

EXAMINATION AT COLLEGIATE

Standing of the Students in Recent Educational Tests
at the C. C. I.

System of Grading Which Produces Good Results—Not an Infallible Test.

The following is a summary report of the examinations held at the Collegiate Institute. The object of classifying the pupils as "very good," "good," etc., is to stimulate some to greater exertions, as well as to give honor where honor seems to be due. The Principal, however, wishes it understood that this classification is to be taken in a general way. It may be that a pupil marked "fair" or "below the line," is entitled to more credit for diligence and faithfulness than another marked "good" or "very good." But if such a pupil perseveres, he will soon rise to an honorable position in his class.

There are several causes, such as previous training and opportunity, ability, length of time at school, health, etc., which effect the standing of candidates at examinations, but for which the pupils themselves are not responsible. What the teachers expect from each pupil of the C. C. I. is careful preparation of lessons and close attention to the class-work and teaching.

It is thought that every pupil should reach the fifty per cent. standard, and it is confidently expected that at the Xmas examination there will be fewer ranked "below the line." To the above it may be added that written examinations are not always a perfect test of a pupil's knowledge, but they are the best available means. Detailed reports have been sent to the parents.

"Don't Speak"

To the motorman, "is a sign to be seen on the front platform of many cars. It requires all his thought, all his energy and all his strength to pilot his car through crowded streets. The strain tells on him, and some when he gets "rattled" and has an accident. The surest way to sustain the physical strength and nervous force required by the motorman or railroad man is to keep the stomach in a condition of sound health. When the stomach becomes "weak," food is imperfectly digested and the body is deprived of its necessary nourishment. The nerves are "strung" and the body is weakened. The timely use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery when the stomach is "weak" will re-establish the body in vigorous health. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, nourishes the nerves and purifies the blood.

"I suffered for four years with pain in my stomach so that at times I couldn't work nor eat," writes Mr. Frank Smith, of Granite, Chaffee Co., Colo. "I was told to use your medicine, which I did with good results. I only used four bottles of your Golden Medical Discovery, and must say that I am entirely cured, and feel like a new man, and I can highly recommend your medicine to any sufferer."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Satchel
Expensive sport—Wm. Hall is home from his deer hunt in Muskoka. —Tupperville correspondent of the Wallaceburg Herald-Record.

A modern Samson—At the barn on the Mullins farm on Thursday of last week, Dan Regan tossed nearly 300 bushels of oats for John Workman. —Wallaceburg Herald-Record.

Don't forget—Ald. Mounteer has a scheme for improving the roads leading into this city. Chairman Marshall of the board of works, has some good ideas on the subject. It is a necessary improvement. Why not call a meeting and discuss the whole matter?

Bishop Potter, of New York, says: "I do not believe in running the city of New York with bayonet brains." This pertains to more cities than New York. Chatham has been up against brains of similar quality at various times and it would be well for the ratepayers to ponder well over the names of the candidates for aldermen at the coming election.

NEW ROAST FOR THE EDITOR.

The editor of the Florence Quill was presented with a roast of pork by an admiring subscriber. This is more palatable than the average newspaper roast. —Wallaceburg Herald-Record.

ENCOURAGING.

Carrie—To-night would be a good time to speak to papa.
Lindsay—Why do you think so?

Carrie—He wore a new pair of shoes all day, and his feet are so tender he wouldn't dare do anything to hurt them. —Chelsea (Mass.) Gazette.

"EXTRACTING WITHOUT PAIN."
"Nothing makes a man feel so small," observed the breakfast cynic, "as when he hears feminine screams emanating from a house, and rushing forward, determined to rescue her, or die in the attempt, he is confronted by the sign, 'Dentist.'"—Chicago News.

THE TROOP.

Then the defiant, militant spirit took possession of the devoted missionary.
"You think I am a pudding," he cried. "I'll show you I am not."

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating," rejoined the savages, darkly. —Detroit Free Press.

TOO MUCH TO EXPECT.

Farmer Swackhammer—I lost my wife yesterday.
Farmer Pickens—No! Dead!

Swackhammer—Now A Run away with a lightning rod peddler!

"Waal, Josh, I offer ye my sympathy. I'm mighty sorry for ye."

"Yes, I never did have any luck a-losin' things. Why, I lost a yaller dog fourteen times before he stayed lost." —San Francisco Bulletin.

THE RETORT COURTEOUS.

(From the Corridors of the Grand Opera House.)
Gentleman, little short-sighted, lifts his hat to young woman mistaking her for a friend. Young woman frowns. Gentleman sees his error and apologizes, saying: "Pardon me, I mistook you for Miss S—."

