

Also worthy of note is the active presence in Senegal of the International Development Research Centre (IDRC), another Canadian institution for development. The regional IDRC office for West and Central Africa is located in Dakar. Some 50 projects having a total value of $7.0 million, concentrated mainly in agriculture, have been supported so far.

The IDRC (International Development Research Centre) has been providing technical studies for the construction of ports and landings on the river. To date, Canada has contributed towards construction of the Mansaffi Dam by providing electro-mechanical equipment and staff for the construction of ports and landings on the river.

The IDRC (International Development Research Centre) has been providing technical studies for the construction of ports and landings on the river. To date, Canada has contributed towards construction of the Mansaffi Dam by providing electro-mechanical equipment and staff for the construction of ports and landings on the river.

In conjunction with such significant examples of direct intervention by the Canadian Government, the Agency, for a number of years, Canada has been supporting Canadian volunteer organizations working in Senegal. In this category, the IDRC (International Development Research Centre) has been providing technical studies for the construction of ports and landings on the river. To date, Canada has contributed towards construction of the Mansaffi Dam by providing electro-mechanical equipment and staff for the construction of ports and landings on the river.

The IDRC (International Development Research Centre) has been providing technical studies for the construction of ports and landings on the river. To date, Canada has contributed towards construction of the Mansaffi Dam by providing electro-mechanical equipment and staff for the construction of ports and landings on the river.