The audience was the best that Fredericton could produce, and in addition to having a supplement of critics from the local parliament, it was re-inforced by the presence of a number of fair visitors from St. John and elsewhere in the province. Fitzsimmons Easily Knocks Maher Out. Langtry, Texas, Feb. 21.—Peter Maher was knocked out by Bob Fitzsim-mons today in the first round, after one minute and thirty-five seconds of actual fighting. Fitzsimmons tried the same old game he has so often played before, leading on his opponent until he had him where he wanted him and then landing a lightning right-hand swing on the jaw, and it was all over. It was the identical blow that knocked Jim Hall out in New Orleans. For the first part of the round Maher had the better of it. He led often American water white (bbl 1214, "0 2214

match for his red-headed opponent, who proved himself today one of the craftiest men that ever stepped into the ring. Fitzsimmons is now, by Corbett's action in presenting the npionship to Maher, the champion of the world, and after the fight was over, he declared through Julian, his willingness to defend the champion-ship against any and all comers. The train arrived at about 3.30 o'clock, central time, and over a rocky road winding about the precipitious cliffs along the Rio Grande the crowd wended its way to the sandy beach of the river. Forty-two Mexicans had carried the ring material down the river bank last night after working hard all day upon a roadway down the bluff. A narrow wooden foot-bridge had been put up across the swiftly flowing stream. The crowd stumble over the stony path and waded ankle deep in the sand, guided by little Jimmy White, a boy who came from Toronto to be at the fight. The battleground was a sandy flat on Big Bend Rio Grande river, on the Mexican side. It was just two miles from the village of Langtry. In the centre of a canvass wall about 200 feet in diameter, the ring was pitched. The board floor was covered with canvass, over which rosin was sprinkled. At one side was the frame compartment for the taking by the kinetoscope of the pictures of posite side of the ring were two little tents for the principals.

Fitzimmons was the first to leave the train. There was following Fitz-simmons, Martin Juhan, Jack Everhart, William McCoy and Jack Stelzener who was in his corner. Fitzsimmor took the first tent whe n he entered the canvass enclosure. Maher took

Maher arrived five minutes later. He was followed from the train by a crowd as well as his seconds, bearing his effects, Jim Hall, Buck Connolly, Peter Lowry, Jack Quinn and Peter Burns. Little time was lost in getting

Before he doffed his street garb, Fitzamons stepped up and took a look at the ring. Soon thereafter he came into the ring wrapped in a striped bath-robe. He was applauded by two hundred voices vociferously. Fitzsim-mons sat down in the corner nearest the steps leading to the platform. man here offered $100 even on him. Maher climbed into the ring, near the corner he occupied, a voice near by offered $100 to $75 on Fitzsimm There were no takers. George Siler climbed upon the platform almost at the same time as Maher. With Julian and Hall be examined the five ounce gloves. The gloves were of different nakes and of different colors, Fitzsimmons' being a light green and Maher's dark brown. As the seconds tied on the gloves Siler announced that Louis Houseman and Bert Sneed of New Or-leans would act for Fitzsimmons and Parson Davies of Chicago would hold the watch for Maher. Siler gave notice to each man that Houseman would sound a whistle five seconds before call of time for the rounds as a signal

"Siler," Julian said, "Is the money that they wanted the cash. "We gave you notice three days ago," Fitzsimmons chimed in from his chair, addressing himself to Siler, "that we would not fight until the money

It is the first time I have ever been questioned. You people have been going around for days "cracking." Julian wanted the cash. Siler reiterated that the checks were certified and therefore all right. "Oh, let it go," Fitzsimmons inter-rupted; "we have given in to every-thing, and we will give in to this." Fitzsimmons' tone was so contemp-tuous as he tossed his head, the utter-tions, as if his mouth and throat were dry. The men advanced, Fitzsimmons with the air of confidence still showing plainly, Maher promptly and more of a familiar air than he had yet shown. They retired to their corpers. In an instant the whistle of warning sounded; five seconds later the call of "time" followed. Up sprang Fitzsimmons, advancing with his little eyes flashing like balls of burnished blue. without the deceptive footlight glare. The big fight for the heavy-weight championship of the world was at last

First round,-Fitzsimmons led with his left. Maher backed towards his corner. Fitzsimmons landed with his right and a clinch followed. Maher struck Fitz with his right hand while they were clinched and Referee Siler warned him that if he did so again that he would give the fight to Fitzsimmons. After a breakawey, Peter landed his left on Fitz's neck. Close in-fighting followed, and Maher succeeded in landing his left on Fitzsimmons' upper lip, drawing blood. Fitz landed with left and right. Clinch followed. Maher feinted and Bob led with his right, but fell short. A mix up followed in which Peter landed both right and left on either side of Fitz-simmons' head. Maher led with his right and another clinch. Fitz seemed bit bothered and broke ground on Maher's leads. Peter followed him up and led with his left, when Bob sidestepped, and swinging his right, landed full on the point of Peter's left chin. Maher measured his length on the floor, his head striking the canvas with great force. He vainly attempted to rise, but could not do more than raise his head. His seconds called on him to get up, but he failed to respond and sank back to the canvas. They had not been sparring more than a minute when this occurred. Maher was knocked out completely ,and the fight was awarded to Fitzsimmons.

There is a general feeling this result was inevitable and yet there is no little complaint among the sports who have come a long way that the affair was so tame and one sided. Kinetoscope project proved a total

As Maher fell to the floor Fitzsimmons stepped back, his eyes sparkling and a smile playing around his mouth. He gazed upon his fallen foe for about three seconds and then walked over to his corner and sat down. Julian, McCoy and Evehart crowd around him, urging him to get up and

"Look out for him, Fitz," yelled Julien, "look out for him." "Stand up for Heaven's sake, pleaded Evehart. He may come at you." "Get away from me, get away from me, I tell you," snarled Fitzsimmons;
"It's all over; he's out," and by the time he had finished speaking Maher's championship was a thing of the past.
"There, didn't I tell you he was out?" remarked Fitzsimmons in a peevish tone as he turned to pull his bath-robe up around him to keep out of the cold, drizzling rain that was falling. Fitzsimmons stayed for a few minutes in his corner looking across at Maher, and then jumping briskly to his feet he walked rapildy across the ring and offered his gloved hand to Maher. Beter reached for it, but Fitzsimmons drew it back with a laugh, and getting Julian to until the string at the wrist, he walked back to Maher and offered his bare hand, with the remark, "Well, Peter." Maher reached for the extended hand and shook it heartily, without rising from his seat
