

GREAT BRITAIN
SUNDAY IN GLASGOW.—An O'Connell writes to an Edinburgh contemporary: "Travelling in Scotland two years ago, in company with two or three friends we found ourselves in Glasgow, at what I think, was termed a 'Temperance Hotel,' on Saturday. Towards the close of the day, the hostess entered our room, and reminded us that we had better lay in a stock of whiskey for the next day's consumption, as we should not be able to obtain it in the morning. We thanked the good lady for her kind consideration, but at the same time assured her we could get over the Sunday very well without the aid of whiskey, more especially as we intended to avail ourselves of the Sunday steamboat for a trip down the Clyde. The good lady exclaimed with a sigh—'Ah, you're going to break the Sabbath,' and left the room, under the impression, evidently, that we were in a perilous state!"

THE ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH.—There are some hopes that the Atlantic telegraph may in the course of another year or so be again at work. The Government vessel which has been employed for some months in surveying and taking soundings has returned, and as a result it is stated that a better route for the cable has been discovered; but that it is the opinion of several of the officers that a line of communication which can be established without the necessity of so long a wire as that direct across the Atlantic will be much more likely to succeed.

ONLY A MISDEAMOUR.—The judgment of Dr. Lushington in the 'Essays and Reviews' has established the fact that the clergy of the Establishment may, within certain limits, be unsonorous theologians without becoming disqualified to act as ministers. Now, the case of Mr. Fletcher, the incumbent of Bilston, proved that the clergy of the church of England may be ardent rogues and yet retain their benefice! That is an astonishing statement, yet it cannot be gainsayed. The Rector of Bilston has actually been convicted of robbing the 'tilt of the local Savings Bank, and is to be imprisoned for two years for the offence. Of course, in any other community than the Church of England, he would, in a trice, have been stripped of his gown and driven into obscurity; but the Bishop of Lichfield is authoritatively advised that the offence committed 'is a misdeamour,' and, says his advisers, 'a misdeamour is not in itself a cause of deprivation or suspension; and as the offence of which Mr. Fletcher has been found guilty is not an offence against the laws ecclesiastical, we do not see that your lordship can take any proceeding under the Church Discipline Act.' So when the two years of his imprisonment have expired, the reverend galliard, his hair still bearing the marks of 'the county crop,' may step into Bilston pulpit, and expatiate on the divine ethics of Christianity, in the hearing of his outraged and defrauded congregation! Even if penitential feelings should prevent that scandal, and he should resign his living, he will still remain a Minister of the Church, whether he desires it or not; for the holy orders of that Church will cleave to him as closely as his own damaged reputation, and the law will open no door by which he can escape into the omniversal world. Even State-Churchmen are so individualized at such a state of things, and are cast about for some decent covering by which a sore place of so frightful a character may be hidden from the public gaze. It is plausibly suggested that the Bishop, though he cannot proceed against the offender for the offence of which he is actually guilty, can oust him from his living for non-residence—the result of his imprisonment. That may be so; but it leaves untouched the fact, that the discipline of the established Church is so inordinately lax that the comparatively venial offence of non-residence is punishable, but that downright fraud, if it be 'a misdeamour only,' and not a felony, is no offence at all! Moreover the Bishop must, in order to adopt this remedy, resort to the absurdity of first admonishing to return to his flock the very man of whom they wish to be rid! Instead, however, of there being any intention or desire to eject Mr. Fletcher, it is actually regarded as a point of importance that he should remain in the legal possession of the living, in order that it may be sequestrated, and the Savings Bank depositors may have the benefit of the annual income, minus the small sum paid to the minister who will take Mr. Fletcher's place while he is in default, and until the depositors' claims are liquidated. The living is looked upon as a valuable piece of property; and, for the sake of the property, the character of the Church is ruthlessly sacrificed.—Liberator.

THE SOUTH AND ITS INDEPENDENCE.—A letter in the Star argues that there is an issue involved in the American question, and that of more importance even than the slavery question—viz., the right of self-government. It is altogether unfair and disingenuous to argue that the defenders of the Southern cause are of necessity pro-slavery. There are not many pro-slavery men, thank God; to be found in this country, but there are many—a great many—who are deeply interested in the question whether they are to have a voice in the choice of the Government they are to support and obey; and that portion of the British are deeply grieved that one portion of the American States should dictate to the other and force back at the end of the bayonet an unwilling people into a compulsory union, which is already, to all intents and purposes, dissolved and done away with forever. We are, as a people, unanimous in hatred of slavery; but that does not prevent us sympathizing with any people in a struggle for self-government. We are all nations as well as individuals, anxious to criticism. We have many things to answer for; so have they; so have the North American States; but we do not desire to see one people coerce another into doing right, even if the North were desirous of doing justice in the question between the Southern and their slaves—but any candid person that understands the position of both parties must admit that the Northern are too anxious to maintain the Union to be very particular about justice to the negro. There is ample room on the wide continent of America at least for two Republics; and there is no reason why they should not both flourish and prosper were they but wise enough to see it."

POTATO BLIGHT.—We regret to announce that the potato blight has committed its ravages in our gardens to such an extent that some crops are scarcely worth digging, and it is feared that, generally speaking, three-fifths of the potatoes will prove diseased. From personal inquiries we learn that the blight has with equal severity visited the potato crops in the villages of Ockham the Horsleys, and the Chandons. The disease seems to have made its appearance with the rains about the 15th and 18th ultimo.—West Surrey Times.

THE CORN TRADE.—The past week, though not so fine as that which preceded it, has still been helpful to the harvest; and a great quantity of this year's produce in the southern and midland counties has been successfully gathered.

COLLEGE OF ST. LAURENT,
 NEAR MONTREAL.
 1. This Institution is conducted by Religious, priests and brothers, of the Congregation of the Holy Cross.
 2. It comprises two kinds of teaching: 1st. Primary and Commercial, in a course of four years. This includes reading, writing, grammar and composition, arithmetic, the elements of history, ancient and modern, geography, book-keeping, linear drawing, algebra, geometry, mensuration the elements of astronomy and of general literature; in a word, every branch of knowledge necessary to fit persons for occupations that do not require a classical education. The French and English languages are taught with equal care. 2d. Classical studies, such as are usually made in the principal colleges of the country. This course comprises seven years, but pupils who are very assiduous, or endowed with extraordinary ability, may go through it in six or even five years. Nevertheless before a pupil can be promoted to a superior class, he must prove by an oral examination and a written composition, that he is sufficiently acquainted with the various branches taught in the inferior class.
 3. No pupil can be admitted to a course exclusively commercial, unless he has first acquired a correct knowledge of those branches usually taught in Primary Education.
 4. No one can commence the Latin course until he writes a good hand, and is able to give a grammatical analysis of the parts of speech of his mother tongue.
 5. Every pupil coming from another house of education must present a certificate of good conduct, signed by the Superior of that Institution.
 6. There will be a course of religious instruction suited to the age and intelligence of the pupils.
 7. In conformity with the rules of the Institution great care will be taken that the classical instruction is governed by the Catholic spirit, and a careful selection will be made of those authors best adapted to develop that spirit.

VIII. CLASSICAL COURSE
 1st Year—Fundamentals of Latin, French Grammar, English Grammar, Sacred History, Geography, Writing, Arithmetic.
 2nd Year—Latin Syntax, French Grammar, English Grammar, History of Canada, Geography, Arithmetic, Calligraphy.
