CONGENIAL GATHERING. On Friday evening a banquet was given to the members of the night school class, which has been conducted during the past winter by Mr. R. R. Jarvis, Principal of the Bell View School. Among the honored guests who sat at the banquet table with the boys were Dr. Linscott and Mr. Robert Henry, two of the trustees. Mr. Jarvis very ably presided at the head of the table and afterwards called on the trustees present to say a few words of counsel and encouragement. The boys took this opportunity of showing their great appreciation of their teacher, Mr. Jarvis, by presenting him with a gold-headed umbrella. The address was read by Mr. Allan Bell, the presentation being made by Mr. Clarence Westcott. Mr. Jarvis replied in a very appropriate manner. This was followed by various contests. The prize winners were Lloyd Croley and Frank Grandall.

A very pleasant evening was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

DIFFICULTIES OF WIRELESS RETARD TEXT Berlin's Message of Regret is Being Delayed. By Special Wire to the Courier. Washington, May 11.—Count Bernstorff, the German ambassador to-day accepting as authentic the text of Germany's formal expression of regret for the loss of Americans on the Lusitania, which was received in last night's news despatches formally presented the statement to-day to the state department. The official text has not yet reached the embassy because of difficulties of wireless communication. The president said he would make a decision on the policy to be followed in the Lusitania case as soon as he had all the elements in mind. For the present he had nothing to add, he said, to his statement of last Saturday night, which was that he was considering "very earnestly, but very calmly, the right course of action to pursue," and that he knew the country would want him to act with deliberation as well as with firmness. The president made it clear that he was expressing a personal attitude and not referring to any specific cases. That led to the belief in many quarters that the president had not reached a decision in the Lusitania case and was speaking his personal feelings as to the ideal the United States should have in this situation as well as other phases of the world wide war. It was taken that he was endeavoring to explain broadly that the United States should seek to serve the cause of humanity by using its influence to secure an adherence to the rules and principles of international law wherever they have been contravened. Although the general trend of comment was one of surprise at the limitation which the president placed to-day on the interpretation of his speeches, those who have followed his speeches closely, pointed out that Mr. Wilson has frequently spoken implicitly rather than explicitly. At the usual hour, the cabinet arrived for the first conference with the president since last Friday. Whether the president would serve on the Lusitania tragedy, or wait until he had gathered further facts, was something which none of the secretaries themselves seem to know. Chairman Stone of senate foreign relations committee, discussed the Lusitania disaster with the president before the cabinet meeting began and later said he had no expectation that an extra session of congress would be called. "I am for peace with honor," said Senator Stone. "I do not know what the president plans to do about the Lusitania. It is his problem and it is useless for others to attempt to advise him." Senator La Follette, another White House caller to-day, opposed the suggestion that diplomatic relations with Germany be broken off. "I am for peace," said Senator La Follette. "I want the United States to take a firm stand, but I am opposed to war."

CATHOLIC CHURCH AND THE BIBLE

Splendid Lecture by Father Gillis at Paris.

The lecture last night at the Sacred Heart Church, Paris, was on "The Catholic Church and the Bible." Father Gillis, the lecturer, explained that it was his purpose to demonstrate the fact that the Catholic Church is and always has been a stalwart defender of the Sacred Scriptures.

The legend has gone forth, he said, and has been widely circulated for some four hundred years—ever since the days of Martin Luther—that the Catholic Church hates and forbids the Bible. But a few historical facts will easily dispose of that calumny.

To begin with, the Catholic Church, before the advent of Protestantism, had, for some centuries, an almost undivided authority. During the several hundred years of Catholic religious supremacy, the Church might have disposed of the Scriptures, had she so desired. But she did not, the Catholic Church with greatest solicitude, and at a cost of almost incredible labor, gathered and perpetuated and propagated the Scriptures. Before the invention of printing, let it be remembered, every copy of a book had to be written out word for word by hand. To have even the least idea of what you owe to the Church, and to the much despised "lazy" monks of the middle ages, sit down and begin at the first line of Genesis, write every word to the end of Revelations. Then remember that in the monasteries precisely this process was in vogue for centuries. Little armies of copyists employed constantly, who labored not only indefatigably, but lovingly over the Scriptures, producing the most beautiful and wonderful of manuscripts. How then can this fact be reconciled with the theory that the Catholic Church hated and banned the Bible. Furthermore when printing was invented some 60 years before the beginning of the "Reformation," the first presses were kept busy producing bibles. In almost every language in Europe, German, French, Dutch, Italian, Bohemian and others there were in all 541 editions of the Bible, in whole or in part, produced in that short period of the middle ages, 1455 and 1517. And all this was before Protestantism was heard of.

And in modern times, every Pope has approved and blessed the reading of the Bible. Even the present Pope in his short reign has approved the multitudinous cares thrust upon him by the year, has found time to write to the Cardinal Protector of a society for the propagation of the Scriptures in Italy.

"We desire that the book of the Holy Gospels be found in every family and that all Christians should cultivate the habit of reading a passage each day so as to live in a worthy manner, and that the Holy Scriptures be agreeable to God in all things for it is too true that all evils and errors arise from ignorance of the Gospels and failure to practice it."

And this letter of the present Pope is only the United States, but that does not mean that every reader is authorized to interpret any one of these documents. The interpretation if for the lawfully appointed judiciary. Likewise, the Catholic church while permitting and encouraging the reading of the sacred documents of the Bible, denies that any church member has either the power or the divine right to declare the meaning of the Scriptures. Indeed, the Bible itself declares that it is impossible for the ordinary individual to interpret the Scriptures properly. "For there are many things hard to be understood, which the unlearned and the unstable wrest to their own destruction." (II Peter iii: 15)

And, as a matter of fact, precisely that has happened. The melancholy and disastrous divisions of Christendom, which threatens to ruin Christianity, have been produced by the wakening of that principle. All who profess the Christian religion should be united—"united we stand, divided we fall." But the union of Christendom is impossible if every Christian is authorized to make his own religion out of the Bible. Every document, human or divine, to be effective, must have an authorized interpreter. We maintain that the interpreter is the church founded by Jesus Christ. The Divine Authority of that Church will be the subject of the lecture to-morrow night.
