MURPHY AVIATION

Mr. Ross Belsher (Parliamentary Secretary to Minister of Transport): Mr. Speaker, Murphy Aviation of Chilliwack is a five year old company that is making itself known world-wide. Doubling its gross annually for the past three years, Murphy delivered 120-plus aircraft kits in 1989. Ninety per cent of Murphy's business is exported to over 18 countries including Japan, France, the United Kingdom and Australia.

Murphy builds only the best by employing the best. In fact former de Havilland aeronautical engineer, the legendary Richard Hiscock, is helping Murphy develop a new, all metal, three seater high wing aircraft called a Rebel.

The Rebel will use a Rotax engine built in Austria by a Bombardier subsidiary. Employing 20 people, Murphy is an example of what a small company can achieve through dedication and hard work.

Murphy Aviation is building a solid future for itself, for Chilliwack and for Canada. Indeed, Murphy Aviation is yet another of the many success stories from the riding of Fraser Valley East.

It was my pleasure to attend its open house and I say: "Congratulations, keep up the good job".

GOODS AND SERVICES TAX

Mr. Jim Peterson (Willowdale): Mr. Speaker, I rise once again in protest of the GST.

Before me I have over 5,000 petitions collected by the Toronto Real Estate Board. The goods and services tax affects the real estate industry in a number of very profound ways.

S. O. 31

First, in Willowdale the average price of a home will go up over $10,000 because of this tax. When we have over 20,000 homeless in Toronto and 200,000 homeless in Canada, this is going in the wrong direction.

Second, many small and medium sized real estate firms will have to go out of business because of the tax burden on their operations.

Third, agents are going to be asked to collect the tax on top of their commissions. Customers will refuse to pay it. Agents are going to lose.

It is one more example of the protest of Canadians and why this unfair tax must be abolished.

GOODS AND SERVICES TAX

Mr. Ross Harvey (Edmonton East): Mr. Speaker, very soon members of this House will be voting on the hated goods and services tax. Close to 80 per cent of Canadians across the country oppose the tax, but the government has chosen not to listen to the people.

Only 21 of 167 Conservative MPs need to vote with the combined opposition parties to defeat the tax, so we are urging Canadians across the country to phone their Conservative members of Parliament and tell them to vote against the GST.

In my province of Alberta people opposed to the GST could call Murray Dorin in Edmonton Northwest at 454–1220. They could call Scott Thorkelson in Edmonton—Strathcona at 439–8900. They could call Jack Shields in Athabasca at 743–2498. They could call Ken Hughes in Macleod at 938–5005. They could call Brian O'Kurley in Elk Island at 467–4944. They could call Walter Van De Walle in St. Albert at 459–8413. They could call Doug Fee in Red Deer at 342–7222—

Mr. Speaker: The hon. member's calls have expired.

CANADIAN CANCER SOCIETY

Mr. Lee Richardson (Calgary Southeast): Mr. Speaker, every year thousands of Canadians give a few hours of their time to help the Canadian Cancer Society in its April fund raising campaign. More than 90 cents of every dollar raised goes to cancer research, patient services and public education.
