An Appeal.

This touching poem, by ADELAIDE A.Proc-TER, is, perhaps, one of the least known of her works. If was published in 1833, when, with a great flourish. "The Irish Church Instituted. There seems an appropriateness in its republication when, yet again, the miseries that England's misgovernment has inflicted on the Irish people, are made the Occasion for oppressing, if not perverting, those who prefer starvation, for themselves and their children, to the renunciation of Spare her, O cruel England!

Poor Erin lieth low;
Chained and oppressed she lieth,
Spare her that cruel blow.
Her children ask no shelter,—
Leave them the stormy sky;
They ask not for thy harvests,
For they know how to die,
Deny them, if it please thee,
A grave beneath the sod:—
But we do cry, O England,
Leave them their faith in God!

Take, if thou wilt, the earnings
Of the poor peasant's toll,
Take all the scanty produce
That grows in Irish soil,
To pay the alien preachers
Whom Ireland will not hear,
To pay the scoffers at a creed
Which Irish hearts hold dear:
But leave them, cruel England,
The gift their God has given,
Leave them their ancient worship,
Leave them their faith in Heaver

You come and offer Learning.

A mighty gift, 'tis true;
Perchance the greatest blessing
That now is known to you,
But not to see the wonders
Sages of old beheld,
Can they peril a priceless treasure,
The Faith their Fathers held;
For in learning and in science,
They may forget to pray,—
God will not ask for knowledge
On the great Judgment day.

On the great Judgment day.

When in their wretched cabins,
Racked by the fever pain,
And the weak cries of their children
Who ask for food in vain;
When starving, nakea, helpless,
From the shed that keeps them warm,
Man has driven them forth to perish,
In a less cruel storm;
Then, then, we plead for merey,
Then, England, hear our cry!
For all we ask—O England,
Is—leave them there to die:
Cursed is the food and raiment
For which a soul is sold;
Tempt not another Judas
To barter God for gold.

You offer food and shelter If they their faith deny: What do you gain, O England, By such a shallow lie? By such a shallow lie?
We will not judge the tempted,—
May God blot out their shame,—
He sees the misery round them,
He knows man's feeble frame;
His pity still may save them,
In his strength they must trust
Who calls us all His children,
Yet knows we are but dust.

Then leave them the kind tending Which helped their childish years; Leave them the gracious comfort Which dries the mourner's tears; Leave them to that great mother, In whose bosom they were born; Leave them the holy mysteries That strengthen the forlorn: And, amid all their trials, Let the great gift abide, Which you, O prosperous England, Have dared to cast aside. Leave them the pitying Angels,

Have dared to east aside.
Leave them the pitying Angels,
And Mary's gentle aid,
For which earth's dearest treasures
Were all too dearly paid.
Take back your bribes, then England,
Your gold is black and dim.
And if God sends plague and famine,
They can die and go to Him.

On March 1st, the widow and daughter of the late Michael Ball, of Habsboro' on the 4th of December last), applied to the Grand Jury for the sum of £1,000, loss sustained by them by reason of said murder, which was of the class known as agrarian, or arising out of an illegal combination or conspiracy. After considerable discussion the sum of £200 was awarded, to be levied of the townlands of Mullingar, Ballinea, Habsboro', Hansontown, and Strattanstown.

At the Mullingar Assizes, March 4th, two young men named Brown, and an elderly man named Kelly, were tried for enter-ing the house of a landowner, named Gaynor, with blackened faces, and using threats and other means of intimidation towards him. The principal witness in the case was an informer, who alleged that the prisoner had been hired to commit the outrage by one of Gaynor's tenants. The jury refused to believe him, and returned erdict of not guilty, which was received with loud cheers.

