

Better Than Cod-Liver Oil

The quickest way to emphasize the good qualities of Angier's Petroleum Emulsion is to compare it with cod-liver oil. That tells at a glance what almost every physician knows — that while cod-liver oil is good, refined petroleum is better, largely because it agrees with the stomach. Ours is pleasant to the taste and easy to digest, but the best way to learn about a good new thing is to test it. These are the facts you have to deal with:

ANGIER'S PETROLEUM EMULSION

1. Palatability and tolerance by delicate stomachs.
2. A perfect emulsion, readily miscible with water and other liquids.
3. A simple and safe remedy for children and something they all like.
4. Soothing and healing effect upon inflamed mucous surfaces.
5. Better effect from the hypophosphites when administered in petroleum.
6. Prompt and almost certain relief of the stubborn coughs of bronchitis and consumption.

In the special process by which we purify petroleum we eliminate all the irritating and nauseous properties of the crude oil without losing any of its medicinal qualities. Prescribed in the form of an emulsion, it is pleasant to take, agreeing with the most sensitive stomach. The combination with hypophosphites makes it a valuable nerve food and tonic.

ANGIER CHEMICAL COMPANY,

81 Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont.

Vol. X

Abide with Far spent the Weary and sigh

Abide with way Stranger, pray
As guest d

Abide with meal Thy palms
veal
Our risen

Abide with drear
No friend, can o
Thou bless near,
Y

Abide with The light
shado
We shall no
If

Abide with Upon thy he Guard o'er as dee
Th