THE DEEMSTER.

Big Motion Picture Production in Nine Parts coming to the Nickel Theatre, Monday and Tuesday, March 25th and 26th.

The Deemster is the most powerful dramatic story written by Hall Caine. The locale of its scenes is the Isle of Man.
The time of its action is the early eighteenth century. Its motive is law and statement.

Daniel Mylrea is the son of the Bishop of Man, the hereditary baron of the isle, whose temporary power is higher even than that of the Deemster, or governor. The Bishop desires Dan to take orders, but he prefers to become a fisherman. The Deemster of Man has a son and a daughter. Dan and Mona are in love. She consents to marry him when he can obtain her father's consent. Ewan, her brother, becomes a clegymen in the face of his father's insistence that he take up business as a vocation.

The Deemster opposes Dan's suit because he has fallen from his high estate as the son of the Bishop and become a fisherman. His dislike turns to open hatred when Dan endeavors to borrow money from Ewan to pay off the crew of his boat.
Dan has squandered his earnings in drink. Ewan refuses Dan the loan who makes him a bitter enemy by knocking him down on his taunt that squan-dering money in drink is as bad as theft.

The Deemster forbids Mona to see Dan. He meets her clandestinely at night. While these meetings are innocent her father uses them to inflame Ewan's mind against Dan by leading him to believe his sister has been dishonored. Arming himself with a knife Ewan seeks Dan at his hut and finds him mending nets. He attacks Dan and in the conflict falls backward over a cliff and is killed.

Dan's crew takes Ewan's body to sea and sinks it. The tides wash it ashore and the death of Ewan is revealed. Dan confesses the truth and is committed to jail. The Bishop gives him an opportunity to escape.
He refuses to go feeling that he must atone for his sin.

Dan is tried on Tynwald Hill, the ancient law mound, before his own father as the supreme judge of the island, who, to escape from sentencing him to death on the gallows, decrees that he shall be cut off from his people—none to speak to him, none to minister to him if ill, and none to bury him in death.

For seven years Dan lives alone in a hut by the sea. Then a plague strikes the people of Man. The Bishop has learned of a monk in Ireland who has discovered an antidote for the pestilence and sends for him. The monk comes on a vessel which is wrecked on the shore near Dan's desolate hut.
He dies in Dan's arms who then dons his garb and carries the antidote to the people.

When there is but one powder of the antidote left, Dan learns that the Deemster is a victim of the plague. When the faces his enemy to minister to him, he finds himself stricken. Either he or the Deemster must die.
Revealing himself to the Deem-ster he elects to die himself.
Giving the Deemster the healing powder he staggers away to his hut. He is followed by Mona, and dies in her arms.

The prices of admission will be: Adults 25cts., Children 15c.

DIED.

William H. Sturk.

The death of William H.
Sturk took place at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Walter R. Dickie Hillaton, on the 26th day of February at the age of 71 years.

Mr. Sturk came to Canning when a young man and married Eliza Blenkhorn, daughter of the late James Blenkhorn and lived in Canning until his wife's death two years ago.

Mr. Sturk had been in failing health about four years, the last eight months he was confined to the house.

He spent one year with his daughter, Mrs. Smith of Diligent River, Cumb. Co. returning to Hillaton last August gradually failing until the end came as a great relief.

He was consistent member of Canning Methodist Church being a member of the Trustee Board for some years.

Burial at Hillaton Cemetery by Independent order of Egresters of which he was a member.

He leaves to mourn the loss of a kind and loving father, John of Roland, Manitoba.
Mrs. James Smith, Diligent River, Cumb. Co. Mrs. (Dy)
Stanley Spicer of Brooklyn, N.
Y. and Mrs. Walter Dickie
