PROSPECTIVE WOOL PRICES

(N. B. Department of Agriculture.)

Beginning in the year 1914 and continuing on until the year 1917, wool prices have been advancing by leaps and bounds. Take, for instance, in 1914 wool growers received twenty cents a pound and upward, the price depending on how and when the wool was marketed. In 1915 wool marketed co-operatively by the Sussex & Studholm Agricultural Society averaged about thirty-five cents a pound. In 1916 a still further advance was registered and finally in 1917 wool marketed early sold for as high as sixty-two cents and later on in the season reached the seventy-two cent mark for unwashed wool. This seventy-two cents for unwashed wool, based on a 25 per cent shrinkage for washed wool, is equivalent to ninety-six cents for unwashed wool.

Now, due to the successive increases of the last few years as outlined, the wool growers anticipated another big increase in price this year. Undoubtedly prices would have advanced again but the United States War Purchasing Commission, to prevent speculators from cornering the available wool supply, have reserved the right to take all the wool they require at last year's prices, as quoted on the Boston market less 5 per cent. This move has had the effect of making the United States Purchasing Commission the sole purchaser of wool in Canada, according to the Globe's informant. While some merchants have been produced in Canada, there is none here at the present time.

The transportation question has also caused much inconvenience to the trade. "We have been unable to get delivery for months," declared this merchant. "Orders from Great Britain are delayed sometimes almost a year. The British export regulations are very strict. The railway situation here is none too good. We find it hard to get goods delivered even by express."

Conditions in the patent medicine business are very good. Large quantities are being purchased by the general public.

ADD 315,444 GARDEN YEARS.
Daylight Saving Gives Workers That Time to Help Produce.

(New York Times.)
Picking potato bugs and planting peas are both rather tedious tasks, but a man ought to be able to accomplish a lot in either line of endeavor in 315,444 years if he were industrious and gifted with the faculty for steady application. The government and other agencies that are promoting war gardening have statistics, carefully gathered, to show that more than 8,000,000 food gardens were planted, cultivated, and brought to more or less perfect fruition last year, and the reports from the various state and other commissions in hand indicate that the number will be doubled this year, but to be on the side of conservatism, the figure is put at 5,000,000.

The average available time for gardeners to be in their plots last year was put at two and a half hours, that being the average time between 5 p. m., when most people get through work, and the arrival of darkness. This year, with the daylight saving law in effect, 5 o'clock will come an hour earlier by the sun, hence the war gardener will have an hour more time each day before the shades of night dim his ambition.

Figuring that the gardener will have twenty-six working days each month, and the estimate is conservative, for the enthusiastic gardener very often works seven days a week, and that the garden season runs through seven months, the War Garden Commission at Washington estimates that these 5,000,000 gardeners will have 910,000,000 hours during the season, or 113,750,000 days of eight hours each, or 311,644 working years to add to their pea planting and bug picking.

Data gathered in Brooklyn, the Bronx, Westchester, and suburban New Jersey indicate not only a very material increase in the number of prospective gardeners, but that almost every gardener of last year will increase his acreage—or, rather, square footage—to the

CANNOT BUY CHEMICALS; MANUFACTURING THEM HERE
Many Drugs New Produced in Canadian Factories—War Interferes With Outside Trade

War, embargoes, the loss of shipping, and the many other interferences with trade, have seriously affected the Canadian drug business so far as getting supplies from outside Canada is concerned. But the story is not all one-sided. The loss of many chemical products from without has entailed the necessity of manufacturing or otherwise preparing these products in Canada, and quite a few new chemical industries are the result.

Some of the chemicals now being manufactured in Canada are: Aspirin, benzoate of soda, benzoic acid, phenacetin, resorcin, permanganate of potash, etc. These were heretofore imported mostly from Germany. The chances are that they will be imported no more, as the Canadian firms are manufacturing them in such large quantities that they can export, and are exporting, big consignments abroad.

Large Demand for Drugs.
There is such a large demand for many of the drugs from Allied governments that it is so difficult to fill. "We find it so difficult to get supplies that we have ceased considering the price," declared a prominent wholesale druggist to the Globe. "What with the war, the trade boards and embargoes, the wholesale drug trade find it increasingly difficult to carry on business. To fill our orders we have to scurry around picking up odd quantities of materials, etc., here and there, and taking a chance on what they will cost. Prices rise consistently; going up hundreds per cent in the course of a few weeks. The market is so uncertain that we may be offered a quantity of drugs one day, and the order cancelled the next day, because some other buyer
