A NIGHT ATTACK.—A Bavarian officer tells the following: "One very dark night a musket shot was heard on our line of outposts. Instantly the whole camp was aroused and everybody thought that the enemy had come. But it was a false alarm. After searching the ground spot at which that shot had been fired, the commanding officers required, searched, and questioned the sentry. 'Why did you fire, sir?' 'On Francis came crawling up to me.' 'What does he want?' 'He wants to challenge his position, and what answer did he make?' 'Yes, I did, but he only said 'Out' on me' and kept coming on so I fired.' The ground in the vicinity was immediately and carefully searched, and nothing was found. 'One soldier,' says the officer, 'was discovered, mortally wounded. He was raised upon his hind legs amidst shouts of laughter, and proved to be a very fine and very wild bear!'

NOTICE.

I begin to intimate to the subscribers and members of the Weekly and Semi-Weekly, that I have sold the business and material of the same to Mr. Abraham Smith, for whom I would urge a continuance of the generous patronage extorted by the paper. I will, however, still supply my debts and credits, that I have assigned my books and book debt in trust to Mr. Abraham Smith and Mr. James Young, who alone are authorized to collect accounts and pay debts.

W. T. COX.

The subscribers, in reference to the above, would respectfully urge all who owe the Said office, for either large or small debts, to pay up to me, as little as debts are payable. Creditors are requested to send in their claims, which will be liquidated out of the collections. Creditors may depend that all diligence will be exercised in collecting accounts and settling claims.

JAMES YOUNG.
