Do you know that this wonderful, great big country has not got a "child's weitare bureau" in its capital city? And that when folks interested in the weitare of the coming generation want to know anything about the works, that they have to write, or take a train to Washington? Perhaps you may possibly think that there is not any use cuttering-up every country with that sort of thing; but if you do, then you are not the proper kind of a person to be the citizen of this part of the world. The International-Mond Nickel Combine at Work

From Toronto Sunday World.

The announcement in The World nickel page yesterday that some arrangement exists between the International Nickel Co. and the Mond Nickel Co., whereby the former, by reason of its commitments and its location in Canada, is more or less limited in its freedom, and more or less subject to various war taxes, was to be weakened in production, and that the Mond Nickel Co. speeded up in production, is more than borne out by the two articles placed in parallel columns herewith, from The Sudbe Star of this week. You would almost think that the one hand wro them both, and perhaps this was the case. Anyways, here they are, and those who are interested in nickel: and Sir William Hearst and M McGarry, who as treasurer of Ontario, is interested in nickel, and Sir Thos. White, who is also interested prospectively in war taxes on nicke production, will also read these items with considerable interest. Thomas is also custodian of enemy property.
