Saturday Morning is a Busy Time in This Furniture Sale

There is a general impression that people are too busy with trifles on Saturday morning to pay any attention to such a serious proposition as Furniture buying.

This, however, has not been our experience; people are not going to neglect half days, when the buying chances are just a little better than they've been all week.

And again, this is the kind of furniture you'd be likely to buy on sight—low-priced pieces, about which there's no doubt in your own mind.