Young Woman—"Sir, don't insult me by speaking to me."

Gentleman—"Never mind, I will apologize to Miss S—the first time I meet her."

ABSENT-MINDEDNESS.

One of the ornaments of the journalistic profession in Montreal tried to post a letter at the post office the other day. He handed in his letter to be weighed, and with it a five-cent piece. The letter was returned to him stamped, and with it three cents change. The absent-minded beg.

gar walked over to the letter-box, dropped in the three cents and, quite astounded when he got outside the post office to find that he still had the letter in his hand.—Montreal Star.

A Chatham journalist of equal calibre was noticed the other day searching all his pockets for his pipe, while that instrument of peace was in his mouth.

SOMETHING ABOUT CHILDREN.
President Eliot, of Harvard, thinks that the school teachers spend altogether too much time trying to teach arithmetic to young children. In a recent lecture he told of a naughty boy who was informed by his mother that he must either do as she told him or leave the room. The boy thought for a moment, and then remarked, "That's fair." "I would give more for that judicial comment for its effect on the boy's later life," said President Eliot.

A friend of mine was telling me the other day of a rather good thing that his little boy said. He exhibits some degree of over-education and is worth repeating. His mother had told the little fellow to go up stairs and change his clothes. Noticing a few minutes later that he had not done so, she spoke sharply to her little boy, threatening to whip him if he didn't at once do what he had been told. The boy looked up at his mother with a very injured air and said, "Why, mother, I am going, but you haven't told me twice yet."

Isn't there a lesson for many mothers in this?

Mark All Your Baggage.
"Mark all your baggage," that is the injunction to every man in any department of all railroads. It means so little to the passenger, and yet its fulfillment would relieve much care on the part of the little army of men who toil hard from one end of the day to the other, and in hundreds of instances assist very materially in facilitating matters when it comes to making close connections as is often the case in these days of railroading.

A man who has made the handling of baggage a study, says:
"Why is it so many people do not have some initial, name, or other identifying mark on their trunks and valises? Simply because they have the greatest of faith in the railway baggage men. That is a compliment, but if they had any idea how greatly this would assist us in preventing baggage from going astray they might all possess the industry to have some mark on their baggage."

Telescopes, dress suit cases, and trunks in these days nearly all look alike to the baggage clerks and handlers, and, it may be said, also to the owners. Hundreds of instances could be cited of where two and often as many as five persons claimed the same piece of baggage before the checks were put on. This generally results in a searching through the boxes, which is an annoying procedure to the men as well as to the passenger. My advice is: "Mark your baggage."

The Bride at Last Said "Obey."
In telling about "Some People I Have Married," in The Ladies' Home Journal, the Rev. D. M. Steele, says: "Being an Episcopalian, I always use the formal printed service of the prayer book. In this the greatest sticking point is 'obey.' One day a couple came to me, bringing as witnesses the parents of both bride and groom. Everything proceeded smoothly to the point 'love, honor and obey,' when the bride refused to say the last word. So I told them I had no authority to change it and would not do so. I tried to show the foolishness of her objection, but it was no use. Finally, I said to him: 'Well, this household must have a head somewhere. I will leave it out for her if you will say it.' Then it was his time to refuse, which he did. He gathered up his hat and started for the door when, presto changed, she sprang after him, led him back by the hand, looked meekly up at him and said it."

Developed His True Nature.
There was a young man who loved a beautiful maiden, but he was poor. One day he asked her to be his wife, and she answered:
"I love you. Still I do not wish to be a poor man's wife. Go and get money and then return and we'll live happily ever after."

The man went away and ere long began to sway the markets. He made millions, and the maiden waited.

When the man had ten millions he wanted to outshine the other who had 50 millions, and when that wish was gratified he longed for a hundred million, and at last set a billion up as the amount he wished to accumulate.

When one day in those parts, a certain old maid lay dying, she said: "There's no use expecting a hog to keep his mind on anything else after he gets his feet in the trough."

When the Bride and Groom Are Nervous.
Embarrassment appears to be the natural concomitant of matrimony. At least this is true in the incipient stages. Invariably, however, there is a striking contrast between the relative composure of the man and the woman. Both are nervous, but never both at the same time. If they come a week beforehand to make arrangements she is rattled and he is cool; while on the day of the ceremony she rises to the occasion and he sinks under it. Thus, I have never seen a bride who was scared; I have never seen a groom who was not.—Rev. D. M. Steele, in The Ladies' Home Journal.
