Taking him by the arm, the kind fellow led Sheridan to the door, and said:

'Wile, here be thy brother Will, safe and sound, and not drowned, as Sam Draper told us he were—and d—d that same Draper for all his evil doin's!'

Then William Sheridan felt his did sister's arms on his neck, and the associations of his youth througed up like old friends to meet him, and with them came the sweet spirit of his boy's love for Alice. They came to his heart like stormers to a city's gate, and, seeing the breach, they entered in, and took possession. For the second time that night, the strong man howed his head, and sobbed—not for a moment as before but long and bitterly, for the suppressed feelings were finding a vent at last; the bitterness of his sorrow, so long and closely shut in, was flowing freely.

Brother and sister were alone during this scene; but after a while, Mary's kind-hearted husband entered, a rug-like in the second time, and steep were lane during this scene; but after a while, Mary's kind-hearted busband entered, a rug-like in the second time, and the scene is the poor little lassie!'