crowd of poor women, the wives of cot-tier tenants in the neighborhood of Newry, surrounded the entrance to the work-house, all clararorous for relief in the shape of food, fuel, and seed. A number of them were admitted to the boardroom, and they told harrowing tales of extreme destitution. One poor woman, the mother of eight children, said she had neither food nor fuel, and she did not know what was to become of her and her family. All the narratives were brimful of misery. The chairman (Mr. Fegan,) informed the poor creatures that their application would be considered by the committees appointed in their respective districts. A grant had been obtained from the Dublin Mansion House Fund, and relief would soon be available. The Newry Union has not yet been scheduled as a discressed union, and the Local Government Board is to be asked to have the Union scheduled in order to procure seed for the small farmers. Some of the guardians complain that they are besieged by the ten-ants asking for relief in any shape. The

THE DUBLIN "FREEMAN" AND THE PREMIER OF THE DOMINION.

Ottawa Citizen, March 25.

The Dublin Freeman's Journal is owned and edited by the Right Hon. Dwyer Gray, son of the late Sir John Gray, the present Lord Mayor of the Irish metro-polis, and member of Parliament for county Tipperary. It is one of the ablest and most influential papers in Ire-land. On account of the judgment and moderation displayed in the management, the Freeman, forty years ago—then under the control of Sir John Gray, a Prostestant - became the accepted organ and mouthpiece of the Catholic hierarchy and laity of Ireland. It is gratifying to find that our Dublin confrere appreciates so highly the grant made by the Dominion Government in aid of the prevalent dis-tress in Ireland, and also to find that the ervices of Sir John Macdonald in conceiving and carrying out this measure of relief, are properly estimated. The Free-man of the 10th instant says.— "It is already known to our reader that, pursuant to the message of His Excellency the Governor-General to the Dominion Parliament, a grant of $100,000 was passed, by joint resolution to the House of Commons and the Senate, on Friday, 20th ultimo, to aid Ireland in her dire distress. The amount was voted in advance of the ordinary estimates in order that the relief should be made available for distribution as soon as possible. The sum contributed by the Canadian Govern-ment is all the more acceptable, and should be regarded as munificent, when we take into account the fact that it has been donated in the face of a falling revenue donated in the face of a falling revenue— nearly $2,000,000 of a deficit being an-nounced. This enchances the value of the gift, and will cause it to be more highly appreciated by those for whose benefit it is intended. There is another circumstance connected with the action of the Canadian Government upon this matter, which is deserving of mention. We refer to the perfect unanimity with which the proposition in the Royal Speech to extend aid to Ireland was received in both branches of Parliament S. C. C. C. C. C. having been expressed, a generous rivalry in favor of a prompt and liberal contribution appears to have been exhibited by Commoners and Senators alike. While commoners and Senators and Re. White the suffering people of Ireland desire to express their gratitude to the Govern-ment and people of Canada for this timely measure of assistance, their thanks is specially due to the Premier, Sir John Macdonald. We are assured, upon ald. We are assured, upon authority, that it was he who, in the first place, conceived the benevol-ent project of introducing a clause into the Speech from the Throne relating to the distress in Ireland, thereby making the relief a Ministerial measure, and, secondly, it was be who, by his political strength, and influence, succeeded in ob-taining the concurrence of Parliament. We hope Sir John will visit Dublin, at least, when again on this side of the

Atlantic. A SPARTAN MOTHER.

A strong example of a mother's love was witnessed recently in the court room at Missoulian, Montana. Mrs. Adele Tabeau, who, at the advanced age of near seventy years, this season crossed the Cour d'Alenes over a rough, rocky trail, to be present at her daughter's trial for the murder of M. Drouillard, is a regular attendant on the court. She is tall and stately, and as she comes in and takes her place behind her daughter, is the cynosure ceyes. A dramatic scene took last Monday when the prisoner was called to answer the charge against her. She hesitated, and the old lady leaned over and said in a low voice, but perfectly audible throughout the hushed court room: "Tell the truth, my daughter, if it takes you to the scaffold!" A thrill of admiration pas-sed over the spectators, and the judge found it necessary to say: "Mr. Sheri't, keep order in the court."

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will pre from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.
