THIRTY-FIVE ARE READY TO JOIN

Recruiting Takes a Spurt—Successful Meeting at Queen's—The South End Campaign—Sunday Evening Plans

There are now about thirty-five applicants waiting to be examined at the local recruiting office.

Many of these were secured last night at a recruiting rally in the Queen's rink at which R. T. Hayes presided, and the speakers were Magistrate Ritchie, Major Williams and Lieut. deBeaune, 60th Battalion. Sergt. Skeen of the 89th, Miss Travers, Miss Fenwick and the 60th band contributed to the musical programme.

Before an audience so small as to suggest that the people of the south end of the city are not yet persuaded that they should be interested in the recruiting movement, stirring addresses were made last evening in the temperance hall, St. James street, by Rev. J. H. A. Anderson and D. McArthur. Dr. Barton played piano selections, Miss Dunham sang a patriotic song, accompanied by Miss Parke, and Miss C. Johnson produced fine music from the harmonica, and also sang one of his made-at-the-moment solos, to his own accompaniment. Edward Purchase was in the chair.

Rev. Mr. Anderson, in a closely reasoned address, presented with great clearness and force the momentous issues involved in this war, and the duty of every man and woman in the Empire. St. John and the south end of St. John included, to support the recruiting movement and in every way possible contribute to the task of saving the Empire from destruction and humanity from the curse of Prussian militarism. He pointed out that an atmosphere of war must be developed to the extent that every individual would be impelled to do his or her part, and that these meetings should be carried on to aid in the creation of such an atmosphere and encourage the spirit of co-operation in the performance of a common duty to home and country, and the cause of liberty and righteousness in the world. Upon the universal recognition of personal duty and its performance must depend the victory for which all are fighting, and which will mean so much for the world that has already suffered so much from German savagery.

Mr. McArthur emphasized the duty those who stay at home owe to those who are in the trenches, and urged every man and woman present to become a recruiting agent. He paid a warm tribute to the gallant 60th, and quoted a letter denying that the statement that any man in the Fifth Brigade had been asked to pay for socks or other comforts sent from home. He dwelt upon the atrocities committed by the Germans, emphasized the need of more and more men, pointed out how Germany coveted Canada, and how therefore every young man of military age should enlist.

and enlist now. He told of a mother who had two sons at the front and who said to him she felt she must let the child go also, and he commended her spirit of self-sacrifice to all women in Canada.

There will be another meeting in the same hall this evening. The speakers will be Rev. W. R. Robinson and John C. Ferguson. Miss Green will sing and there will be other music. The meeting will be over by half past nine. Half a dozen ladies attended last evening. More are expected this evening.

The meeting at the Imperial Theatre tomorrow evening promises to be one of the most interesting held there in months. Good results are anticipated by the recruiting committee.

Major C. G. Pincombe, of the 104th battalion, will be the principal speaker. Major Pincombe is a man of the cloth, he, however, gave up his clerical career to enlist and serve the Empire. At present he is stationed with his men at Fredericton. W. J. Mahoney will occupy the chair. Fred A. Munroe will sing, and an orchestra will render an instrumental musical programme.

A WOMAN PLOUGHING IS PECULIAR SIGHT

Lord Selborne, President of England's Board of Agriculture, Makes Appeal to Women

The necessity of replacing men's labor by that of women in agriculture is a subject which has attracted the attention of most people in England at the present moment.

Lord Selborne, president of the Board of Agriculture, is a keen advocate of women taking the place of men on the land wherever possible. In an address which he gave a few weeks ago at Shrewsbury, he said he had seen what he believed nobody had ever seen in England—"a woman ploughing." "Women of every class," he declared "must assist. The squire's wife and the farmer's, and the parson's wife, the wife and the daughter of the laborer, each in turn could make a contribution to agriculture in this year of war, and so work for victory just as husband, son or brother, in the fleet or in the trenches. I would make a special appeal to the wives and daughters of men who are fighting, because they are well cared for by the nation. They have no grinding poverty waiting what the men are left as are the German women in fighting the battles."

It was not right that a woman in this country should live in greater luxury than she did before her husband or son went away to fight; she should do her part just as the men. She must go on to the land if the farmer asked her at a fair wage for a fair day's work. This is a moment when each man and woman of every class must put forward that unselfishness and patriotism of which depends the fate of England."
