HERE IN THE EAST

(Collier's Weekly). Some talk there is of maritime province union. A few nervous people down by the Atlantic Ocean would go right off and make some sort of combination to balance the growing power and importance of the west.

harbor is being extended east; a dry dock and shipbuilding plant, the most modern in America, will be established there. The Grand Trunk Pacific having bought seventy acres of land on which to erect terminals and the Canadian Pacific having bought three blocks in the heart of the city on which to build a station, St. John has now what it craved for years—such a real estate boom as will make discouraged native sons who went west wish they were back again to catch this turn of the tide.

DR. A. SEGEE IS SENT UP FOR TRIAL FOR THE WEEK

The general tone of the markets during the last week seems to have been little easier. In the country market, beef, lamb and turkeys have advanced in price, but not a great deal. Vegetables are about the same, with the exception of turnips, which have dropped from 75 cents per bushel to 60 cents.

Dr. Silas Alward and C. W. Adams Tell of Alleged Assault

THE EVIDENCE

Mr. Fowler, for the defence, takes strong objection to Attorney General's Remarks to Witness—A Warm Session—How the Trouble Arose—Bail Accepted for $800.

In the police court yesterday afternoon the case of John A. Segee, charged with assaulting Dr. Silas Alward, K. C., and Charles W. Adams on the Turnbull Real Estate Company's property on the Adelaide road, on Oct. 22, was concluded.

Dr. Alward was the first witness. He testified that in the afternoon of Oct. 22, he was in company with Charles W. Adams, secretary of the Turnbull Real Estate Company, he visited property claimed to be owned by the company on the Adelaide road. They found there Messrs. Smith, Mercer and Segee.

Charles W. Adams, secretary of the Turnbull Real Estate Company, was the other witness. His evidence corroborated that given by Dr. Alward. He testified that he had seen Segee on the day he would have to leave as he was trespassing again on the property of the Turnbull Real Estate Company.

Attorney-General Hazen—"You mean by using threatening words?" Mr. Fowler—"Now don't you suggest it to the witness. He said by talking."

After a few more remarks had been interchanged between counsel, witness told of Segee striking both himself and Dr. Alward with a club. Witness said he did not retaliate.

Magistrate Ritchie—"Have you known Mr. Adams for any length of time, Mr. Hazen?" Attorney-general—"Yes, I have known him for a number of years."

Mr. Hazen—"That is only a slight exaggeration on the part of my learned friend. Nobody said anything about killing."

Mr. Fowler—"Witness, what did you say Segee threatened to strike you?" Witness—"I told him if he struck it would be just possible that he would have to be carted off."

Attorney-general—"Well you have it." Continuing, the witness told of how the assault occurred, and told about how the information was laid a week later.

INQUEST IN MILL EXPLOSION AT TYNMOUTH CREEK FAILS TO SHOW THAT THERE WAS ANY NEGLIGENCE

Thursday, Nov. 17. The inquest in connection with the death of Manford Vaughan, who was killed by an explosion at Tynemouth Creek Tuesday, as exclusively reported in yesterday's Telegraph, took place yesterday afternoon before Coroner Gilmour, of St. Martins. Several witnesses were examined, but nothing new was brought out, declaring that they had no idea what could have caused the explosion.

The jury, which was composed of Robert W. Skillen, James F. Osborne, John C. Boyce, Harry Kane and Roy Ross, returned a verdict of accidental death. So far as they could judge the explosion was not due to the carelessness of any person. It was brought out in the evidence that the boiler had been tested two years ago, and that within ten days she had carried a pressure of 135 pounds. At the time of the accident the mill was running and there was only eighty pounds of steam. She had been shut down for a few minutes while some slight repairs were being made.

The funeral of young Vaughan will take place tomorrow from his late home in St. Martins.

REAL ESTATE STIR ON THE EAST SIDE

There is a stir in real estate and business generally on the eastern side of Court-enay Bay. It is probable that in future Crouville will become the market place. St. John East. Many inquiries are being made as to the price of sites in that vicinity for residential building lots and manufacturing purposes, and from the city line down to Little River people are confident that a period of prosperity has begun.

St. John East needs a new school, and if there were one there today there would be forty children to attend it. Some of these come to the city now, and others go to Little River when the school opens. The Grand Trunk Pacific has a spur track surveyed, paralleling the Red Head road, and it is believed that work upon it will be begun next spring. Since the board of trade began to refer to Court-enay Bay as St. John harbor east, many residents on the eastern side of the bay have come to think that Crouville might be called St. John East.

The view from the eastern side of Court-enay Bay is about as fine as any that can be found. The land is high and healthy. Residents of that district, in talking to the Telegraph yesterday about the matter, said that if the St. John Street Railway could only be induced to build a line expanding at an astonishing rate and in a very desirable direction.
