Xaver Scharwenka Cancels Engagement

Noted Pianist Will Be Unable to Play With Symphony Orchestra This Week.

The Toronto Symphony Orchestra have just received a message from R. E Johnston, the New York manager of Xaver Scharwenka, that owing to sudden illness, Mr. Scharwenka has been compelled to abandon his tour. The orchestral committee held a hurried meeting this ried meeting this morning, and, in view of the excellent orchestral program which has been chosen by the people, and the shortness of time left. to secure a suitable substitute for the occasion, they decided to give a purely orchestral program at this concert. The numbers, then, are the Tschaikovski, "Pathetique" Symphony, Lizt's Hungarian Rhapsody, and the Overture to Midsummer Night's Dream by Mendelssohn.
