, in perfect physical health. If he had started for home in a Pullman he might never have reached there.—St. John Gazette.

Teachers Should get Living Wage.

Editor of the Halifax Herald:—Sir,—For some days there has appeared in your columns an advertisement for a teacher to fill a position in the public schools of a leading town in our province. Presumably the position is not yet filled or the advertisement would have ceased. Is this because "The Herald" is a poor advertising medium? I think not. I venture to say that the advertisement has fallen under the notice of hundreds of teachers during these days. Some no doubt were not eligible for the position. The advertisement calls for a well qualified teacher. I am not surprised if the position is still open. I am surprised that any town would so honour itself as to let such an advertisement appear for so long, or for that matter to appear at all. I am not a teacher, and never expect to be. I never taught in our public schools and hold no license to do so, therefore I cannot be accused of being an interested party or having an axe to grind if I take a turn in the interest of an overworked and underpaid class of public servants—our school teachers. A teacher having such standing as is held by a very small proportion of our teachers is asked to take $180 salary from the town. The teacher must pay $150 for board during the year, leaving only $30 for clothing and other expenses necessary during his or her stay in the town. The great probability is that of the $180 paid by the town not one cent of it would be carried out of it by the teacher at the end of the term. Teachers of the same standing are paid more salary in country districts, where board and other expenses are lower and the work easier than in the average town.

A faithful though uneducated domestic today is earning better wages than our average female teacher, and so no dignity is given to the profession or premium set upon education not to speak of the expense teachers have gone to in order to fit themselves for the work. No wonder the ranks are filled with inexperienced ones in the lower grades, while the higher ranks are being sadly depleted. As things are today the teaching profession is only a stepping stone to some other, because one can hardly live in it, much less save anything toward the expense of further study. The department of education has for the last few years been seeking to raise the standard of teachers by raising the age limit for the lower grades and by stiffening the examinations. It was hoped by all interested in the future educational interests of our country that the pay would also be increased for those on whom the great responsibility rests of training the future men and women of our land, and it certainly is not to the credit of any town to lower that standard by calling for a teacher of highest qualifications and offering the minimum salary. In my humble judgment it is men, decidedly so, and not in the interest of the school or education generally. Cheap teachers are very expensive in the long run.

AN OLD LADY'S STORY.

To the Editor of the Monitor:—Sir,—I was troubled with rheumatism for about eight years, and tried a great many different kinds of medicines without getting relief. Last spring I began to get worse and I could hardly walk. It was then that I tried Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills, and two boxes cured me. I have had no rheumatism since taking them. I am eighty-two years of age, and can walk now quite smartly thanks to this remedy wonder.—(Mrs.) Paul McDonald, Eden Lake, Pictou Co., N. S.

We have yet to know of a single case where these wonderful pills have not been almost entirely successful in afflicting a cure. Canada Chemical Co., Peterborough, Ont.

They cured me of rheumatism after I had been given up.—Andrew Closkey, Victoria, B. C.

Ex-Ald. Bailey, St. Johns, writes: I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. They worked a miracle in my case and cured me after many years of suffering. I do not think their equal is to be obtained.

Nothing like Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills for the cure of heart trouble, weakness, and blood diseases. Have used them everywhere with success.—Dr. E. F. Mann, late of H. M. Forces South Africa.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills permanently cured me of headache. I suffered for years and only took two boxes. That is a year since. I have not had a symptom since.—James R. Jackson, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

I do not believe there is a medicine to compare with Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills. They cured me of indigestion and catarrh of the stomach, after nine years' suffering.—H. S. McDonald, G. T. R. shops, Montreal.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, eczema, coughs, backache, indigestion, stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by local druggists. The Canada Chemical Co., Peterborough, will forfeit $10 for any case that will not be helped by these pills.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh, and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $10 will be paid for any case they will not cure. Sold by S. N. Wear.

Dictating by Phonograph.

Another use of the phonograph is making more progress among business men now than it did when it was first proposed some years ago, says the New York Sun.

The up-to-date business man does not call in his stenographer to take dictation nowadays. Instead he turns to the phonograph at his elbow, sets it going and dictates his letter into it.

Then the typewriter takes the record puts it in another machine, places the ear tubes in her ears and punches the keys of her typewriter as the voice of her employer dictates as slowly as she may wish.

The system is a great saver of time, but the shorthand expert view it with alarm, fearing that in the near future the phonograph may do away altogether with potbooks and make it possible for anyone who can run a typewriter to do the work for which an expert is needed at present.
