REPORTS OF ARAB CRUELTY

Rome, Nov. 3.—It is understood that Italy has abandoned the idea of occupying one or more islands of the Dodecanese Archipelago as a measure of bringing the war to an end as it is now considered that this would not bring sufficient pressure upon Turkey to compel her to yield. It is more probable that a naval demonstration on the Syrian coast with the eventual occupation of some point will be decided upon.

trate her effectual possession or the withdrawal of the enemy thus acknowledging incapacity to hold her position. Officers of the Italian troops report great cruelty on the part of the Arabs to the wounded Italians. These victims it is said, are ruthlessly killed, robbed and stripped of their clothing. In some instances fingers have been cut off in order that the tribesmen might more quickly obtain the rings which the victims wore.

SHANGHAI NOW IN HANDS OF REBELS

Continued from page one. Mr. Pope found an armed revolutionary inside the station and disarmed him. Then he telephoned the British consul that the railway property was threatened and the British volunteers of Shanghai were called out and mounted guard over the station and outlying properties. This action has caused much comment, because this section of the railway is entirely outside the concession. The apparent breach of neutrality is defended because the British bondholders claim a prior right in the railway property. The revolutionaries say they were prepared to maintain order and while they intended to seize the railway, they did not intend to destroy it. Therefore the British consul's action in calling out the volunteers is regarded by the revolutionaries as the first breach of neutrality and its effect may be far reaching.

During the night there was desultory firing in the city, and two or three persons were killed and several wounded. The revolutionaries have opened the warehouses and distributed rifles and revolvers. It is estimated that over two thousand volunteers were included in the government forces that took over the city. The rebels will ship machine guns and ammunition from Hankow to Peking.

18.—The Emperor shall promulgate the decisions of parliament. 19.—The National Assembly shall act upon the 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th until the opening of parliament. An edict was issued this afternoon. It confirms the throne's acceptance of the principles for a constitution as drawn up by the National Assembly and promises that "We shall arrange a day, to swear before our ancestors in the temple and to issue the constitution to the whole empire on yellow papers."

A committee of the assembly will be appointed to draw up the actual constitution. It will be assisted by representatives of the army and the work probably will occupy months as the provincial assemblies will be consulted. The outlines of the proposed constitution have excited much interest and the outcome of this latest step toward popular government is a matter of lively speculation in the foreign quarters. It refers wholly to the reduction and control of the dynastic powers and gives no idea of what the parliament intention is with respect to the duties and responsibilities of the parliament. It is entirely directed at the Manchu sceptre. The first four articles of the Japanese constitution. In the tenth article the Emperor of China is granted the direction but not the supreme command of army and navy which the Japanese Emperor enjoys.

Whereas in Japan the Emperor makes treaties the parliament in China assumes this power. Whereas in Japan the government of ministers is in the hands of the Emperor, the Emperor in China is to be restricted by the laws of the parliament. The Emperor's power is to be restricted by the laws of the parliament. The Emperor's power is to be restricted by the laws of the parliament.

12.—International treaties shall not be concluded without the consent of parliament, but a treaty for the conclusion of peace or a declaration of war may be made by the Emperor, if parliament is not sitting, the approval of parliament to be obtained afterwards.

13.—Ordinances in connection with the administration shall be issued by the Emperor, but a law which increases or decreases taxation, nor may items of expenditure not provided for in the budget be appended thereto. The government shall not adopt extraordinary financial measures outside the budget.

14.—Parliament shall fix the expenses of the imperial household and any increase or decrease therein. 15.—Regulations in connection with the imperial family must not conflict with the constitution. 16.—The two houses shall establish the machinery for the administration of the court.
