PIONEER OPENING

In Millinery at the William Gordon Store.

Magnificent Display—A Glance About the Establishment Generally.

The pioneer millinery opening in the Gordon store is marked by the removal of the long and favorably known millinery establishment of Miss Cathcart to the William Gordon premises, the proprietor having secured large apartments on the second floor for her work, and also roomed on the ground floor, with everything complete to ensure success, so far as ample light, abundant room for the movement of customers, and fine creations in hats, could do so. The millinery opening was at the rear of the ground floor, with everything complete to ensure success, so far as ample light, abundant room for the movement of customers, and fine creations in hats, could do so. The millinery opening was at the rear of the ground floor, with everything complete to ensure success, so far as ample light, abundant room for the movement of customers, and fine creations in hats, could do so.

On the centre counter are placed new styles of silks, cord, hem-stitched taffetas, and please silk. This store carries the largest stock of dress goods, lower priced, medium and highest quality to suit all customers, as it caters for all classes. In the dress goods department, we see French home-spun, Vigoureux, chink chevrons, prunella cloth, Zibeline, astrachan and camel's hair plaids and French flannels in beauty and variety.

The ladies' coat department is well-known as being a central attraction all over the country, since it receives the latest New York styles, such as automobiles, new box coats and Newmarket. Stylish gowns, ranging from $5 to $10 and are very enticing. Our reporter could scarcely tear himself away from the fur department, which, indeed was an exhibition complete in itself, and surpassed all expectations, as was remarked by all who visited the store. It is well lighted up and managed by an experienced foreman. Seal jackets run from $25 up to the hundred. Russian sables, chinchilla, black and grey, Astrachan, marlines, grey fox, mink, bear and lynx, are called in requisition by the decrees of fashion. Fur-lined cloaks, capes are very noisy. Combings of seal and mink, fox and Astrachan and Persian lamb and seal are among the triumphs of the Gordon store. They also keep the skins so that ladies can have their furs repaired when damaged. They keep a nice line of babies' carriage rugs.

The season was unfavorable for furs, yet the sales from this store have been very far in advance of last season. They keep ladies' and gentlemen's mitts and gauntlets. The reporter left this scene of enchantment, music and tasteful decorations feeling that, owing to the immense area of floor space and variety of contents to be examined, it was difficult to do justice to it in a single visit.

Celon and India have lately commenced production of green tea, which is said by experts to be the most delicious green tea which has ever been made by any country in the world. These green teas resemble the very finest Japan teas, but are very much stronger and therefore are more economical in use, and what is better than this, they are entirely without artificial coloring. Which no Japan tea is, it always being colored with Prussian blue. You can get Green Celon and India Tea from your grocer, if you ask for "SALADA" Green Tea, in sealed lead packets.

Two very pretty ceremonies were solemnized at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. FAUST ON MONDAY.

Next Monday evening at the Grand Opera House John Griffith's masterly presentation of Mephisto in Goethe's immortal story of "Faust" will be seen. It has been said that few actors who have attempted to perform the role of Mephisto are so fittingly equipped as Mr. Griffith, who being possessed of unusual physical gifts, a robust voice, and a magnetic manner, gives an intelligent and accurate conception of the character. Manager Al Caldwell has staged the production magnificently, the famous Brockton magnifying its remarkable electrical effects being a marvelous piece of stage mechanism.

TRIP TO COONTOWN.

Yesterday's Woodstock Sentinel-Review says concerning to-night's attraction at the Grand: A good house renewed old friendship with a Trip to Coontown last night, and were glad they did it. The show is several years old in name and in the general make-up, but so many new features have been introduced that its age is no drawback. It stands, too, almost alone in one respect. It is absolutely clean, and there have been few comedies in Woodstock so entirely free from vulgarity. A colored troupe are always magnetic in the way they enter into the spirit of a thing, and in their hearty enjoyment of their own feats. The Coontown Co. are a collection of exceedingly clever people, and the two stars, Bob Cole and Billy Johnson, are fit to head them. Cole, as a tramp, has never been surpassed, and Johnson plays Mr. Flamm in manner and life. The choruses were strong and well balanced, the singing of the best, and the dancing was done as only Murphy and Slater can do it. Perhaps the greatest triumph of the evening was scored by Lloyd G. Gibbs, with his solo, "Holy City," in which his glorious tenor voice found ample scope. Sam Rastus as his son, made the stars look to their laurels, and the latter's tumbling was superb. Of the feminine cast, Edna Alexander, the soprano, was the best, and following her was Bessie Banks, who has decided talent. Theresa Bluford was easily first in point of appearance, but most of the company were all right in that respect. The specialties were excellent, the scenery fully up to the standard, and the whole tone of the show was good. Some parts have been cut out, and the original scene was hardly as elaborate as last year, but nobody regretted repeating their visit to Coontown.

LITERARY NOTES.

McCLURE'S FOR OCTOBER.

The October of McClure's opens with an article on "The Strategy of National Campaigns," attractively illustrated by Jay Hambridge. The frontispiece, showing Governor Roosevelt and Senator Hanna in conference at Republican National Headquarters, and the strikingly original portraits of Cleveland, Blaine, Quay, Crocker, Bryan and others, lend special interest to this paper on the tactics of party managers in the Presidential campaign of the past twenty-five years. The author has been in the thick of the fight and has evidently been brought very closely in contact with the great leaders in the battle which he describes.

MAILING A MAGAZINE.

Eighteen men, aided by the fastest mailing appliances, are kept on a rush every month, getting "The Ladies' Home Journal" off to its subscribers. The first shipments are started about the middle of each month, and from that time until the twenty-fifth of the magazine pours out of the Journal's publishing office by the two-horse-draw load. On the twenty-fifth of each month every Journal has reached its destination, and work in the mailing department slackens for a few days. Some idea of the tremendous size of the Journal's subscription list may be gained when it is known that forty tons of mailing type are required to set up the names of subscribers. There are three quarters of a ton of each numeral, and it requires twenty thousand galleys to accommodate the subscribers' names in type. This stock would equip six or eight large daily newspapers. As many as sixty-five computers are employed setting the names of the Journal's subscribers in type—printers enough to set the type for the biggest metropolitan daily newspapers. The expenses for postage paid by the Journal approximate $75,000 a year.
